MILL TO BE SHUT AS PROTEST AT PROCESSING TAX

Fall River (Mass.) Textile Manufacturer Asks Other Owners to Follow His Lead.

WALLACE ATTACKED ON COTTON POLICY

Legal Action to Do Away With Levy and North-South Wage Differential Proposed.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, April 16.—James Sinclair, treasurer of the Charlton Mills at Fall River and president of the Fall River Cotton Manufacturers' Association, announced today he would close his mill employing 750 workers, as a protest against the cotton processing tax. Sinclair, who yesterday declared he would rather go to jail than pay the tax, also urged other manufacturers in the North and South to follow his protest action.

The closing of the Charlton Mills next week will bring the total unemployed mill workers in New England to about 4500, textile officials estimate. This does not include those previously unemployed in textile manufacturing centers, or working only part time.

Textile manufacturers attribute the loss of jobs directly to the processing tax, Japanese importations and the North-South wage differential.

Attack on Wallace.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, who was bitterly assailed by Northern manufacturers yesterday at their Policy Committee meeting, was the target for another attack today from New Bedford and Fall River, largest textile cities in Massachusetts.

Frank J. Leary, member of the Chamber of Commerce Committee on Industrial Conditions in New Bedford, suggested that Wallace "read the Government's own literature." He pointed to a recent NRA statement which he quoted as saying: "The doubling of the price of cotton and the adding of the cotton processing tax has thrown cotton out of its usual relationship to other textiles."

Leary quoted Wallace as having said previously that the tax was in reality paid by consumers and did not affect the mills.

Frank W. Dunham, chairman of the New England Industrial Committee, issued a statement from Fall River in which he said he hoped that Secretary Wallace would take the opportunity to visit the textile communities of New England tomorrow after addressing Bowdoin College students at Brunswick, Me.

Dunham said he hoped some student would ask Wallace "how the New England textile industry can exist under the present conditions?"

Superintendent of Schools Hector L. Belisle of Fall River, today announced that 1200 junior and senior high school students would seek signatures for petitions to the President requesting relief from the tax, Japanese importations and the wage differential, in a house-to-house canvass of the city.

Legal Action Favored.

At yesterday's meeting of the Policy Committee of the National Cotton Manufacturers' Association representatives of New England, New York and Pennsylvania plants declared for legal action against the cotton processing tax. A committee of three, to be appointed later, was authorized to seek removal of the tax because "the President has definitely refused to take any steps toward relieving us of the processing tax."

A committee of five was authorized under another resolution to seek to equalize the wage differential between North and South, now estimated at $2.56 a week a worker, inasmuch as the cotton textile code authority and the President" have failed to act.

Southern Mill Men Say Wage Differential Is Not Issue.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 16.—Southern textile owners generally applaud the militant fight of the Northern mills against the cotton processing tax, but they say poor judgment was used in bringing in the sectional wage differential.

"The New England men are doing good work in putting the fire under Roosevelt and Wallace, but they

MUNICIPAL GAS SYSTEM URGED BY DETROIT MAYOR

Frank Couzens Appeals to City Council After Privately Owned Company Announces Rate Increase.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., April 16.—Mayor Frank Couzens asked the City Council yesterday to initiate steps to enable Detroit to operate its own gas distributing system.

Mayor Couzens' proposal was made at a special meeting of the council, attended by officials of communities throughout the Detroit metropolitan area, served by the privately-operated Detroit City Gas.

The company recently announced a rate increase fixing the charge for domestic consumption at 83 cents a thousand cubic feet. Two years ago it lowered the rate from 79 to 77 cents.

Couzens told the council that the company "enjoyed during the depression years the privilege of distributing large dividends and interest payments on its capital." The company said the increase was essential to operation at a profit.

Referring to the campaign that preceded municipal ownership of the street railway system, the Mayor said: "It is not my intention that the city shall go through another 30-year fight for ownership of a public utility."

John W. Smith, president of the City Council, concurred in the Mayor's plan. He said he would introduce a resolution to commit the city to municipal ownership. The proposal would be submitted to a vote and, if approved, a committee would be named to negotiate with the gas company to take over its holdings. If an agreement could not be reached the city could build its own system, Smith said.

The franchise of the gas company expired in 1923. Since then it has operated on a day-to-day agreement which the city contends can be terminated at any time.

Mayor Couzens is a son of Senator James Couzens, who 20 years ago, when Mayor, advocated municipal ownership of the street car lines.

10-INCH SNOW, 20 ABOVE ZERO IN WEST VIRGINIA

By the Associated Press.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 16. Snow reaching a depth of 10 inches in some sections—today buried blooming flower gardens and blossoming fruit trees in West Virginia. Temperatures dropped sharply during a storm that reached blizzard proportions in some Southern West Virginia districts. In Charleston, tulip beds on the State House lawn were covered with snow.

Decides it Would Result in False Feeling of Safety in Event of Air Raid.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, April 16.—The Government commission which investigated the problems of protection against air raids, advised today against issuing gas masks to the public, and recommended that the populace resort to the greater safety of higher floors of building instead of going to cellars.

The commission decided that general issuance of gas masks was impracticable because of the cost and difficulties in training the people. Such training would create a false feeling of safety, it said.

The report recommended special instruction for police, fire, sanitary and salvage services and exemption for these services from military mobilization.

RODEO IN RED, EYES OF PROMOTER BLACK

John G. Phiambolis Says He Was Hit by Mistake— Cowboy Gives Version.

John G. Phiambolis, manager and promoter of the Child Conservation Conference milk fund rodeo which ended Sunday night, from a bed at his home, 7255 Tulane avenue, University City, discussed today the circumstances under which he got two black eyes and the financial liability for the show which ended well in the red. Both subjects are matters of controversy with the cowboys who performed at the rodeo.

Phiambolis, wearing dark glasses, said bruises and scratches across his nose were the result of his accidentally coming between "two drunken cowboys" who were settling a personal dispute after the closing performance at the Coliseum.

Junior Caldwell of Fort Worth, Tex., said the cowboy that aimed the blows which struck the promoter was known for loading his punches where he wanted them.

The trouble, Caldwell said, occurred after the close of the show when Phiambolis called the performers in to tell why all of the prize money was not available. Only $480 of the $2600 due had been paid contestants, according to Caldwell.

'ONLY GOD AND ROOSEVELT KNOW WHAT IT IS ABOUT'

Comment of Chinese Banker on United States Silver Price Policy.

SHANGHAI, April 16.—Dr. T. V. Soong, chairman of the board of the Bank of China, said today of the United States silver price policy: "Only God and Roosevelt know what it is all about."

Dr. Soong said the outflow of silver from the country had been satisfactorily curbed, for the time being, through co-operation or foreign bankers operating in China.

Following the agreement between Soong and the foreign financiers Sunday, the silver dollar has continued to advance, reaching 40.75 to the United States dollar today.

6 RUSSIAN THIEVES EXECUTED BY ORDER OF WOMAN JUDGE

"Hammer Robber" and Five of His Band Broke Into 86 Apartments and Killed Policeman.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, April 16.—Alexander Laferoff, the "hammer robber," and five of his band were executed today by order of the woman judge, Vera Kireieva.

Laferoff's sentence was the fourteenth death decree pronounced by the woman judge since last month.

The hammer robber, who gained his name by arming himself with a hammer and a revolver, was convicted with five members of his band of breaking into 86 apartments in the last three years and fatally shooting a policeman.

Legislators' Pay Increase Bill.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 16.—By a vote of 94 to 12, the House passed today Senator M. E. Casey's resolution which would increase legislators' salaries to $125 a month. The proposal would have to be approced by the voters of Missouri in the 1936 general election. Legislators now receive $5 a day for the first 70 days and $1 a day until adjournment.

BART DAVIT TRIAL PUT OFF; LAWYER IN LEGISLATURE

STATE LAW GIVES COURT NO CHOICE

Filing of Senator Ray Mabee's Entry Is First Mention of Him as Defense Attorney.

The trial of Bart Davit in the Kelley kidnaping case, scheduled to begin this morning before Circuit Judge Nolte at Clayton, was continued for the term, ending May 5, after the name of State Senator Ray Mabee of Unionville was formally entered as defendant's counsel.

Verne R. C. Lacy, defense lawyer who had told the Court and Prosecuting Attorney Anderson yesterday that he would be ready for trial this morning, filed Mabee's entry of appearance, and with it an application for a continuance until 10 days after the adjournment of the General Assembly.

Based on section 938, Revised Statutes of Missouri, the application set out that Mabee, a resident of Putnam County, was of counsel, that his presence in court was necessary to "a fair and proper trial," and that the delay prescribed by the statute for cases where lawyers are members of the General Assembly should be granted.

Filing of Mabee's entry was the first public appearance of the State Senator in connection with the Kelley kidnaping case.

Court Has No Choice.

After the application had been filed, Judge Nolte pointed out to counsel that he had no choice but to grant the continuance, in view of the unequivocal wording of the law. He deferred the continuance order for two hours, at the request of Prosecuting Attorney Anderson, until it was determined by a telephone call from County Clerk Smith of Putnam County that Mabee was in good standing as a lawyer and had paid his $3 bar-enrollment fee.

Mabee was the second member of the General Assembly on whose membership in the State law-making body the defense in the Kelley case has sought a continuance. State Representative Edgar J. Keating of Kansas City entered his appearance as attorney for Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench, another defendant, on the eve of her scheduled trial date last February, and on that basis the defense obtained a continuance for her until 10 days after adjournment of the Legislature.

Mrs. Muench's trial, docketed for yesterday, was reset for May 13. It was understood that When Davit's case again comes up, when the May term docket is called May 6, the trial will be set for a date after that assigned for the beginning of the Muench trial.

Lacy Files Application.

When court convened Attorney Lacy stepped forward and filed Mabee's entry of appearance and the application for a continuance.

The application, similar in wording to that filed in the Muench case, set out that Mabee was of counsel for Davit, that his presence was necessary to "a fair and proper trial" and that, under the law, the case should be continued, since he was now busy in attendance on the General Assembly.

Prosecuting Attorney Anderson, on crutches as a result of injuries suffered in an assault last October, immediately objected, on the ground that there was no showing Mabee was a member of the bar in good standing.

"And we were definitely assured yesterday afternoon by Mr. Lacy," Associate Prosecuting Attorney Wolfe added, "that he would be ready today."

"I told the State that as far as I was concerned there was no reason why the trial should not proceed," Lacy rejoined. "But when I left here the defendant's wife called me and told me to come over, that she wanted to see me. I went over and she told me that Mr. Mabee had been retained."

Lacy continued that in response to Mrs. Davit's instructions he went to the Clayton office of Philip Foley, also of counsel for Davit, and there met Senator Mabee.

"I was told there that the Senator had been retained," he said.

DETECTIVES POSE AS SERVANTS, FOIL BLACKMAIL PLOT

FAKED PICTURE USED IN SCHEME

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Detectives disguised as servants yesterday trapped two alleged blackmailers who had tried to victimize the wife of a wealthy broker. They confessed, implicating a third man.

Mrs. George U. Harris, the intended victim, aided the detectives in setting their trap for capturing the men as they left her home with a book supposed to contain $5000, the price demanded for withholding a faked photograph from her husband.

Lieut. Charles E. J. Newman, head of the bomb squad, said the prisoners had named the third man being sought by New Jersey police. The two confessed again in police line-up today.

Police said that a letter, similar in typewriting and handlettering, and containing a similar composite photograph, had been sent to Mrs. James H. R. Cromwell, the former Doris Duke, last fall. It demanded $25,000 but was not paid—the blackmailers escaped.

Lieut. Newman said Charles M. O'Malley, certified as a court expert on type and typewriter, had definitely asserted the same typewriter had been used to write the letters to Mrs. Cromwell and to Mrs. Harris.

Third Man Was Brains.

Lieut. Newman said the third man was the brains of the plot. He was reported to be a photographer and a former employe of the Harrises. It was he, Lieut. Newman said, who prepared a composite photograph by pasting a face photograph of Mrs. Harris to that of a figure in another photograph, resulting in a picture placing Mrs. Harris in a compromising position.

Mrs. Harris, daughter of Leroy Baldwin, president of the Empire Trust Co., received the letter demanding the $5000 at the Fifth avenue home of her mother-in-law April 8. Mrs. Harris showed the letter to her husband immediately and police were notified. It was typewritten and unsigned, but the envelope was addressed in handwriting and on the reverse side was written, "Return to G. Clarke, Tuxedo Park." The Harris' maintain homes at Tuxedo Park, N. Y., Palm Beach, Fla., and on East Seventieth street.

The police trap was immediately set, Mrs. Harris remaining at her mother-in-law's home. One detective became her chauffeur, two detectives were stationed in the house to watch any loiterers on Central Park benches across the street, and another was stationed outside. A fifth detective became the butler in the Harris' East Seventieth street home.

Instructions by Phone.

During the week Mrs. Harris, who once owned a racing stable, received general telephone calls from "Clarke." She was instructed to put the money in a book and take it to the Seventieth street house at 10 a. m. yesterday. Her detective chauffeur drove her to the house and she left the package with the butler.

Detectives became suspicious of two men seated on a bench opposite the Baldwin house. The men trailed the automobile when it left for Seventieth street and were themselves trailed by police. After seeing the package delivered by Mrs. Harris they parted, returning at 1 p. m.

One of them rang the bell and asked for a package for Clarke. It was handed to him by Detective-Butler George E. McCartney. As they departed the detectives arrested them.

They identified themselves as Arthur Ulisse, 24, a laborer, and Dominick Pilotti, 25, also a laborer. The doorman at the Baldwin home identified Pilotti as the man who delivered the letter.

ELECTED JURORS GIVE WOMAN DEATH SENTENCE FOR MURDER

Housekeeper, 20, Convicted Under Old French Laws for Killing Man on Guernsey Island.

By the Associated Press.

SAINT PETER PORT, Guernsey Island, April 16.—Gertrude Elizabeth Delamare, 20 years old, first woman to be tried for murder on this little Channel island, was convicted today and sentenced to death for cutting the throat of her employer with a bread knife. She was tried by a jury chosen in popular election, and serving for life, as provided under ancient French law. A majority vote is required for death sentence.

The defendant had served Alfred Brouard, 76-year-old farmer, as a housekeeper for eight shillings (approximately $2) a week.

The bailiff donned a black bonnet to pronounce the sentence of death by hanging. In front of the bench on which the "jurats" were seated was the bed on which the murdered farmer was found.

The defendant, hearing the sentence with bowed head, commented, "I am quite prepared to face God, because I know I have not done it."

CHIEF CLERK UNDER LATE C. U. BECKER KILLS SELF

R. C. Donaldson of Jefferson City Said to Have Been Worried Over Financial Affairs.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 16.—R. C. (Dick) Donaldson, 49 years old, who served as chief clerk in the office of the late Charles U. Becker, three-term Secretary of State, shot and killed himself at his home here today.

Friends of Donaldson, who was one of Becker's closest political associates, said he had worried over financial affairs.

A sister, Marjorie Donaldson, also a former employe in Becker's office, found the body. There was a bullet wound in the head.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. R. H. Donaldson, with whom he made his home, and two daughters —Mary, at home, and Mrs. John Tumino of Kansas City.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, April 16.—Col. Frank M. Kennedy, commandant of Scott Field, near Belleville, Ill., and Lieut. William L. Ritchie, also of Scott Field, arrived here yesterday by automobile, after having been forced down by a dust storm near Ogden, Utah, while en route by airplane to San Francisco.

JOBLESS FLYER ENDS LIFE IN CEMETERY

Unemployed since last September, George L. Hays, an airplane pilot, ended his life yesterday afternoon by shooting himself in the temple in a clump of bushes in Valhalla Cemetery, 7600 St. Charles road. He was 31 years old.

Hays, a graduate of Soldan High School who got his transport license in 1929 after training in commercial schools at Lambert-St. Louis Field, had been living at 5851 Plymouth avenue with his wife and his mother, Mrs. W. H. Hayes.

When they returned to the apartment yesterday afternoon after a shopping trip downtown, they found notes from Hays indicating that he was going to end his life.

"Flying was my life and I wouldn't be happy doing anything else," he wrote in the note to his mother. "Just think of me as being on a long flight."

"I have tried," he said in the note to his wife, Mrs. Mozelle Hays, "but I guess it isn't in the cards. My heart is eaten out and I can't go on like this . . . I would prefer cremation and the ashes scattered. Please, no coffin, flowers or service. Just a minimum of expense and get it over with.

"Stay with mother for a while, anyway. You have been a real pal and deserve far greater happiness than I can give you."

Hays' first job after leaving school was as co-pilot on Universal Aviation Corporations St. Louis-Chicago run. When American Airways took over the line the new company transferred him to the Dallas-El Paso run. He was dropped when commercial airmail contracts were canceled by executive order, but took another job on a line operating between Galveston and Amarillo. He worked there until last September, when he was released. He had not since been able to find a job.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Drehmann-Harral mortuary, 1905 Union boulevard, with interment in Valhalla Cemetery.

Bernard Shaw at Mombasa.

MOMBASA, Kenya, Africa, April 16.—George Bernard Shaw arrived today in good spirits. He said he had recovered from the cold he contracted en route aboard the S. S. Llangibby Castle. "Mombasa is attractive, but hot," he said. "The water I bathed in was hot enough to boil an egg."

LAVAL SUBMITS RESOLUTION TO THE COUNCIL

Confronted With Strong Opposition by Poland and Denmark, but Supported by Spokesmen for London and Rome.

MEETING ADJOURNS UNTIL TOMORROW

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)

GENEVA, April 16.—France, Great Britain and Italy submitted to the extraordinary Council session of the League of Nations today the draft of a resulution condemning "any unilateral repudiation of international obligations" such as Germany's repudiation of the armament clauses of the Versailles Treaty.

Pierre Laval, Foreign Minister of France, faced with opposition to the resolution by several nations, notably Poland and Denmark, received strong support of spokesmen for Great Britain and Italy when he presented the resolution to the Council.

Text of the Resolution.

The text of the resolution follows:

The Council, considering firstly that the scrupulous respect of all treaty obligations is a fundamental principle of international life and an essential condition to the maintenance of peace:

Secondly, that it is an essential principle of the law of nations that no power can liberate itself from the engagements of a treaty, nor modify the stipulations thereof unless with the consent of the other contracting parties;

Fifthly, this unilateral action, by introducing a new disturbing element into the international situation must necessarily appear to be a threat to European security;

Additional Considerations.

Considering, on the other hand:

Sixthly, the British Government and the French Government, with the approval of the Italian Government, had communicated to the German Government as early as Feb. 3 a plan for a general settlement to be freely negotiated for the organization of the security of Europe and for a general limitation of armaments in a system of equality of rights, while insuring the active co-operation of Germany and the League of Nations;

Seventhly, and that unilateral action of Germany, above referred to, was not only inconsistent with this plan, but was taken at a time when negotiations actually were being pursued:

Three Declarations.

1. Declares Germany has failed in the duty which lies upon all members of the international community to respect undertakings which they have contracted and condemns any unilateral repudiation of international obligations;

2. Invites the Governments which took the initiative in the plan of Feb. 3 or which gave approval to it to continue the negotiations so initiated and, in particular, to promote the conclusion within the framework of the League of Nations of agreements which appear necessary to attain the objects defined by this plan, due account being taken of the obligations of the Covenant (of the League of Nations) with a

HARRISON BONUS BILL PROVIDES FOR PAYMENT IN 1938

ADOPTION WOULD REMOVE 1936 ISSUE

Compromise Supported by Some in Congress Who Want to Get on Record as Friends of Ex-Soldiers.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Chairman Harrison of the Senate Finance Committee announced today that he would not introduce his own veterans' bonus bill until tomorrow. While not yet labeled an administration measure, it was drafted after Harrison had conferred with President Roosevelt.

Whether or not intentionally designed for political purposes, the Harrison bill, so far as disclosed, will fit nicely into the next presidential campaign and Harrison's own candidacy for re-election in 1936. It is deliberately designed to stop the Patman inflationary bonus bill which was passed by the House by an overwhelming majority and which would pass the Senate by at least a fair majority unless an acceptable substitute was forthcoming from the White House or a recognized administration spokesman.

Compromise Measure.

The text of the Harrison bill has not been made public, but it is known to be a compromise of the American Legion's demand for immediate payment of the full face value of the veterans' adjusted service certificates and the insistence of other groups that the veterans should wait until 1945 for their bonus.

The Harrison bill provides for full payment of the face value of the certificates in 1938. In the meantime, the veterans would receive negotiable Government bonds, perhaps something like the present Treasury "baby bonds," which would be turned into the Treasury or sold to banks at a discount. The negotiable feature of the bonds would permit needy veterans to get about 85 or 90 per cent of their bonds at once. The remaining 10 or 15 per cent would go to the purchasers of the bonds.

The maturity date of 1938 has interesting political possibilities. Harrison has announced that the President will sign his bill if it is approved by Congress. Enactment of such a law at this session would take the bonus issue out of the next session of Congress—when all of the House and one-third of the Senate are doing the spade work for their re-election—and would permit President Roosevelt and other Democrat candidates to go before the country in 1936 as the effective friends of the service men.

It is known that President Roosevelt is afraid if the veterans get the full value of the service certificates within the next few years, the drive for pensions will be started. With the certificates maturing in 1938, President Roosevelt—if reelected—could ignore the early demands for pensions and leave the problem to his successor, who will be elected in 1940.

The Harrison bill has already found favor with some Senators, particularly those who have voted against bonus bills. These Senators now want to vote for some sort of bill in order to get into the good graces of the veterans. The fact that Harrison himself is a candidate for re-election in 1936 and is facing serious opposition from Huey Long of Louisiana has made several Senators quite cynical.

Thomas Is Against It.

The bill will meet opposition from the Senate monetary bloc. Senator Elmer Thomas (Dem.) of Oklahoma declared today that he and nine other Senators after a conference last night agreed to support the Patman bill, which calls for the printing of about $2,300,000,000 in "greenbacks" to pay off the certificates. He said this group had decided to make the proposed bonus legislation the vehicle for their own monetary proposals. This group, however, has been unsuccessful in many of its efforts to obtain enactment of major monetary measures. The administration has given in just enough to deprive this group of many of its most popular talking points.

Harrison insists that the immediate cost of his bill would be only about $500,000,000 to $700,000,000. He arrives at this figure by deducting the loans already made on the bonus certificate and by assuming that about 500,000 veterans would not turn in their certificates at a discount. In 1938, however, the Treasury would be faced with the necessity of redeeming in full the bonds held by the veterans and those who had purchased them from the veterans.

There were intimations from the White House today that the President had not committed himself on a compromise bill. It is difficult to imagine, however, that Chairman Harrison of the Finance Committee, one of the administration's principal spokesmen in and out of Congress, would have drafted his present bill without some understanding with the White House.

Roosevelt Non-Committal.

Harrison completed the draft of his bill, but deferred introducing it until tomorrow. Informed that the White House was disclaiming approval of the measure,, Harrison agreed President Roosevelt had not seen the draft, but he predicted the bill would be satisfactory to the Chief Executive.

MILL TO BE SHUT AS PROTEST AT PROCESSING TAX

show poor judgment in fighting the South's differentiai," said one prominent textile owner who asked that his name not be used.

"The minimum wage in the South is $12 per week and in New England $13 per week," he said, "but the South generally furnishes mill houses and maintains these villages with all modern conveniences while in the North employes have to go out and rent houses which often are high priced."

T. M. Forbes, secretary of the Georgia Cotton Manufacturers' Association, said his office had been notified that two mills in Georgia already had been forced to close on account of market conditions and that another was preparing to close at the end of this week.

"Apparently the only way in which the tax can be eliminated will be through legal action," he said, "because Mr. Wallace (Henry) A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture) seems to have made up his mind that he is going to keep it regardless of whether, it is right or wrong."

Gov. Eugene Talmadge announced today he was getting ready to "stump" the cotton belt "to put a stop to this processing tax."

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 16.—More than 100 cotton dealers from Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Virginia and the Carolinas heard criticisms of the Government's attitude toward cotton production at the twelfth annual convention of the Atlantic Cotton Association yesterday.

William P. Jacobs, secretary of the Cotton Manufacturers' Association of South Carolina, assailed the cotton processing tax and restriction of production as stifling the textile industry and encouraging competitors against American cotton.

"After we have given way to the world in the production of cotton and cotton goods, what will we Southerners and you cotton men do for a living?" he asked.

MOTHER, 17, DIES OF BURNS SUFFERED IN HOME WEEK AGO

Clothing Was Ignited When She Used Kerosene to Kindle Fire.

Mrs. James Gardner, 17 years old, mother of a 3-month-old baby, died at City Hospital last night of burns suffered a week ago when she used kerosene to kindle a fire in a stove at her home, 1329A Park avenue.

DISMISSAL OF SUITS AGAINST CARLETON DRY GOODS CO.

$1,900,000 in Claims Growing Out of Ferguson-McKinney Loans Are Adjusted.

Ninety-five suits by banks against the Carleton Dry Goods Co., involving claims of approximately $1,900,000, were dismissed by agreement today in Circuit Judge Beck's court.

The suits grew out of loans made to the Ferguson-McKinney Manufacturing Co., now out of business, which was controlled by the late Forrest Ferguson, also head of the Carleton Dry Goods Co. It was alleged in the suits that the loans were obtained on false financial statements and that the Carleton Co. was aware of the facts and should be held responsible.

One suit in which a bank obtained a judgment for $63,938 in the Circuit Court was reversed by the State Supreme Court which held that the petition did not state a cause of action against the Carleton Co. Two other suits, besides the 95, are pending, but it is understood they will be dismissed. Attorneys said an adjustment of the claims had been made, but they would not disclose the details of it.

INFORMAL BRITISH PROTEST ON ARMS INQUIRY EVIDENCE

Stanley Baldwin in Commons Advises Against Reviving "Obsolete Controversy."

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 16.—Stanley Baldwin, Lord President of the Council, referred in the House of Commons today to the proposed United States Senate munitions inquiry with a warning of the danger in the reviving by the United States of a long-since obsolete controversy which might have an undesirable effect on the present international situation."

Baldwin's statement came in answer to a question by a member of Pariament, who asked the nature and the object of a protest by the British Ambassador in Washington against certain evidence in the inquiry.

"No official protest has been made to the United States," Baldwin replied. "The Ambassador has, however, expressed informally to the Secretary of State the hope that when consideration is given the proposal to investigate the war-time correspondence between certain United States banks in connection with the financing certain purchasing commissions by allied commissions the danger of reviving a long-since obsolete controversy which might have an undesirable effect on the present international situation sholud be borne in mind."

MAN ACQUITTED AFTER ROW WITH OFFICER OVER EVICTION

Ray Wycoff of East St. Louis Was Alleged to Have Moved Furniture Back in House.

A jury in St. Clair County Court in Beleville yesterday acquitted Ray Wycoff, 27 years old, 910 Piggott avenue, East St. Louis, of a charge of interfering with an officer.

Wycoff was arrested last June 25 following a row with Constable Silas Hockaday, who was attempting to move the household furnishings of Mrs. Jeanette H. Check, 314 Trendley avenue, East St. Louis, under an eviction writ. The Constable charged Wycoff with moving the furniture back in the home after he had placed it on the sidewalk.

BANKER ALLEGES 'DOUBLE-CROSS' IN SHIP FIRM DEAL

S. H. Vallance Makes Charge Against Ben Smith, Broker, Who Denies It, at Senate Inquiry.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Ben Smith, Wall Street operator, heard and denied today an accusation he had "double-crossed" S. H. Vallance, a New York investment banker, in buying for himself control of New York Ship Building Corporation.

The accusation was contained in a letter written by Vallance when he discovered Smith had bought control of the ship yards in association with E. L. Cord, automobile financier.

Vallance had testified he was negotiating with Smith to buy the controlling stock from Chase Securities Corporation, when he discovered the operator had bought the stock "secretly" and sold half to Cord.

Smith's Account Different.

Smith had a different story. Recalling that Vallance was trying to buy the stock for F. H. Prince of Boston and Newport, Smith declared the buyer had insisted that as part of the program his friend, Joseph W. Powell, was to be president of the company. Powell is president of United Drydock Corporation.

"I told Prince I would not consider it with Powell," Smith told the committee. "Prince said he would not go in without Powell."

Later Smith said, he told Prince "if he still insisted on Powell we would drop the matter. It dropped there." He said he bought the stock direct from Chase for himself, then sold half to Cord.

Bernard Baruch Criticised.

Previously, Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, joined Chairman Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, of the committee in criticising Bernard M. Baruch's denunciation of the committee's plan for taking profits out of war.

Vandenberg asserted that Baruch "runs away" when talk of taking away all war profits is raised. He added:

"God help capitalism if it won't defend a common national crisis without its pound of flesh. War itself is the monster of real menace."

What Nye Said.

In a radio address Nye said:

"For years Bernard Baruch has been talking about taking profit out of war. For days he appeared before our committee urging drastic programs to accomplish this."

"Now, Mr. Baruch is out with an extended statement to the press hedging on the position he took when he was before our committee some days ago. According to his newest statement he has discovered that our committee plan would take the profit out of war—not just a little of it, but practically all of it.

Chides Baruch for Statement.

"Now he says the bill is too drastic, that we would be defeated in another war because business wouldn't do its share of fighting and helping to win the war when its profits were so restricted.

"May heaven preserve us! I've expected someone to say that. But, Mr. Baruch, I never expected it to come from you. So American business won't produce what is needed in war if it can't have its profits! So American business will not go into a war on the same basis that the boys go in when they are called!"

The Munitions Committee's plan would tax away all corporate profits over 3 per cent, and all individual incomes over $10,000, and would put industrial leaders under army discipline. Nye said the committee feels the House bill is "quite inadequate."

Baruch Says He Hasn't Changed His Position "One Iota."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Declaring he has "no desire to engage in controversy with Senator Nye or anybody else," Bernard M. Baruch made a final summation today of his stand on taking the profits out of war.

"Although I may differ with others as to methods," said the chairman of the War Industries Board in the World War in an interview, "my position for taking the profits out of war has not change one iota and briefly is as follows:

"1. Put a ceiling over prices that will prevent a rise and protect the Governemnt and the civilian population whose needs must be second only to those of our fighting forces. The President is to make whatever adjustment is necessary.

"2. Place a tax that will take practically all the profits from war activities.

"3. Raise all corporate and income taxes to the highest point possible but not so that they will stop the flow of munitions to our soldiers, and the production of necessities for our home civilian population.

"4. The power that the President now has to commander in time of war should be broadened to include the licensing, control and regulation of transportation, industry and finance. Let us get this power now, and if a constitutional amendment through an excess of caution is necessary let us have that, too."

Baruch said "all this we must arrange so that so far as possible we can pay as we fight and win with the least possible change in our economic structure."

German Arms Issue Put Up to League

3. Considering that the unilateral repudiation of international obligations may endanger the very existence of the League of Nations as an organization for maintaining peace and promoting security, besides, that such repudiation without prejudice to the application of measures already provided in international agreements should in the event of its having a relation to undertakings concerning the security of peoples and the maintenance of the peace of Europe, call into play all the appropriate measures on the part of the members of the League and within the framework of the covenant;

Request the committee to call into play all the appropriate measures on the part of the members of the League, and within the framework of the covenant;

Request the committee to propose for this purpose measures to render the covenant more effective in the organization of collective security, and to define the particular economic and financial measures which might be applied, should in the future, a state, whether a member of the League of Nations or not, endanger peace by unilateral repudiation of its international obligations.

French Memorandum.

The text of the French memorandum accompanying the draft resolution submitted to the council of the League of Nations condemning Germany's rearmament, follows:

"In taking the decision to open this debate, the French Government attests its confidence in the League. It is a homage which it renders to the independence, impartiality and authority of the Geneva institution.

"The German initiative of March 16 must be condemned. Measures must be envisaged to render the Versailles pact more efficacious in the future by the organization of collective security.

"The council of the League of Nations will take its responsibilities. Charged to maintain peace, it will not want today to remain silent or indifferent. Let it recall its origins. Let it measure the consequences of its attitude and it will not fail in its mission.

"The peoples know that respect of a sworn oath and of engagements taken, is not only a moral principle but a living law of the League of Nations.

Says Facts Are Known.

"I do not wish to plead. You know the facts. The memorandum of the Government of the republic enumerates, analyzes and qualifies them. (This apparently refers to a memorandum prepared by France and made public last Sunday.)

"You have weighed them. You will pronounce on them.

"France has shown by her acts that she wishes only peace. At London last Feb. 3 we, with the British Government, envisaged a program of negotiations which should lead us rapidly to the solid organization of European security. Our anticipations were denied by the initiative of Germany.

"Who, therefore, could dispute that the Government of the Reich, by a gesture, caused disappointment and anxiety in the world? You have to take the decision. You will know, I am sure, how to surmount your hesitations, if they exist among certain of you, to make the rules of international life respected.

"Having accomplished our duty, we will look toward the future.

"Security for All."

"We are not distinguishing among the nations. All the peoples must be treated on the same level of equality. Our policy is not directed against any country. The security which we ask, we want for all. That is to say we have not renounced and are not renouncing our ideal of peace.

"Such is the language of France. It will not be said in the world that by the appeal which was filed with the council of the League of Nations the Government of the republic wishes to hinder the work necessary for reconciliation among peoples. If it is useful to judge the task in order to satisfy the requirements of international morale, it is indispensable not to interrupt the difficult work, slow and often ungrateful, of organizing peace.

"I, therefore, have the honor to deposit with the council a proposed resolution to bring an end to this debate. This proposal is submitted to you by the three Governments of France, Great Britain and Italy."

Dissension Likely Over the Penalties to Be Invoked.

Dissension appeared likely to mark the discussions of what penalties, economic, financial or military, should be invoked as a deterrent to future repudiations of international commitments. Poland and some of the South American states also were reported to be anxious to soft-pedal any threats to impose sanctions on future treaty violators. Several of the smaller states were represented as fearing that a policy of applying penalties to treaty repudiators would increase the powers of the league to a dangerous extent. They were said to believe that through the league such a move might tend to involve them in international disputes with which they were not otherwise concerned.

Meanwhile league circles saw Danish Schleswig, which has a strong German minority, beginning to appear as one of the "tender" spots of Europe. Observers find Denmark's pronounced hostility to any castigation of Germany as a reflection of the troublesome situation in Schleswig, where Nazis are said to be steadily increasing their influence.

Denmark is said to be worried over the situation and anxious to give Germany no cause for reprisals. Large sums of money are reported to have been sent into the Danish province from German cities to promote Nazi domination.

The official explanation of Denmark's objection to any criticism of Germany is that Denmark refuses blindly to follow the great Powers. A Danish spokesman said, "Germany has the right to rearm and should not be blamed."

On Rearmament of Austria.

It was indicated in Genera circles that the Little and Balkan ententes, which include Yugoslavia, Czecho-Slovakia, Rumania, Bulgaria, Greece and Turkey, were prepared to assent to the rearmament of Austria, Hungaria and Bulgaria, but only on the condition they accept binding setcurity pacts.

In view of the dissension in Central Europe, French circles reported the Balkan and Little Ententes are likely to sign bilateral mutual assistance pacts with Austria and Italy in a conference at Rome late in May or possibly even earlier.

British and Italian Stand.

Laval indicated that France, Great Britain and Italy were willing to concede Germany's war-time allies larger armies, provided they enter the Danubian pact and revision of their arms status has the approval of the Little Entente.

League circles heard with interest of a reported plan of Gen. Victor Denain, French Aviation Minister, to go to Rome early in May to discuss a Franco-Italian air pact. This news attracted particular attention at Geneva because of the common Franco-Italian determination to safeguard the independence of Austria.

While determined not to abandon attempts for a general defensive air pact which would include Germany, Belgium, Great Britain and Italy, France and some other European powers were reported to be seeking to develop supplementary aerial assistance agreements to buttress their security.

Germany Favors Complete Scrapping of Versailles Treaty.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BERLIN, April 16.—The scrapping of what is left of the Versailles Treaty and beginning of a fresh attempt to organize European peace, with war forgotten and everybody starting as equals, will be urged by Germany after the Geneva meetings, it was intimated in high quarters last night. Germany is not inclined to accept any Franco-British-Italian action at Geneva which would impose economic or financial sanctions for further violations of the Versailles Treaty.

Karl Silex, editor of the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, commented last night: "Stresa spoke of 'free negotiations' with Germany. But as long as the Versailles dictature, which we never voluntarily accepted, remains, there is no question of freedom." With Chancellor Hitler touring the Rhine and the Foreign Office silent, Silex was allowed to publish what is understood to be the German Government's view regarding the Stresa conference and current Geneva parleys. He charged:

1. The former Allies with trying to wreck the western air pact proposal by introducing into it separate bilateral agreements provising mutual assistance.

2. France with attempting to block Germany out of the air pact all together.

3. The Allies with trying to make Germany sign on the dotted line an unfair Danubian pact.

4. The Allies with trying to make Austria a "capitulation state" like Egypt."

SEVEN MINERS TRAPPED IN EXPLOSION IN NOVA SCOTIA

Blast Believed to Have Been Caused by "Fire Damp."

STELLARTON, N. S., April 16.—An explosion in the Allan mine shaft near here, where 88 men were killed in 1918, was feared today to have trapped seven miners underground. The explosion was believed to have been a result of "fire damp."

Police and firemen went to the pit mouth when miners came crowding out of the mine with word of the explosion, and efforts were begun immediately to reach the missing seven.

MOVE TO INJECT POLITICS IN STATE ROAD JOBS FAILS

Quinn Resolution Defeated in Senate by 16-to-16 Tie Vote — Victory for Senator McReynolds.

PROPOSAL AMENDED UNTIL INNOCUOUS

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 16.—Senator Allen McReynolds of Carthage was successful in his fight today to prevent the passage of the Quinn resolution throwing the State Highway Department into politics, the Senate defeating the resolution by a 16-to-16 tie vote.

Before the roll was called, however, the Senate had amended the resolution to make it entirely harmless and had been warned by its President pro tem, Phil M. Donnelly of Lebanon, that if it passed the measure the Senate "would be the laughing stock of the people of Missouri."

The resolution, introduced by Senator Quinn after a bill with similar intent had been killed by a House committee, would have required the Highway Department to furnish to the Senate within 10 days the salary, politics and home residence of all of its 3000 employes, who now work under non-partisan rule.

Amendment by Kinney.

On motion of Senator Kinney, the time was changed to 20 days, practically defeating the resolution, since there is little question but that by that time the Legislature will be adjourned. Another amendment, offered by Senator Jones, was then adopted, which changed the resolution so that it merely "requested" instead of "requested and directed" the Highway Department to furnish such information.

The resolution occasioned lively debate and much maneuvering. Senator Quinn maintaned that he was "merely seeking information which I believe this body is entitled to have." He opposed amendments which would have struck the word "politics" out of the resolution and which would have referred the whole matter to the Roads and Highways Committee, both of which were defeated. But he made no objection to the two amendments which were adopted, which made the resolution innocuous.

McReynolds Questions Quinn.

McReynolds, in a relentless interrogation of Quinn, brought out that the Democratic State platform of 1932, which Quinn helped draft, condemned "the practice of the Republican party to gain political preference in the Highway Department," that a Missouri statute forbade showing any preference because of politics to any job-seekers in the Highway Department, and that the Federal Government, from which the Highway Department is expected to receive a large allotment under the works relief bill, demands that the money be administered by a nonpartisan group.

McReynolds acknowledged that he had "fought Democratic battles" in his county for 30 years. "But," he added, "I don't fight them with public money."

Donnelly's Argument.

"If I were voting my personal feelings," Senator Donnelly said, "I'd vote for this resolution. But we cannot repeal by resolution a statutory provision of this State. If we adopt it, we will be doing a useless and nonsensical thing. We would be the laughing stock of the people of Missouri. I appeal to your better judgment, regardless of what your feelings may be."

The roll call was as follows:

Voting aye: Brogan of St. Louis, Casey of Kansas City, Clark of Richmond, Cope of Salem, Doran of St. Louis, Frost of Cassville, Hixson of Ozark, Kinney of St. Louis, Lindsay of Clinton, Pepoon of St. Louis, Quinn of Maywood, Russell of Chilhowee, Searcy of Eminence, Shea of St. Louis, Shotwell of St. Louis County and Wisdom of Bowling Green.

Voting no: Barbour of Springfield, Clayton of Hannibal, Crouse of St. Joseph, Dail of Marceline, Donnelly of Lebanon, Gordon of Liberty, Joffee of Kansas City, Jones of Kennett, Kennedy of Marshall, Lewis of St. Louis, Lockridge of Fayette, Mabee of Unionville, McReynolds of Carthage, Roberson of Rockport, Rollins of Columbia, and Rozier of Perryville. (Mabee and Rozier are Republicans).

Absent: Briggs of Macon and McDowell of Charleston.

Harris Lets Tie Stand.

Lieutenant-Governor Harris, who has the privilege of voting on resolutions or amendments in the case of a tie, did not vote, thereby in effect voting no. He has never voted in case of a tie and said later he did not believe he should break precedent at this time.

Had the resolution been adopted, most of the Highway Department employes probably would have listed themselves as Democrats, to be fired from their jobs in event a Republican administration was elect-

Kelley Case Defendant and Wife

Exchange Between Lawyers.

"I don't like this jockeying around with the court," Prosecuting Attorney Anderson remarked, to which Lacy replied that he "did not expect to be reprimanded by the State."

"This was all done for the purpose of delay," Prosecutor Anderson continued heatedly. "I'm willing to wager that Mr. Mabee never comes down here to the trial of this case, and never appears in connection with any phase of it. It is an abuse of privilege."

Judge Nolte reminded the prosecutor that counsel were familiar with his stand on such applications, which he enunciated clearly when Keating's entry of appearance was filed in Mrs. Muench's case. This was that the Court was shorn of discretion by the law and had no alternative but to grant the continuance as requested.

No word was received directly from Mabee, but shortly before noon County Clerk Smith telephoned with the information that Mabee was in good standing. Judge Nolte then convened court, which had been in recess, and entered the order of continuance.

Statement by Mabee.

At Jefferson City, Senator Mabee told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he had been employed in the Davit case "for some time," but refused to go into further details of his employment.

"Perhaps Mr. Lacy didn't know of it, but lots of others did," he said.

He added that he had been associated with Clay County Rogers of Kansas City, counsel for Mrs. Muench and Angelo Rosegrant, since he had entered the practice of law. It was after Rogers entered as counsel for Mrs. Muench that Representative Keating made his appearance.

Mabee is a resident of Unionville, on the northern border of the State. He is a new member of the Senate, and one of the two Republican members of the upper house of the Legislature.

Lacy has represented Davit from the outset of the Kelley case, just as he represented Mrs. Muench as her chief of counsel. Prior to the Kelley case he represented Davit in a trial on a charge of robbery in connection with the attempted kidnaping of Oscar Johnson, wealthy president of the Symphony Society, and secured his acquittal.

Under Murder Indictment.

Since his arrest in the Kelley case, Davit also has been indicted on the charge of murdering Paul A. Flueck, Maplewood grocer, in a holdup on Feb. 20, 1932. Lacy represented him in that case as his only lawyer, appearing in his behalf on a motion that he be admitted to bail, which was denied.

Davit, who has been held almost 13 months awaiting trial in the Kelley case, was taken from St. Louis City jail this morning and escorted to Clayton by Deputy Sheriffs He sat, handcuffed, in the Sheriff's office for about five minutes, chatting with his wife. After the motion for continuance had been filed he was escorted back to City Jail.

BUILDING MATERIAL HAULER SAYS HE WAS THREATENED

Reports Four Men Tore Up His Union Card and Ordered Him Not to Deliver Load.

Paul Blanken, chauffeur for the Glencoe Lime & Cement Co., reported to police that he was threatened by four men when he attempted to deliver a load of building material at 2438 North Grand boulevard yesterday.

Building material firms have been affected by a strike of union hoisting engineers, chauffeurs and laborers, who refuse to handle gravel from nonunion supply companies operating on the Meramec River.

Blanken said the men tore up his union card, removed his union button and ordered him to return the material to the Glencoe yards.

HOPKINS GRANTS $500,000 FOR APRIL RELIEF IN MISSOURI

Allotment Is Conditional on Legislature and Subdivisions Raising $1,000,000 in Addition.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 16.—Gov. Park received a telegram today from Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator, informing him that Missouri had been granted $500,000 for April relief.

Hopkins' telegram said: "This is done with the distinct understanding that this grant will be matched by an appropriation by the State Legislature of a similar amount for April and for each month thereafter and that there is a definite obligation on the part of the political subdivisions of the State to furnish an additional $500,000 a month for relief. The Federal Relief Administration will make no further grants until the State Legislature has given concrete evidence of its willingness to co-operate in meeting the relief burden of the tSate."

The $500,000 grant approved by Hopkins today is the first portion of $2,700,000 in Federal relief funds that Missouri has been allotted for April. Further grants will be conditional on the action taken by the Legislature on the sales tax bill, now pending in the Senate, which is intended to raise sufficient revenue to take care of Missouri's share of the relief burden.

SENATE PASSES REGULATORY BILL FOR BUSES AND TRUCKS

Measure Recommended by I. C. C. Now Goes to House; Subject Before Congress 8 Years.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The Senate passed today the Wheeler-Eastman bill providing for regulation of motor busses and trucks by the Interstate Commerce Commission. It now goes to the House.

The subject had been before Congress eight years. It was taken up yesterday and approval came today after an hour's discussion .

First of a series of measures to co-ordinate Federal control over all forms of transportation, the bill would require common carriers by motor to obtain certificates of public convenience. Rates also would be regulated. Contract motor carriers would have to obtain permits and brokers who engage in this business would be licensed.

W. J. BROWN SUED FOR DIVORCE

Wife of Taxi Firm President Seeks Alimony.

Mrs. Evelyn Brown filed suit yesterday to divorce William J. Brown, president of American Taxicabs, Inc., which operated the Yellow Cab service. She alleged general indignities.

Brown entered his appearance to an early trial of the suit. According to the petition Brown is earning a large salary, "from which he should be required to pay alimony." They were married in January, 1933, several months after he had been divorced by Mrs. Myrtle Brown, and separated last Jan. 26.

FORMER ACTRESS TELLS JURY HOW MAN WAS KILLED

Mrs. Stella Riddell Talbot on Trial on Manslaughter Charge, Pleads Self-Defense.

Mrs. Stella Riddell Talbot, former featured player in silent motion pictures, on trial for manslaughter, told a jury in Circuit Judge Williams' court today her story of the death of Albert Frankenstein, restaurant proprietor, killed in a quarrel with her last Christmas day at 4063 Page boulevard. She had lived with him seven stormy years, she testified.

Mrs. Talbot, divorced wife of the late Frank L. Talbot, proprietor of the downtown Hippodrome Theater, pleaded self-defense and apparent accident, in accounting for the shot which killed Frankenstein. She did not admit that she touched the revolver, saying it was discharged when she seized his wrists, after he had threatened her life. There was no direct witness to the killing.

10 Witnesses for Defense.

The defense this afternoon presented 10 witnesses, neighbors and customers of the Frankenstein restaurant and beer tavern, who had seen Mrs. Talbot with a black eye, and in some case with other bruises and cuts, and who had understood that Frankenstein had struck her. One of the black-eye witnesses was Patrolman Patrick O'Neill. Another, Jack Goldstein, 4055 Page, said he had seen Frankenstein tsrike Mrs. Talbot so violently as to knock her through a doorway. Mrs. W. P. Penn, 4048 Page, said she heard Frankenstein tell the woman, "I ought to kill you."

Mrs. Talbot's father, Frederick Riddel lof Valley Park, told of going to Frankenstein to protest at his actions, and of being told, "Get out and take your daughter with you." She left the place with him, but returned.

The defense testimony was closed after the State had entered in the record an admission that Mrs. Talbot had shown marks of mistreatment.

Tells of Meeting Frankenstein.

Mrs. Talbot said in her direct testimony that she was 36 years old. She was not asked about her movie career, in which, in 1919 and later, she had a leading role in "Price of Innocence" and lesser roles in other film plays.

She met Frankenstein in 1927, when he was a State Game Warden, she testified, and they lived together at several places, before opening the restaurant on Page, where they lived on the premises. At previous places of abode, she said, she went by the name of Frankenstein, and she said he told her they would be married when business got better. It has been said, but was not testified, that Frankenstein had a wife.

"He had a temper, and was quarrelsome when he was drinking," Mrs. Talbot said. "He often struck me, and has knocked out these teeth," and she lifted her lip to show a double vacancy in the upper row. "He blacked my eye too."

Christmas Drinikng Party.

"We were drinking the night before Christmas. Early Christmas morning I went to St. Ann's Church at Page and Whittier. When I got back, about 6 o'clock, he accused me of hiding his liquor, and said, 'You think you're good, because you've been to church, don't you?'

'I gave him a drink, but asked him not to drink much, because we were invited out to dinner. But he went on drinking, by himself and with customers. I had several drinks too.

"His sister came, then his brother and nephew, and there were more drinks. His brother took him out and he was away about an hour, and when he came back, he told me if I wanted to go out to that dinner, I would have to go by myself.

"I went and lay down in the bedroom, and he came in and hit me on the head with a leather billy. I went to the bathroom, crying and with my head bleeding, and he came up with his gun and said, 'I threatened to kill you before, and now is as good a time as any.' I begged him not to.

"I rushed up to him and struggled with him, to protect my life. I grabbed him by the wrists, and the gun went off. He fell, and when I saw he was bleeding, I ran out and told some boys, who called the police."

Shepard R. Evans, her lawyer, asked her the direct question whether she pulled the trigger, and she said she did not. She was unable to say that Frankenstein pulled the trigger.

John L. Sullivan, Assistant Circuit Attorney, cross-examining Mrs. Talbot, brought out that she had told a somewhat different story at the Coroner's inquest, Dec. 26, and had then said that she shot Frankenstein. She said she was not then over the effects of her drinking, and was bewildered, but had since remembered the circumstances more clearly.

The State yesterday presented testimony intended to show that Mrs. Talbot may have been angry and aggrieved at the way Frankenstein's relatives treated her. The brother, Clem Frankenstein, 5035 St. Louis avenue, told of taking Albert Frankenstein away from the place, and it was shown that she had been trying to get him, instead, to go out with her. The brother and his son had a Christmas gift for Frankenstein, but none for Mrs. Talbot, and they did not invite her to their home with Albert Frankenstein, though she had greeted them both with a kiss.

Mrs. Talbot, who in her film days wore costly gowns, and who once reported that a $4000 fur coat was stolen from her, was cheaply and shabbily dressed in court, wearing a worn brown coat and a plain black hat, and having on cotton stockings.

NUDIST THEATER GUILD PRESENTS PLAY IN NUDE

Orchestra Members Wear Tights; Cast Performs Au Naturel Under Blue Lights in Last Act.

NEW YORK, April 16. — The Nudist Theater Guild offered its initial performance last night before a New York audience with "The Girl From Childs." The nudist theme was stressed not alone on the stage, but by the serving of "nudist champagne cocktails" between acts, a "nudist" orchestra, and an after-the-show midnight bathing party at the Hotel Sutton pool—all for the price of a two-twenty admission.

The first two acts are laid in the library of the Stuyvesant Wood home in Washington, and the actors go through their roles with a minimum of clothing—but still clothing. The last act switches to a nudist camp, and under the diffusing glow of blue lights, the cast goes au naturel in true nudist colony fashion. The orchestra wore tights.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 16.—The Legislature passed an anti-nudism bill, championed by former Gov. Alfred E. Smith as counsel for the Legion of Decency of New York, last night.

The bill was approved by both assembly and Senate, and went before Gov. Herbert H. Lehman for signature or veto.

441 MILES IN 370 MINUTES

Two Streamline Trains Make Minneapolis-Chicago Run.

CHICAGO, April 16.—The Burlington Railroad's twin streamline trains dashed the 441 miles from Minneapolis to Chicago yesterday in six hours and 10 minutes without a stop.

The all-metal "Zephyrs" which go into service between Chicago and Minneapolis next Sunday, left this city in the morning and returned the same day. The trains averaged 75.4 miles on the northbound trip and better than 70 on the return.

SWEEPSTAKES TICKETS SEIZED

Confiscated in Mails by Collector of Customs.

About 3000 sweepstake and lottery tickets confiscated in the mails in recent weeks are being held by Collector of Customs Rothwell. Most of the tickets were mailed in foreign countries, including England, Canada and Mexico.

Under the law, which bars such material from the mails, the tickets will be held for one year and then destroyed.

BREMER TAKES STAND AT TRIAL OF 10 AS KIDNAPERS

St. Paul Banker Describes His 21 Days of Captivity —Freed on Payment of $200,000.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 13. — A jury to try 10 defendants charged with complicity in the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, was completed soon after court opened this morning. Both the Government and defense counsel waived four remaining peremptory challenges and announced the jury, including three women, was acceptable. Two alternate jurors were selected.

Bremer Takes Stand.

Bremer, the first of 100 Government witnesses to be called, related how he was slugged, after he had driven his daughter to school, then transferred to another car a short distance away, and driven from morning to night through several states as he lay on the floor of his kidnapers' car. He said he was theratened with death if he did not obey orders.

Bremer told how he endeavored to fight off his kidnapers by sticking his foot in the open door, in an effort to gain time until some one might arrive, but that he was clubbed with a pistol butt, and, weakened by loss of blood, was forced to carry out the commands.

"What did the man on the right side with the gun say to you?" the prosecutor asked. "Don't move or I'll kill you," Bremer replied.

Bremer described his 21 days in captivity.

Opening Statement.

John Y. Brown, Assistant Attorney-General from Washington, arrived to assist George F. Sullivan, United States District Attorney, and his assistant, George Heisey, in the prosecution.

The names of Arthur (Doc) Barker, Alvin Karpis and several of their henchmen were linked with the kidnaping of Bremer in Sullivan's opening statement. Sullivan described the kidnapers' movements from the time the banker was slugged on the head here Jan. 17, 1934, until he was returned home Feb. 7, after payment of $200,000 ransom. He said the Government would show Barker and Karpis, still sought, examined the house where Bremer was held, before the kidnaping.

During his captivity, he continued, Bremer had an opportunity to study the interior of the house and will "positively identify" by the wall-paper pattern the room where he was held. Sullivan said Harry Campbell, fugitive, who with Karpis, recently shot his way out of a trap at Atlantic City, was at the Bensenville hideout the morning Bremer was released.

One Pleads Guilty.

Byron Bolton, who pleaded guilty yesterday to a conspiracy charge was brought to the Federal Building with the other defendants. Department of Justice officials talked to him in the Marshal's office. George L. Sullivan would not say why he was brought to the Federal Building.

His plea occasioned no surprise either among fellow defendants or among court attaches, some of whom had expected him to plead guilty when he was arraigned two weeks ago.

HELPED TO TRAP TWO EXTORTIONISTS

GUARD FOR LACLEDE GAS WORKERS STONED

Man Hired to Escort Strikebreakers Hit by Brick; Other Assaults.

Sherman Coddington, 57 years old, a guard employed by the Laclede Gas Light Co. to protect company property, was cut on the jaw when struck by a piece of a brick thrown through the window of his automobile near the Catalan street gas plant at 6 p. m. yesterday.

Two other company employes riding with the guard were not hurt. Coddington said three brickbats were thrown at his car by an unidentified man, who ran.

Workmen Attacked.

John Davenport, an employe of Louis J. Cuneo, gas fitting contractor, who is performing service and installations for the gas company, beaten by four men in the 1400 block of Mississippi avenue yesterday afternoon. The assailants fled in an automobile. Davenport was treated at City Hospital for lacerations of the face and knee.

Fred Harris and Raymond B. Smith, employes of Cuneo, were assaulted by three men at Sarah street and Westminster place at 5:50 p. m. yesterday. Police called to the scene arrested three men, who were booked for peace disturbance. Harris and Smith live at a hotel at 442 North Sarah street.

Petitions to Mayor.

Petitions requesting that the Laclede Gas Light Co.'s franchise be revoked will be presented to Mayor Dickmann today by a committee headed by officers of the Central Trades and Labor Union, Munro Roberts, union attorney announced. Roberts said more than 50,000 signatures had been obtained for the petition, which alleged that the gas company failed to maintain continuous service at "a fair and reasonable charge."

The strike of gas house workers was called March 28, in an effort to enforce recognition of the union as the exclusive bargaining agent for mechanical department employes. The National Labor Relations Board found that the union represented a majority of the 725 mechanical department workers. The company, challenging the jurisdiction of the NRA, said it would recognize the union as agent for its membership only.

PAYMENT IN GOLD ORDERED

Swedish Court Passes on Government Loan of 1924.

STOCKHOLM, April 16.—The Court of Appeal decided today that the Swedish Treasury must repay its obligations on the Swedish Government loan of 1924, issued in denominations of gold dollars, in their gold value at Stockholm. A Stockholm insurance company petitioned for the repayment of Government loan obligations in gold.

The coure declared the legislative measures recently taken in the United States regarding the gold clause ought not to apply to holders of obligations no domiciled in the United States or subject to American legislation.

BARGE LINE WORKER DROWNED IN JUMP FROM BOAT TO DOCK

Ernest L. Jones Plunges Into River at North Market Street; Body Not Recovered.

Ernest L. Jones, 25 years old, an employe of the Federal Barge Lines, was drowned when he attempted to jump from a boat, the Franklin D. Koosevelt, to the North Market street dock and plunged into the Mississippi River at 6:30 o'clock last night. The body was not recovered.

Other employes said Jones apparently was carried under the boat. He resided at 1735 North Forty-fourth street, East St. Louis.

LONG SEEKS POWER OVER LOUISIANA LOCAL FINANCES

By the Associated Press.

BATON ROUGE, La., April 16.—The Louisiana Legislature moved today to speed passage of more than 20 measures designed to strengthen the power of Senator Huey P. Long.

Proposed legislation places in the hands of Long's State administration, headed by Gov. Allen, the finances of all local governing agencies, including control over expenditures of funds obtained by them from the Federal Government.

Also pending is a bill giving the administration power to name election commissioners and watchers.

Louisiana National Guardsmen, enforcing martial law in Baton Rouge since Jan. 25, were stationed before the heavy bronze doors of the House and Senate chambers in the skyscraper Capitol.

The House and Senate met for almost two hours last night. The House received 28 bills, 26 of them administration measures and several resolutions. The bills were referred to the Ways and Means Committee for consideration today.

The House adjourned until tonight when it is expected to receive the bills and pass them to third reading for final passage tomorrow. The Senate adjourned until tomorrow night when it is expected to receive the bills from the House and refer them to committee.

The present special session is the fifth in Louisiana in nine months in addition to the regular 60-day session last summer.

It was these rapid-fire sessions that passed laws—each time within five days, the constitutional minimum—which gave Long control of Louisiana. The present session also is scheduled to end in five days.

Proposed Legislation.

Proposed legislation includes measures to:

Permit local governing agencies to seek readjustment of debts in Federal Court only on sanction of the Attorney-General and Governor.

Abolish the office of Assistant District Attorney in East Baton Rouge Parish, now held by Fred S. LeBlanc, named by Long as one of a group of men who allegedly conspired to assassinate him.

Place the finances of all local governing agencies under a State bond and tax board, created by the act.

The House adopted under suspension of rules two resolutions to make immediately effective the proposed acts to give Long control over local finances and Federal PWA money.

"Something has got to be done with the crooked jurisprudence in this State," Long said today while "explaining" before the House Ways and Means Committee more than 20 bills introduced last night.

"Why, you've got three Judges down there on the Supreme Court who decide one thing one day and something else the next day," he said. "This Legislature is of the humor of doing something about it. I don't know whether we shouldn't take it up at this Legislature and do something for the people."

"Every one of those three Judges should be impeached," the Senator shouted. "I don't know whether it isn't the duty of this Legislature to impeach these Judges. We may do it."

The Justices Long threatened with impeachment were Chief Justice Charles A. O'Neill and Associate Justices Wynne G. Rogers and Fred Odom.

Long said the three Justices had ruled at one time when "dummy" candidates were used against him that they were legal, but that in the next election when he used "dummy" candidates for "protection" the Justices had reversed their ruling and held they were unlawful.

The "dummy" candidates have been defined as candidates who qualify for office in order to get election officials drawn for them and then withdraw from the race.

A National Guard Lieutenant was reported last night to have routed from the East Baton Rouge Parish Court-house nine elected members of the Parish Policy Jury.

One of the anti-Long jurors who said the group had been ejected declared the meeting was only an "informal discussion." Brigadier-General Louis F. Guerre, in command of the troops, denied the men were forced from the building.

Long, by recent legislation, provided for appointment of 13 jurors to give him control of parish affairs and the State Supreme Court ordered the nine elected jurors not to interfere with their conduct of the local government. Four elected members are allied with Long.

Ickes Threatens to Cancel Works Projects in Louisiana.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Secretary Ickes today threatened to cancel all public works projects in Louisiana if legislation is passed to give the State authority over local projects. Referring to Senator Long as "the emperor of Louisiana," Ickes said at a press conference:

"PWA funds haven't been used to set up a political machine anywhere and they won't be used that way in Louisiana—they certainly won't be used to build up Senator Long's political machine."

Specifically, Ickes said a $1,800,000 PWA allotment had been made to the New Orleans Sewer and Water Board, and if it was dissolved "there isn't any contract and we'll take back the money."

"Not Allocated to Huey Long."

"Of course," he added sarcastically, "it means keeping a lot of people out of work. Apparently the Senator is in favor of sharing wealth but not sharing work."

Asked if other allotments besides the New Orleans sewer project might be canceled, Ickes replied: "They might create a situation down there where all allotments would be canceled." Ickes continued: "I think if Senator Long is going to dictate to us how we shall conduct the PWA program in Louisiana we reserve the right to cancel our contracts. We didn't make the allocation to Huey Long or the State of Louisiana, we made it to the New Orleans agency."

BATON ROUGE, La., April 16.—Informed of the threat of Secretary of the Interior Ickes to cancel all Louisiana public works loans if the State takes over control of the loan expenditures, Senator Huey P. Long said Ickes "could go slap damn to hell."

PARK'S REPLY TO DEMAND FOR VOTE FRAUD INQUIRY

Governor Tells G. O. P. Leader That Any Complaints Should Be Given to Grand Jury.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 16.—Gov. Park sent a letter yesterday advising Grover W. Dalton, chairman of the Republican State Committee, that charges of fraudulent voting in the municipal election here April 2 should be presented to the Cole County grand jury which is now in recess and which will reconvene Thursday.

Dalton wrote the Governor last week complaining that three students of Lincoln University, all under 21 years old, had registered and voted in the election. Dalton asked the Governor to order Attorney-General McKittrick to make an investigation. The Governor in part said:

"If, as intimated in your letter, any member of the Board of Curators of Lincoln University, three of whom are my appointees, in any way contributed to these alleged crimes and you will furnish me with proof, I shall immediately remove the offending curator and urge criminal prosecution against him. If, however, the students acted without the knowledge or consent of the Board, then, of course, it is highly improper that they be held responsible or charged with misconduct."

Woman on Way to Church Killed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FANCY PRAIRIE, Ill., April 16.—Struck by an automobile while on her way to church, Mrs. Myra Haines, 75 years old, was fatally injured Sunday. The driver of the car, Garland Gupton, said Mrs. Haines was in the middle of the road when he first saw her. He swerved to avoid striking her, he said, but she stepped back into the path of the car.

HOUSE GROUP PRESSES FOR REPORT ON FOULOIS

Wants to Know What War Department Is Going to Do About Ousting Air Chief.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The House Military Committee voted today to press the War Department for a speedy report on what it is going to do about the committee's recommendation that Major-General Benjamin D. Foulois, be removed as chief of the Army Air Corps.

The committee acted at the suggestion of Representative Rogers (Dem.), New Hampshire, chairman of a subcommittee that made a lengthy investigation into War Department expenditures.

Recently, the War Department took steps to reorganize the Air Corps. While not attempting to connect this move with results of its inquiry, the sub-committee interpreted it as stripping the General of much of his power.

Accusing Gen. Foulois of "gross misconduct and inefficiency" and of violating a law requiring competition in procurement of aircraft, the sub-committee first urged his removed last June. Secretary of War Dern told the sub-committee its recommendations were not based on a full and complete hearing. Dern, on Dec. 13, ordered the Inspector-General of the Army to start an inquiry.

The charges against Foulois arose principally from the handling of a $7,500,000 Public Works allotment for the purchase of airplanes and equipment. The sub-committee said Foulois attempted to evade the law by seeking to acquire quantities of planes by negotiated contracts instead of through competitive bidding.

The sub-committee's findings included the following:

"Major-General Foulois willfully and deliberately violated existing law in the purchase of airplanes and aircraft material.

"He accused superior officers of willfully attempting to deceive this committee.

"He testified falsely before the sub-committee as to his opportunity and authority in presenting Air Corps needs to the Director of the Budget.

"He advised the Second Assistant Postmaster-General that the Air Corps was prepared to fly the air mail when the record shows that he, as chief of the Air Corps, should have known differently."

MISSING POLITICIAN FOUND; GONE AGAIN

By the Associated Press.

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich., April 16.—Tony Achard, former State Senator who acted as host of John Gillespie, former Detroit politician, while a Statewide search for him was in progress for 11 days, said today Gillespie had disappeared again.

Gillespie was found at Achard's hunting lodge near Clare, Mich., and said he had gone into hiding, after a quarrel with Gov. Frank Fitzgerald, for fear he might do something he would regret. Achard said he wanted the Governor notified "just to play safe."

By the Associated Press.

CLARE, Mich., April 16.—John Gillespie, former millionaire Detroit Police Commissioner and politician, found yesterday in a backwoods hunting lodge after an 11-day search, said he would shun "civilization" until a dispute with Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald is settled. The quarrel with the Governor grew out of the executive's assertion that Gillespie was attempting to exert undue influence on employes of the State Liquor Control Commission.

"I ordered Gillespie thrown out of the Detroit office of the commission," Gov. Fitzgerald said, on being informed that Gillespie had demanded he either prove or retract his charge: "I did the right thing. I stand by it."

Unshaven and disheveled, Gillespie was discovered by a searching party headed by his 24-year-old son, John P. Gillespie, who flew here from California on learning his father had vanished. The elder Gillespie said he disappeared because he wanted "to go somewhere and pull myself together."

Gillespie, whose fortune in 1929 was estimated at $6,000,000, has been in financial difficulties lately. A few months ago, when his house furnishings were sold at auction, Gillespie said he had 26 cents in cash. Subsequently, he opened a gasoline service station in Detroit.

Says He Will Seek Home Rule in Utility Control.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 16.—Edward J. Kelly was inducted into office for his first elective term as Mayor of Chicago last night shortly after he announced he would seek home rule for the city in utility control.

Kelly, appointed Mayor to serve out the unexpired term of the late Anton J. Cermak, was elected on April 2 by the largest vote ever given any mayoralty candidate in Chicago.

SUIT FOR DOUBLE IDEMNITY ON MAN WHO ENDED HIS LIFE

Widow of C. C. Fredericks Contends He Was Not in Right Mind When He Shot Self.

Suit was filed in Federal Court yesterday by Mrs. Florence H. Fredericks seeking to require the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance Co. to pay double indemnity under the accident clause of two life insurance policies carried by her husband, Charles C. Fredericks, president of the St. Louis Meter & Pump Co., who shot and killed himself June 15, 1932.

The suit is for $7500 on one policy and $5000 on the second, plus 10 per cent for delayed payment and $3500 attorney's fee. Mrs. Fredericks states in her petition that at the time her husband ended his life his reasoning was impaired, he was unable to understand the consequences of his action, could not distinguish right from wrong and was mentally incapable of controlling his conduct. His death, she contends, is therefore to be construed as having resulted from accident.

Fredericks, who was 49 years old and resided at the Forest Park Hotel, shot himself in the office of his company, which had been placed in receivership and advertised for sale.

THE AVERAGE MOTORIST DRIVES 10,000 MILES A YEAR

8,000 of these miles are within 25 miles of your home

Constant starting, stopping, accelerating waste your money—if your gasoline doesn't have these Three Different Kinds of Power

10,000 MILES A YEAR! Enough to cross America 3 times! Don't you often wonder how you run up all this MILEAGE?

It's the little trips . . . the 2 miles to school and back . . . the mile-and-a-half to market, the bank . . . the continual stop-and-go that EATS UP GASOLINE!

These short trips call for 3 distinct kinds of power in your gasoline . . . POWER for quick starting . . . POWER for accelerating . . . POWER for the steady run!

Unless these three types of power are present—AND IN PERFECT BALANCE—these short trips waste your money.

Super-Shell, the first truly BALANCED gasoline, cuts your driving costs 3 WAYS:

Can save up to a cupful of gasoline on "Cold" Starting. In summer or winter, Super-Shell starts instantly, often warms up in half the time of ordinary gasolines—with less choking. So you use less gasoline.

Can save up to a cupful of gasoline in 10 Minutes of Hard Pulling—With Super-Shell's even volatility, you can race up steep hills on less gasoline. And you avoid knocking which alone in a few minutes can waste up to 10% of your power.

Can save up to a cupful of gasoline in One Hour of Steady Running—many motorists report. Every drop of Super-Shell vaporizes more completely. At all speeds it delivers maximum power. On your long drives as well as on short trips, it saves you money.

THESE THREE SAVINGS of gasoline naturally result in more mileage per tankful. Super-Shell is on sale from Coast to Coast, at no extra cost, at more than 30,000 neighborly Shell stations.

CITY'S LOBBYIST GIVES A PARTY AT JEFFERSON CITY

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 16. — Robert E. Hannegan, St. Louis' $3000 legislative lobbyist, entertained here last night at the most elaborate of the so-called official lobby dinners of the session of the Legislature. It was in appreciation of the favors accorded him in connection with his legislative activities.

The State's $1-a-day legislators, State officials, Judges of the Supreme Court and politicians made up the guest list of about 200.

The menu of the squab dinner at the Missouri Hotel included all that was necessary to stimulate the appetite and put the guests in a jovial mood for the evening. Professional entertainers were brought from St. Louis.

Hannegan told reporters the dinner was just "a personal expression of friendliness" and that the cost would not go on his expense account submitted to the city. Mark D. Eagleton, St. Louis lawyer, who co-operated with Hannegan in directing the affair, asked if he were a host, replied that "he hoped not, but would probably find out later."

Expenses of $1061 So Far.

In addition to his salary, Hannegan's legislative activity so far has cost the city $1061.45 in expenses, which included railroad fare, meals, entertainment, laundry, taxicabs, stenographic service, telegraph and telephone tolls and tips.

Discussing his work yesterday, Hannegan told reporters he thought the expense of his employment was fully justified by the results obtained on legislation affecting St. Louis. He recited a list of bills on which he said he had obtained action favorable to the city's interests.

He was asked what part of the 19 Representatives and six Senators from St. Louis had had in action on legislation affecting St. Louis.

"They have helped, of course," he replied, "but I don't see why that is always brought up when the question of the city's hiring a legislative agent is being considered. Of course, it is necessary for the city to have someone here to look after its interests."

His List of Achievements.

Hannegan then listed his achievements for the present session as follows:

Adoption by the House of an amendment to an appropriation bill to give St. Louis about $1,006,000 for the care of its insane poor at the City Sanitarium. Two years ago the House voted an appropriation of $475,000 for the same purpose but the bill was killed by the Senate. The $1,006,000 item has to be considered by the Senate.

Killing of a bill to remit penalties on delinquent real estate and personal property taxes, introduced in the House. A similar bill has been introduced and passed in the Senate and now is lying dormant in a House committee, composed mostly of St. Louisans.

Killing of a bill in the House to exempt homesteads valued at $1000 or less from taxation.

Passage of a bill in both houses to authorize St. Louis to vote for bonds for the construction of a Louisiana Purchase memorial on the Mississippi river front. The bill was signed by Gov. Park last week.

Passage of a bill in the House authorizing St. Louis to vote increased firemen's pensions.

Approval by a House committee of a bill to establish the position of bail bond commissioner in St. Louis and tightening the restrictions on bail bonds. Hannegan said this was opposed at first by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment on the ground that it would necessitate the employment of additional men, but the board finally withdrew its objection. The measure was sponsored by Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller of St. Louis.

Killing of a bill in a House committee to reduce the fees of the St. Louis Circuit Clerk, which it was said would have prevented efficient operation of his office.

Passage of a bill in the Senate to authorize the establishment of free employment agencies which, Hannegan said, would stimulate employment in St. Louis.

Exclusion from several bills pending in the House Committee on Roads and Highways relating to busses and trucks of provisions that would prove harmful to St. Louis in the measure of control now exercised over these vehicles.

Drivers' License Legislation.

Hannegan also said he had supported Senate amendments to the drivers' license bill, which changed it from a bill of State-wide application to one authorizing municipalities to enact local laws on the subject. His influence in the House, however, was not sufficient to prevent the committee on roads and highways from changing the bill back to State-wide application, but he said he was hopeful the House would sustain him in his position.

Hannegan also claimed partial credit for the fact that the liquor control bills, now pending in conference committees between the two Houses, contain provisions that will enable St. Louis to place a local tax on 3.2 per cent beer and enable the city to exercise gereater control over all kinds of liquor.

He is also hopeful that the sales tax bill, as finally passed by both Houses, will contain provisions for apportionment of funds to be raised by the tax that will insure St. Louis a "just" share of money to care for the insane poor and for support of the public schools.

EVICTION ORDER FOR WOMAN WHO KEEPS RIVAL IN JAIL

Sued for Non-Payment of Rent, Though She Bears Expense of Prison Fare.

CHICAGO, April 16. — Mrs. Susanne Nottingham, who is paying $3.50 a week to keep her rival, Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, in jail, has been ordered out of her home for non-payment of rent.

An attorney for the Chicago City Bank and Trust Co., trustees of the building in which the wife of Patrolman Norman Nottingham lives, filed a suit seeking her eviction on the basis that she owes $65 rent.

A Municipal Court order set last night as the deadline for Mrs. Nottingham, winner of a $7500 alienation of affections verdict from Mrs. Blacklidge, to move. In case she doesn't vacate the next indicated action of the bank would be to sue out a writ for eviction.

Mrs. Blacklidge went to jail last week as a result of a malice count in the verdict awarded Mrs. Nottingham for alienation. The policeman's wife can keep the former collector of internal revenu ein jail for six months—or until the award is settled—if she can pay $3.50 weekly to the county for the jail food bill.

$126 SENT TO OHIO GOVERNOR

Result of Appeal for Funds He Was Denied by State Senate.

COLUMBUS, O., April 16.—Gov. Martin L. Davey, tabulating the result of his appeal for "nickels and dimes" to pay the cost of his office furnishings, discovered the first day yielded $126.93 in cash and checks, 10,000 German marks (post-war series) and 16 three-cent stamps.

Davey made his appeal for funds to buy new rugs, stationery, stamps and supplies and to employ additional help after the State Senate had defeated a $15,920 emergency appropriation for the executive department. Cash contributions ranged from one cent to $5. A Findlay widow sent 10 cents for herself and each of her four children, and five stamps.

Movie Actress Divorces Writer.

LOS ANGELES, April 16.—Diane James, movie actress, obtained a divorce yesterday from Rian James, movie writer. The former New York stage dancer, known professionally as Diane Corday, testified that James told her "a great many times" that he would leave her if she didn't leave him. She told Superior Judge Marshall F. McComb there were many separations and reconciliations.

NEW YORK COMPLAINT OVER WATER DIVERSION

Attorney-General Says Illinois Cities Deprive State of 182,000 Horsepower Per Day.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 16. — Attorney-General John J. Bennett Jr. said yesterday that New York State was being deprived of 182,000 horsepower per day through the diversion of water from the Great Lakes by Chicago and other Illinois cities.

The Attorney-General made his statement in connection with a memorandum he filed with Col. Donald H. Connolly, United States district engineer of Chicago, expressing the State's objection to the proposed sale of the Sanitary District canals at Chicago to the Federal Government. These canals, Bennett said, are responsible for depriving New York of 6500 cubic feet of water per second.

DOROTHY FELL DENIES REPORT OF ENGAGEMENT

But Cousin of Barbara Hutton Mdivani Asks Permission to Announce Betrothal.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 16.—A curious mixup led to conflicting statements yesterday from a movie actress and a socially prominent New York girl whose names have been linked with that of Woolworth Donahue, cousin of Princess Barbara Hutton Mdivani and heir to part of the vast Woolworth fortune.

Miss Wendie Barrie, English actress now in Hollywood, said Donahue telephoned her from Palm Beach, Fla., to ask permission to announce his engagement to Dorothy Fell, Manhattan society girl.

But Miss Fell, in New York, denied she would marry Donahue.

"I guess he called up Miss Barrie to tell her he was engaged to me so that she would stop telling people she was engaged to him," said Miss Fell. "I assure you I have no intention whatever of marrying him."

Two Boys Smother in Cave.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., April 16.—Two Sioux City boys, 12 and 11 years old, were found smothered to death in a cave near their homes yesterday. The boys, Buddy Gross, 12, and Warren Carlson, 11, failed to return home Sunday night, and a dog belonging to one of the pair was found digging at the bank where the cave was located, today.

SENATE GROUP RETAINS HALF OF 1 PCT. SALES TAX

Committee, However, Places One Quarter of 1 Pct. Levy on Manufacturers and Wholesalers.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 16.—The House sales tax bill, amended to reduce the tax rate on retail sales from 2 per cent to one-half of 1 per cent and place a tax of one-quarter of 1 per cent on sales by manufacturers and wholesalers, was voted out of the Senate Committee on Ways and Means late yesterday.

The committee, after consideration of the bill at eight meetings without arriving at a satisfactory solution of the problem, finally adopted a motion by Senator Clark, majority floor leader, to report the bill with the reduced retail sales rate and the extension of the tax to manufacturers and wholesalers.

Members said the decision was the result of a desire to get some sort of a bill to the floor of the Senate, where the question could be fought out. Senators Jones of Kennett and McReynolds of Carthage, advocates of a 2 per cent tax confined to retail sales, will offer amendments to that effect when the bill comes up for passage.

Taxes in Effect Pyramided.

As it emerged from the committee, the tax will be an occupation tax without any requirement in the bill that it be passed on to the consumer. Retail merchants said at committee hearings that the present one-half of 1 per cent occupation tax had been absorbed by the dealers.

By adding the manufacturers' and wholesalers' tax the committee in effect pyramided the taxes, members saying they assumed that the manufacturers' tax would be added to the price charged the wholesale dealer and that the wholesalers' tax would be added to that in the price charged the retailer.

There are no dependable statistics as to the amount of revenue which will be derived. Senator Wisdom of Bowling Green, chairman of the committee, said he thought the amount would be between $11,000,000 and $13,000,000, but the committee had before it no estimates on either the manufacturers' or wholesalers' sales. It has been estimated that the tax on retail sales this year will amount to about $5,000,000.

Allocation Section Killed.

The committee struck from the bill the allocation section, which had been based on the revenue at 2 per cent tax was expected to produce. This set aside 30 per cent up to $6,000,000 for relief, 10 per cent up to $2,000,000 for the care of insane patients, 10 per cent up to $2,000,000 for old age pensions and the remaining 50 per cent to school purposes.

As it now stands the allocation would be made in the general appropriation bill, but it is the intention of the committee to provide funds only for relief and old age pensions, except for the regular one-third of the collections which automatically go to the public school fund.

It has been estimated that $6,000,000 will be required for relief and about $2,000,000 for old age pensions. To obtain these amounts it will be necessary to collect $12,000,000, as under the school apportionment law one-third or $4,000,000 would go to the schools, leaving $8,000,000 for relief and pensions.

It is virtually certain that a strong fight will be made on the floor to restore the 2 per cent rate, to apply it only to retail sales and to require that it be passed on to the consumer. When the Senate action is completed the bill will be returned to the House for consideration of the Senate amendments.

Income Tax Proposal Tabled.

The House tabled today a proposed amendment to the State Constitution to provide for a tax on the gross income of business and individuals in Missouri. It was proposed to submit the amendment to the voters at the general election in 1936.

The amendment, sponsored by Representative Detienne of Audrain County, was killed by the House Committee on Constitutionaal Amendments, but brought out on the floor over the adverse report of the committee. Rates of one-half of 1 per cent and 1 per cent a year were proposed in the amendment.

REQUISITION ISSUED FOR MAN CONVICTED OF KILLING CHILD

JEFFERSON CITY, April 16.—A second attempt to return Dink Lucas, escaped life-termer from the Missouri State penitentiary, was begun yesterday.

Gov. Park this morning issued a requisition on the Governor of New Mexico for Lucas' extradition. Lucas, vonvicted of murdering six-year-old Pauline Miller in Stoddard County, 10 years ago, was arrested in Roswell, N. M., a week ago.

Several years ago former Gov. Henry S. Caulfield sought to have Lucas extradited, but the late Gov. Arthur Seligman of New Mexico refused to honor a Missouri requisition after residents of Santa Rosa, N. M., signed petitions stating that Lucas had been a law-abiding citizen there for several years. Lucas escaped from a prison farm on July 10, 1927, less than two years after he began his sentence.

CLOSED BRENTWOOD BANK TO SEEK $12,000 RFC LOAN

Liquidators Get Permission From Judge Nolte; Sum Would Pay 35 Pct. of Claims.

Authority to make application for a $12,000 loan from the RFC for the payment of 35 per cent of the claims of the depositors of the closed Brentwood Bank, was granted yesterday by Circuit Judge Nolte at Clayton to the St. Louis County Bank, acting as special deputy commissioner in charge of the liquidation.

The funds will be used to pay off part of $36,821 in claims of the bank's 486 depositors. The loan will be secured by part of the Brentwood Bank's assets.

The bank closed in March, 1933, with assets listed at $116,572. A preferred claim of the Brentwood school district, amounting to $17,804, was recently paid.

Princeton (Ind.) Courthouse Burns.

By the Associated Press.

PRINCETON, Ind., April 16.—The 51-year-old Gibson County Courthouse burned for two hours here yesterday morning before firemen got the flames under control. The fire was confined to the attic, but smoke and water caused considerable damage elsewhere. Fire equipment from Evansville and Vincennes was rushed here to help the local department. All records were removed safely from the building. Firemen said the blaze apparently started from a defective flue.

HUNDREDS CHANT IN STREETS AS NEGRO PASTOR IS FREED

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Several thousand Negroes and white persons demonstrated with all the fervor of a Southern camp meeting yesterday when Father Divine, the Negro who is considered a deity by many of his race in Harlem, was acquitted in the Court of Special Sessions on a charge of operating an unlicensed boarding house for children.

"Peace! Peace! It's wonderful! Peace, father, he is God!" shouted hundreds of his followers in a delirium of fervor. Outside in Lafayette street other thousands took up the rhythmic chant of "Peace! Peace!" as they crowded around the smiling pastor and his satellite, Faithful Mary, acquitted with him.

Negroes and white persons kissed and embraced each other in the streets, traffic slowed to a standstill as devotees of the deity of New York's Black Belt sought to touch his garments.

CHARGES HOLDING FIRMS RETAIN ALL SAVINGS THEY CITE

Dr. Splawn of I. C. C. Says Benefits of Large-Scale Operation Do Not Reach Utilities' Consumers.

RATE COMPARISONS OFFERED AT HEARING

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 16. — Appearing before the House Interstate Commerce Committee yesterday to reaffirm his conviction that control of holding companies over utility operating companies should be broken, Dr. Walter M. W. Splawn, a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, argued that passage of the Wheeler-Rayburn holding company bill would result in substantial savings to consumers of electricity.

To prove this point, Dr. Splawn, who is generally credited with drafting the Wheeler-Rayburn measure, introduced a series of tables showing that the rates of independent utility companies were markedly lower than those of subsidiary companies. This comparative study, made by the Federal Power Commission, also showed, Splawn said, that the rates of municipally-owned companies were drastically under those of the independent private units.

Comparisons of Rates.

"It will be noted," Splawn said in his statement presenting the Power Commission's tabulations, "that the bills of municipal electric rates are on the average unmistakably and substantially lower in cities of 100,000 and more population than are the bills charged by private companies, whether they be those under independent management or under holding company control.

"As between independent and subsidiary companies the rates are about equally high at consumptions of 100 and 250 kilowatt hours per month. When the consumer uses 25 kilowatt hours per month, however, he pays nearly half a cent per kilowatt hour more to subsidiary companies than to independent companies, and when he uses 500 kilowatt hours, over a quarter of a cent more per kilowatt hour."

By his testimony Splawn implied that if operating companies were divorced from holding company control, it would be possible to reduce the rates of subsidiaries in proportion to the savings now shown as between independents and companies uder holding company control.

Other Figures Cited.

"Similar comparisons for cities with populations from 50,000 to 100,000 show the typical bills of municipal electric systems again markedly below those of private companies for each consumption up to 500 kilowatt hours per month," Splawn said. "At that infrequently occurring level of use the average bill of municipal distribution systems is somewhat higher than the average bill of independent plants, but lower than that for holding company subsidiaries."

Of the cities covered by the Power Commission's survey, the average bill for 25 kilowatt hours in the group of 26 served by holding company subsidiaries was 38 cents, or 1.5 cents a kilowatt hour more than in the group of 13 served by independent companies, Splawn stated.

"Since municipal electric systems serve cities which are on the average smaller than those served by private companies, a comparison of municipal and private bills in cities of equal size should be even more favorable to municipal systems than the figures shown in the tables of this report," Splawn added. "As between independent and subsidiary companies, the influence of size of city on bills does not seem sufficiently important in cities between 50,000 to 100,000 population to mitigate in any way the unfavable comparison of subsidiary companies with independent companies in this population range."

Favors "Divorcement."

Splawn indicated that he had not modiifed his views of holding companies in the weeks that have intervened since he first appeared before Chairman Rayburn's committee. During that time dozens of utility executives, of both holding and operating companies, have expressed bitter opposition to the Wheeler-Rayburn bill. Splawn did say today that he was for "divorcement" of the holding company from control of its operating subsidiaries but not necessarily for actual dissolution of the holding companies.

"Holding company officials have said that there are very great savings in large-scale operation," Splawn said. "And I believe that that is true. It is true where a number of lines are tied into big power plants to form a co-ordinated power block.

"But, according to this showing, in the tabulation of the Power Commission, the holding companies are retaining all the advantages of these economies. They are not being passed on the users of electricity."

Splawn said that although utility companies have been able to show in the course of the hearings that the trend of average electric rates has been downwards since the beginning of the industry, this was, in his opinion, largely because of the greater volume of electricity used. He expressed a doubt as to whether all the savings which had resulted from this great increase in production had been passed along to consumers.

"These companies charge rates which are in the nature of a tax," said Splawn, stressing the status of the utility as a monopoly. "The consumer pays it because it is approved by public authority. Therefore it is of the utmost importance to protect the consumer.

"There are 20,000,000 consumers in this country. Are these 20,000,00 users to be required to bear the burden of paying profits made out of the sales of supplies imposed on them, to pay profits out of contracts for service imposed on them?

"They will not submit to it. They have forced a movement for municipal ownership that saddens anyone who realizes the waste of duplication. That sort of thing will continue if these holding companies are allowed to operate as they have been operating."

How Public Could Benefit.

"Can you give us a definite schedule of potential savings to consumers under this bill," Representative Pettengill (Dem.) of Indiana asked.

"I think it would be impossible to do that," Splawn answered. "But as I said, the table which I submitted this morning would indicate very clearly that the holding companies have not been passing on to the users of electricity the economics of large scale operation.

"I think the consumers will share in the economies if you scale down the financial structure of these great holding companies. After a reasonable profit, the public will benefit by the economies of large scale operation."

Splawn was the last witness. With the conclusion of his testimony the committee brings to an end nearly two months of hearings on the holding company bill. It is expected that in executive session the committee will largely rewrite the Wheeler-Rayburn measure. Many committee members have indicated strong opposition to the dissolution of holding companies within a five-year period called for in the present bill.

Reference to Pipe Lines.

Splawn approved that section of the bill which would bring natural gas pipe lines under Federal regulation as common carriers. He recalled a conference he held with City Counselor Charles M. Hay of St. Louis, who, according to Splawn, strongly urged adoption of the pipe line feature of the bill. A group of mayors of Middlewestern cities had also indorsed it, Splawn said. Four companies now "dominated" the natural gas field, he added.

Pettengill told the committee that he was in favor of eliminating the "jungle of intermediate holding companies" by a tax on dividends received by one company from another company. This would bring about a "simplification," he declared, which Splawn agreed would be "very helpful."

In answer to questions from Representative Wadsworth (Rep.) New York, Splawn said he favored both elimination and regulation of holding companies. Small holding companies, which would not be eliminated, would come under Federal regulation.

"They are so far in the stratosphere," Splawn said of the top holding companies, "so far above any statute that has yet been drawn, that I do not believe they can be reached by regulation. You cannot get an omnipotent, an omniscient commission," he went on, in response to questions from Representative Wolverton (Rep.), New Jersey, who has consistently favored regulation of holding companies as opposed to their elimination.

"It is not practical to draw a Federal statute that will regulate these top holding companies, these great empires with 50 to 250 corporations in their control," Splawn said in response to persistent questioning by Wolverton.

Refers to "Writeups."

Splawn had previously discussed, as in his earlier testimony, the burden which he believes the holding companies shoulder on operating companies. Foremost among these burdens he cited the huge writeups which occur, he said, when a holding company acquires an operating unit.

Of the total of $1,500,000,000 in writeups which Splawn said the Federal Trade Commission had shown in its utility investigation, $840,000,000 consisted of operating company writeups. Control had been gained he charged by small holding company groups through the use of money supplied by the investing public.

"The justification of profit is the willingness to take a risk," he said. "We have got along very well in the Western world under private enterprise. But here is a device by which the risk is transferred to the investor and the profit is taken by those who maneuver themselves out of all risk."

Splawn had been asked at his previous appearance to furnish a plan to show how the large holding companies would be broken up under the bill. He stated today that

AMAZING, but true! Now a simple device—installed in your present warm-air furnace at remarkably low cost—brings a totally new "air-conditioned" comfort to your home! A new and unique invention by the makers of the famous Holland furnaces—so simple, yet so wonderfully effective, you'll wonder it was never thought of before!

"Powered-Air" Principle . . . What It Does

Through this new development, your present warm-air furnace is transformed quickly and easily into a "Powered-Air" unit which produces a comforting relief in summer!

Clean, filtered air is kept in constant circulation throughout every room in your house . . . changing completely every ten minutes! The circulation produced is equal in many instances to a good-sized electric fan in each room!

Works Wonders In Winter, Too

In winter, your "Powered-Air" unit forces warm, clean, humidified air to every nook and corner of the house. Even "hardest-to-heat" rooms become comfortable and cozy! Floors stay wonderfully warm. Stale, stagnant air is banished from your rooms, and replaced by clean, healthy, correctly humidified air! With this new Type A Air Conditioner, your furnace operates in winter on safe temperatures of 150 to 200 degrees instead of 400 to 600 degrees, as in the old gravity heating systems. This alone drastically cuts fuel costs and adds years to the life of your furnace . . . such savings quickly pay for this air conditioning equipment.

Thousands are acting now to obtain the amazing benefits of the new low-cost Holland Air Conditioner this summer. Why deny yourself and your family all the year-round advantages in health and comfort this remarkable new invention brings? You'll be astonished when you find how little it costs!

BETHLEHEM'S PART IN MELLON DEAL IS TRACED

Steel Corporation Paid $80 a Share for Own Stock to Absorb McClintic-Marshall.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, April 16.—R. H. Schlottmann assistant auditor of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, testified at the A. W. Mellon income tax hearing today that Bethlehem paid almost $80 a share for 240,000 shares of its own common stock which was given as part payment in the absorption of the McClintic-Marshall Corporation.

Most of the stock was acquired late 1930, Schlottmann told the Tax Appeals Board, and was turned over to McClintic-Marshall stockholders on Feb. 10, 1930, along with $8,200,000 in 4½ per cent bonds.

At that time, however, so rapid had been the decrease in prices that Bethlehem's stock was priced at $58 a share—a decrease of about $4,500,000 in the price Bethlehem paid.

More than $1,000,000 of the Government's $3,089,000 extra tax assessment on Mellon's income for 1931 hinges on the McClintic-Marshall Bethlehem transaction, which the Government is trying to prove was not a statutory merger, as contended by Mellon, but a sale.

Mellon Denies Cashing In.

McClintic-Marshall had grown from a $250,000 concern in 1900 to a $65,000,000 giant in 1930, and under the law the stockholders would have been required to pay tax as capital gain on the difference at any time they "cashed in" on the profits.

It is Mellon's contention that he did not "cash in" when he received the Bethlehem stock and bonds for his share of the fabricating business of McClintic-Marshall, but that he only transferred his interest to Bethlehem in a merger — which would be a non-taxible transaction.

One of the points by which the Government says it can show the transaction was not a "true merger" is to establish that neither Bethlehem's assets or indebtedness were increase in the deal.

Fred R. Shearer, Government counsel, had Schlottmann trace through Bethlehem's books the numerous entries in connection with the deal.

Obligations Assumed.

Schlottmann showed that the Beth-Mary Corporation, one of the 60 subsidiaries of the $600,000,000 steel company had assumed the obligation of paying $12,000,000 of McClintic-Marshall bonds outstanding, and also to pay the $8,200,000 in Bethlehem bonds which were given in the deal.

McClintic-Marshall assets went to the Midvale Steel Co., which later was re-incorporated as the McClintic-Marshall Corporation of Pennsylvania.

So technical was the questioning that at times both attorney and witness became confused. Schlottmann once remarked:

"I'll have to study my accounts more with the assistance of my bookkeeper to tell what that entry means."

BOY WHO WAS IN STOLEN AUTO GETS 6 MONTHS AND WARNING

E. St. Louis City Judge Tells Kentuckian "Way of Transgressor Is Hard."

Robert Crow, 18 years old, of Princeton, Ky., pleaded guilty of driving an automobile without the consent of the owner in East St. Louis City Court yesterday, and was sentenced to six months in the St. Clair County Jail and fined $200.

City Judge Boarders warned him against "a career of crime" and advised him "to snap out of it. The way of the transgressor is still hard." Crow, who was arrested in February in a stolen automobile, insisted he was a hitch hiker and had been picked up by the driver of the automobile, who escaped. He was indicted for grand larceny but the charge was reduced with his plea of guilty.

Frank de Shields, 24-year-old Negro, was sentenced to one year to life for robbery while armed. He was arrested by police after they followed his footprints in the snow from the scene of the robbery last December.

FAVORS HOLDING FIRM BILL

Senator Truman of Missouri Says Public Needs Protection.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 16.—Regulation of holding companies was declared "absolutely essential" yesterday by United States Senator Harry S. Truman in a letter published here.

Senator Truman wrote he believed "some measure of protection should be given the investing public against the blue sky operators and the unscrupulous promoters who have used the holding companies as a means to rob the small investor," and added he would vote in accord with that conviction when the Wheeler-Rayburn bill is up for passage.

"It is impossible to foresee and plan for all the manifold consequences of this bill," Splawn answered. "That is humanly impossible with legislation as complex as this."

"These holding companies manufacture nothing but securities,' Splawn said. "They have asked you to put the stamp of Federal approval on the vast holding company writeups."

The witness suggested that the holding companies might become merely investment companies if it was decided to divorce them from control of the operating units through the measure. It is generally conceded that the bill will largely be rewritten as the result of nearly two months of hearings before the House committee.

He also said in answer to questioning that if the holding companies were forbidden to vote the stock they held in the operating companies and if at the same time groups of stockholders that now have no voting rights were "enfranchised," the holding companies would in effect be separated from control over their subsidiaries.

Pressed by Representative Huddleston (Dem.), Alabama, Splawn gave it as his opinion that the collapse of the Insull utility empire with consequent loss to thousands of investors, could still occur despite the securities and exchange law.

"If they could walk out of a bank with money to serve their purposes of expansion, they could walk out of a regulatory body with a certificate," Splawn said.

MOFFETT RESIGNS AS HOUSING CHIEF

Tells President He Wants to Leave Post Within Three Weeks.

WASHINGTON, April 16. — Expressing the opinion that the Government's housing program "really has started rolling," James A. Moffett, Federal Housing Administrator, asked President Roosevelt yesterday to make his resignation effective within the next three weeks.

Although handing in no written resignation, Moffett told the President he desired to carry out his previously expressed intention of retiring as soon as the Federal Housing Administration was successfully underway.

Moffett, who quit the vice-presidency of the Standard Oil Co. of California to take the $10,000 Federal post, plans to leave for the Orient within a month. The trip will be in the nature of a honeymoon with his bride of three months.

"I think the housing program is doing one of the finest jobs for the country and is firmly established," Moffett said on leaving the White House.

At a press conference later he said the new construction and refinancing section of the act "began to show itself within the last few weeks."

The spurt, he said, was due to the fact that all except eight of 10 states had removed restrictions that limited loans to 60 or 65 per cent of the value of property, while the Federal law allowed 80 per cent loans to be insured by the administration.

To date, Moffett said, the administration—which primarily is a long-term insurance proposition — has written $22,000,000 of insurance on homes and $9,283,000 on low cost housing, besides $54,631,000 on modernization and repair loans. There are 39 low cost housing projects in position to gain recognition shortly, he said.

REAL INTERVIEWS WITH REAL FOLKS as told to Madam X, EX-LAX Reporter

"I INTERVIEW A CHAMPION"
by MADAME X

SIX FEET of husky, healthy young manhood . . . former amateur middleweight champion of Pennsylvania . . . and he gives his mother the credit.

Here's what he told me when I interviewed him at the edge of the swimming pool:

"I attribute my present physical condition to my mother's advice and sane care. Whenever in need of a laxative, mother insisted on an Ex-Lax.

"During all these years, even though I keep in fine physical condition, there are times when Nature needs a helping hand. Then I take Ex-Lax."

Joseph Ransavage is just one of the millions of "children" whose mothers realized the value of Ex-Lax as the perfectly balanced, safe laxative.

Ex-Lax is as thorough as any laxative you can take. Yet it is safe. Gentle. It won't cause stomach pains, gripe or leave you feeling weak afterwards. It won't form a habit . . . you don't have to keep on taking more and more. And, it's a delight to take, since it tastes just like delicious chocolate.

And, that "Certain Something"

So many imitators have tried to produce a chocolated laxative that would equal Ex-Lax. But they couldn't. Why? Because Ex-Lax is more than just a chocolated laxative. Because the exclusive Ex-Lax process gives Ex-Lax a "certain something"—a certain ideal action that words just can't explain and that NO OTHER LAXATIVE HAS. But once you try Ex-Lax, you'll know what we mean, and nothing else will ever do for YOU.

Ex-Lax comes in 10c and 25c boxes at any drug store.

NOT CONNECTED WITH STANDARD OIL CO. (INDIANA)

For the past several years, motorists in the East and in the South have been familiar with "the ESSO sign." This big red, white and blue ESSO oval has marked the source of fine products and courteous service at more than 30,000 ESSO STATIONS and ESSO DEALERS from Maine to Louisiana.

At stations displaying the ESSO oval, discriminating motorists have been able to obtain:

UNIFLO Motor Oil.

OTHER QUALITY PETROLEUM PRODUCTS

Now, ST. LOUIS motorists can enjoy the same fine products and the same fine service as are available to motorists throughout the East and the South.

ESSO, INC., announces three new stations in St. Louis:

3538 SOUTH KINGSHIGHWAY at MIAMI
5549 EASTON AVE. at BURD
6901 EASTON AVE.

Call at one of these stations today. ESSO or ESSOLENE in the tank and ESSOLUBE or UNIFLO in the crankcase will make your motor do its best.

Look for "the ESSO sign." You will find it a symbol of quality and a sign of service.

DIZZY DEAN INJURED BY LINDSTROM'S DRIVE, TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

By J. Roy Stockton.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

CHICAGO, April 16.—Jerome Herman Dean, who whitewashed the Detroit Tigers in the last game he pitched "for keeps" went to the hill for the world champion Cardinals to oppose the Cubs of Charley Grimm in the opening contest of the new baseball season. The ace of the Redbird staff drew a worthy opponent, as Lonnie Warneke, also one of the best right-handers in the business, was the Chicago hurler.

Dizzy was injured by a line drive off Freddy Lindstrom's bat in the opening inning and had to be carried off the field. The ball struck Dizzy on the left shin, just above the shoe. After retrieving the ball and throwing it to first base, he crumpled to the ground near the first base line. After receiving first aid treatment he was carried off the field. Bud Tinning, a former Cub, went in to pitch for the Redbirds.

Manager Frisch, however, ordered him taken to the Edgewater Hospital for an X-ray examination.

Dr. Weaver, club trainer, describing the injury as a bone bruise, said he thought Dean would be able to return to duty in a week.

It was much too cold for baseball and had it been any other day the game would have been postponed. But opening day is opening day, with a heavy advance sale and enthusiasm far above normal, so the managemnet went through per schedule despite a temperature of only one degree above the freezing point.

Crowd in Overcoats.

The weather held down the attendance, but as a result of the advance sale it was expected that about 15,000 persons would brave the chilling breezes.

The sun was shining, but even in the bleachers the customers wrapped their overcoat collars around their necks. Players, except those actively engaged in the contest, were wrapped in sweater coats and blankets.

There were the usual opening day ceremonies with Mayor Edward J. Kelly throwing out the first ball and a band on hand to entertain the crowd before the game and between innings.

The Cardinals, as expected, took the field with the line up which Manager Frisch had used in recent exhibition games. Terry Moore in center field was the only new regular. Other positions were manned by the same warriors who chased the Detroit Tigers out of their ball park last October. It was even the same battery, with Bill DeLancey behind the plate to handle the great Dean's slants.

Grimm at First Base.

Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs decided to start the season at first base, but before the game he said he did not consider himself the team's regular first sacker.

"When he gets over a shoulder injury I'll show the fans something in this young Cavarretta," Charley asserted enthusiastically. "He's one of those rare birds, a real star. He'll be at first for us as soon as he's fit."

The game:

CUBS—Galan singled off Martin's leg. Herman bunted for a sacrifice and was safe on Martin's low throw, Galan reaching third. Cuyler fouled to Collins. Lindstrom lined a single off Dean's left shin, Galan scoring, Herman stopping at second. Dean was injured by the drive and after retrieving the ball and throwing to first he fell to the ground near the first base line and players from both teams ran out to give first aid. The ball hit Dizzy just above the shoe. He regained his feet after a few minutes but was limping badly. Ray Harrell and Bud Tinning began to warm up. Dizzy was carried off the field and Tinning was called from the bull-pen to take over the pitching job. Klein flied to Medwick. Collins threw our Grimm, Tinning covering first. ONE RUN.

SECOND — CARDINALS — Collins grounded to Judges. DeLancey popped to Jurges. T. Moore struck out.

CUBS—Hartntt hit a home run over the left field wall. Jurges popped to Frisch. Warneke was called out on strikes. Galan was hit by a pitched ball. Galan stole second and took third on De Lancey's low throw. Herman singled to center scoring Galan. Cuyler walked. Linstrom forced Cuyler, Durocher to Frisch. TWO RUNS.

THIRD—CARDINALS—Durocher singled to left. Wilson batted for Tinning and was called out on strikes. Martin hit into a double play, Warneke to Herman to Grimm.

CUBS—Harrell went in to pitch for the Cardinals. Klein struck out. Grimm flied to T. Moore. Hartnett singled to left. Jurges flied to T. Moore.

FOURTH—CARDINALS — Rothrock singled to center. Frisch popped a single to left, Rothrock stopping at second. Medwick flied deep to Galan, Rothrock moving to third and Frisch took second. Collins missed the swing at the third strike and when the ball got away from Hartnett, Rothrock scored, Frisch went to third and Collins to first. Hartnett was charged with an error. DeLancey hit into a double play, Herman to Jurges to Grimm. ONE RUN.

CUBS—Durocher threw out Warneke. Harrell threw out Galan. Herman flied to P. Moore.

BOXING EXPERTS ARE SLOW TO CLASSIFY MIKE GIBBONS' SON

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 16.—Young Jack Gibbons, winner of 46 successive fights, has the sports writers hereabouts in a quandary.

The talented middlweight son of "The Phantom" Mike Gibbons and nephew of Tommy Gibbons, has the scribes wondering whether to hail him as the coming champion in his division or "just another disappointment."

Since Art Lasky lost to Jimmy Braddock in the heavyweight "elimination" tournament, the writers in this section are careful about holding out too much promise for any "new sensations."

But Gibbons, trained and brought along perfectly by his father, has shown beautiful boxing in every bout with increasingiy tough opponents. His latest victim, Lee Savoldi, failed to connect solidly once with Gibbons in 10 rounds.

The future of Gibbons depends on himself—and his father. Old Mike has repeatedly said he would have his son drop out of the fight business if he did not think he could reach the top. Meanwhile, he does not plan to push him too fast.

"If he can handle it," says Mike, "that will be O K with me. But if he can't, we'll find something else for him to do. I won't leave him in that game to be cut to pieces."

Levinsky Stops Birkie.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, April 16.—King Levinsky of Chicago scored a technical knockout over Hans Birkie of Germany last night in the fourth round of their 10-round bout at the city auditorium. Levinsky weighed 197½, Birkie 197.

VICE-PRESIDENT RUTH KNOCKS HOMER IN FIRST GAME IN N. L.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, April 16.—The Hub's sixtieth National League opening saw the Braves with their new vice-president, Babe Ruth, stationed in left field for the inaugural of a three-game series with the Giants.

The rival pitchers were Southpaws Ed Brandt and Carl Hubbell.

It was dry, but cold and only about 22,000 were shivering in the stands as the first floral pieces of the occasion were set up in front of the field box occupied by Judge Emil E. Fuchs.

Manager Terry said that Mark Koenig would have to play second base the whole three games here for the Giants, due to the fact that he had just been informed that Hughie Critz's infected finger still had a drain in it, following the lancing operation of yesterday, and the midget Mississippian may not be able to rejoin the club until late this week in Philadelphia.

Ruth's National League debut was highly successful. In the first inning, with Urbanski on second, Babe singled through Terry to drive his teammate home with the first run of the game and later scored himself. He struck out for third out in the second inning and in the fifth, with Urbanski again on base, he cracked out his first home run of 1935, a terrific wallop over the right field fence which sent the crowd into an uproar.

WISCONSIN STUDENTS REJECT TAX LEVY TO SUPPORT ATHLETICS

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., April 16.—The plan to levy a fee against all students at the University of Wisconsin to support the athletic program has been discarded after a student vote on the subject, Athletic Director Walter E. Meanwell announced today.

Dr. Meanwell said 1116 students had rejected the plan and 1219 had voted in favor. The plan required the support of at least 75 per cent of the students for adoption.

"Such a project as a mandatory athletic fee needs active co-operation from the students," Dr. Meanwell said. "Neither I, nor anyone else in the department, would jam this down the throat of the campus. It didn't want it; it will not get it."

$30,000 CLASSIC TO BE RUN ON JULY 20

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 16.—Topped by the $30,000 classic on July 20, the six stake races to be decided during the July meeting at Arlington Park will have an aggregate value of $85,000 in added money. The Arlington Futurity on Aug. 2, the final day of the session, ranks second with $20,000 added.

Three of the stakes will have a value of $10,000 added each. They are the Stars and Stripes Handicap, the Arlington Lassie Stakes and the Arlington Handicap, which will be run July 4, 13 and 27, respectively. The $5000 Hyde Park Stakes for two-year-olds is slated to be run July 6.

Tennis Stars in Second Round of North-South Meet

PINEHURST, N. C., April 16.—Competition grew sterner today in the North and South tennis tournament as entries reached the second round and two seeded stars arrived for delayed starts.

Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., seeded first, and Barney Welsh of Washington, national public parks champion who is ranked fourth, failed to arrive for the first round, but both advanced, Allison by a default and Welsh by a bye.

Allison today faced H. S. Campbell of Chicago, while J. Gilbert Hall of Orange, N. J., seeded second, was paired against Ed Fuller of the University of North Carolina. Hal Surface of Kansas City, third ranked, was opposed by Hal Jones of the Elon College team.

Welsh and Marcel Rainville and Laird Watt, Canadian stars, opposed University of North Carolina performers.

Look Out Pitchers! He's in Again

Rogers Hornsby, former basehit king, expects to get into the game as often as the occasion justifies and his condition permits. "Haven't felt better in four years," Hornsby says of his playing outlook.

Spring Racing Meet at Fairmount Depends on Legislature's Action

Whether a spring racing meet will be conducted at Fairmount race track depends on the action of the Illinois Legislature, according to a telegram received by the Post-Dispatch from Robert S. Eddy Jr., general manager of the Collinsville plant.

Responding to a telegram Eddy wired: "If bill passes permitting more 'take,' will have meeting at Fairmount."—R. S. Eddy Jr.

Reference to the increased "take" is based on the fact that two bills each authorizing race track operators to take out of the total mutuel pool handled each day a greater percentage than the 6½ per cent permitted under the existing law are being considered by the Illinois legislature.

One of the bills would raise the take to 10 per cent, for cities not operating within 50 miles of an Illinois city of 500,000 or more. The other provides for an 8 per cent take with "breakage" to a dime (equal to 9½ per cent) for all Illinois tracks.

Because the last mentioned bill affords relief for all tracks, it is considered to have a better chance than the 10 per cent bill, which peculiarly favors Fairmount over other Illinois tracks.

The Racing Commission previously abandoned its drastic rule against passes of last year. Under the 1934 conditions Illinois tracks were forced to charge $1 admission and to limit passes to actual workers. This caused strong protests from all tracks and particularly Fairmount, which finally succeeded in getting a special abatement in admission price to 50 cents.

This year tracks may handle their own pass and ticket price situation. Under this rule Fairmount can go back to its former policy of issuing thousands of tickets on which the only price is a service charge of 25 cents to cover taxes and expenses of gate men, etc.

Last fall the situation was so unfavorable that Fairmount closed its gates a week before the meeting was scheduled to end. It turned out a losing proposition. Promoters of the track were uncertain whether another meeting would be held.

This year the outlook appeared more gloomy when a bill in the Missouri Legislature to legalize betting in Missouri threatened to result in competition in St. Louis. However, there is no possibility that a horse track can be built in time to compete with spring racing at Fairmount, even if legalized betting is approved in Missouri.

WEST, FIRST UP, TRIPLES AND SCORES ON HORNSBY'S SINGLE

By James M. Gould.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, April 16.—There was just about everything with which to joyfully celebrate the opening of the American League season here this afternoon except a big crowd. It was either too cold, or too early, or something, but the fact remains that when Rogers Hornsby's Browns and Walter Johnson's Cleveland Indians started play, there were fewer than 3000 in the stands.

There was a bright sun and just a nip in the air. Probably, St. Louis had the best weather of any city for the opening; probably, also, it had the smallest attendance.

Newsom Opposes Harder.

Managers Hornsby and Johnson stood by their overnight pitching selections and Louis Buck Newsom pitched for St. Louis and Mel Harder for Cleveland. Both teams were shy a regular with Jack Burns out for the Browns and Bill Knickerbocker, last year one of the great shortstops of the game, idle for Cleveland. Burns has been suffering from tonsilitis and Knickerbocker is recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

Burns' illness brought Manager Hornsby back into active service and the Rajah stationed himself at first base and at third place in the batting order. The veteran Glen Myatt caught for the Indians, while Rollie Hemsley handled Newsom's pitches.

Both players who figured in the Browns-Cleveland deal last winter, were in service, with Johnny Burnett at short for Hornsby and Bruce Campbell playing right field for Cleveland.

Brick Owens and George Moriarty were the umpires.

The game:

FIRST INNING — INDIANS — Hughes walked on four straight pitches. Vosmik hit into a double play, Burnett to Melillo to Hornsby. Burnett threw out Averill.

BROWNS—West tripled to left-center. Clift struck out. Hornsby beat out a high hopper to second base, scoring West. Pepper hit into a double play, Berger to Hughes to Trosky. ONE RUN.

SECOND — INDIANS — Trosky popped to Clift. Hale was called out on strikes. Campbell was also called out on strikes.

BROWNS—Burnett hit in front of the plate and was thrown out by Harder. Bell grounded to Berger. Hemsley was called out on strikes.

THIRD — INDIANS — Burnett threw out Berger from deep short. Myatt also grounded to Burnett. Newsom knocked down Harder's high bounder and threw him out.

BROWNS — Melillo singled to center. Newsom sacrificed, Harder to Trosky. West grounded to Berger, Melillo moving to third. Clift tapped to Harder.

FOURTH — INDIANS—Burnett threw out Hughes. Vosmik flied to Bell. Averill reached first when Clift fumbled his grounder. Bell went to the wall in right field for Trosky's long fly.

FIFTH—INDIANS—Hale singled over Melillo's head for the first hit off Newsom. Campbell popped to Melillo. Berger was called out on strikes. Hale was out stealing, Hemsley to Burnett.

CHANCE SUN WORKS MILE IN 1:44.3 IN DERBY PREPARATION

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 16. — J. E. Widener's Chance Sun turned in a fine workout yesterday at Churchill Downs in preparation for the Kentucky Derby. Over a track that was dusty on top but spongy beneath from recent rains, the winter book favorite stepped off a mile in 1:44 3-5, galloping out the last eighth. He covered the six furlongs in 1:14 and the seven-eighths in 1:28 4-5.

Linus Frey Hits First Home Run

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—The honor of hitting the first home run of the 1935 major league baseball season went to Linus Frey, St. Louis boy playing shortstop for Brooklyn. Frey, as the second man at bat in the opening game with Philadelphia, cracked one of Curt Davis' offerings over the right-field fence.

Braves Sign Benton.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, April 16.—Larry Benton, veteran right-hander, who has bemen a free agent since being cast adrift by the Cincinnati Reds, yesterday was signed to a Boston Braves' contract. Benton worked out with the tribe at St. Petersburg. He played with the Braves from 1923 to 1927.

Cold Prevents Two Openers

By the Associated Press.

Old man winter took a hand in the opening of the major league baseball season today and by early afternoon had forced a postponement of two of the eight scheduled clashes.

Exactly one-half of the first day's festivities in the American League was called off.

Snow and freezing temperatures at Detroit made it impossible for last year's pennant winning Tigers to make their 1935 debut against the Chicago White Sox, and cold weather also brought about a cancelation at Washington where President Roosevelt was all set to toss out the first ball as the Philadelphia Athletics squared off against the Senators.

NEW YORK BOARD TO SET DATES FOR FOUR IMPORTANT BOUTS

CARNERA-LOUIS FIGHT EXPECTED TO OUTDRAW THE HEAVY TITLE GO

Ross Is Too Heavy, Relinquishes His Lightweight Title

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 16.

THE lightweight division lacked a champion today, but Barney Ross, retiring from the throne after one successful title defense, may be back later to annoy the 135-pounders.

Under suspension here for failing to meet Lou Ambers of Herkimer, N. Y., Ross informed the State Athletic Commission he was relinquishing the title because he no longer could make the weight without weakening himself.

Then he announced he would meet Jimmy McLarnin for the welterweight championship here for Mike Jacob's twentieth century club, probably on May 28.

There was talk also of an elimination tournament to decide a new champion with Lou Ambers, Tony Canzoneri, Davey Day, Ross' Chicago stablemate, Cleto Locatelli and Frankie Klick, among others, as the contestants.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The New York Boxing Commission today will be asked to approve and assign dates for a million dollars worth of fights.

James J. Braddock vs. Max Baer	$ 200,000
Lou Ambers vs. Tony Canzoneri	50,000
Barney Ross vs. Jimmy McLarnin	250,000
Primo Carnera vs. Joe Louis	500,000
Total	$1,000,000

The first two will be promoted by Madison Square Garden; the others by the Twentieth Century Sporting Club.

Baer will defend his heavyweight title in the Garden's Long Island bowl, probably June 13. Ambers and Canzoneri will fight for the lightweight throne vacated yesterday by Barney Ross in the Garden itself, May 10.

The other two fights will be held in the local ball parks. Ross may fight McLarnin at a late June date and Carnera battle Louis, May 28. The commission will settle these matters.

It may seem strange to find a non-title fight outdrawing the three championship battles but anybody on Broadway will lay you even money that Carnera and Louis draw as much as the three other fights combined.

Harlem is all steamed up over the young sensation of its race and Jacobs already has received thousands of requests for tickets and the tickets have not yet been printed.

Should Baer knock out Braddock and Louis stop Carnera, Baer and Louis would be a cinch to draw a million-dollar gate in September. Jacobs already has tentatively signed the winners to meet under his direction.

FOUR INDIANAPOLIS DRIVERS ENTERED IN MIDGET AUTO RACES

Four drivers who have raced in the Indianapolis Speedway and a fifth who captured the title in 1931, are entered in the midget auto racing program to be held at the Arena next Tuesday night.

Entries have just been received by Promoter Earl Reflow from Harry McQuinn, Harold Shaw, Johnny Sawyer and Lou Schneider, all of Indianapolis, and Frank Brisco of Milwaukee for next week's program.

In addition drivers from Cincinnati and Fort Wayne, Ind., where tracks are being opened this week, are expected to compete.

Marshall Lewis, Tony Willman and Tudy Marchese turned in their entries to Reflow in Chicago, as did Jimmy Snyder and Jimmy Rogers. These last two have been lined up for a match race on next week's program which is the top event listed for that card so far.

STELLA WALSH TIRED OF BARNSTORMING; WILL ENTER COLLEGE

By the Associated Press.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 16.—Stella Walsh, 24-year-old Polish girl acclaimed by many the world's greatest feminine athlete, is going to college.

Here to play in a basketball game which her team of Cleveland girls won, she said she was tired of barnstorming.

"I don't know just what college it will be," she said, "but I intend to learn primarily how to teach athletics."

At present Stella is a student in Notre Dame Academy, a private girls' school in Cleveland. She said she hoped to take out United States citizenship papers.

CENTRAL BEATS CLEVELAND IN LEAGUE GAME

Central, with its second victory, moved into a tie with McKinley for the lead in the City High School League basketball race by defeating Cleveland, 15 to 12, yesterday afternoon at the Public Schools Stadium. It was Cleveland's opening game of the season.

Ray De Greeff had been scheduled to do the pitching, but unfortunately he was put out of commission by an accident over the week-end. De Greeff, in trying to crank an automobile, cut his right hand on the license plate of the car and three stitches had to be taken in his pitching hand.

Uses Four Pitchers.

Bert E. Fenenga, the Cleveland coach, had half a mind to use De Greeff, sore hand and all. Fred Nuergi started the game, but he was taken out after pitching to five batters and not retiring any of them. Bob Grebel did not fare much better than Nuergi, for he was found for six hits and as many runs in three and two-third innings. Norville Bleitz and Al Smith were the two other Cleveland throwers.

In fairness to all the boys who played in the game it should be stated that a gale from the Northwest swept the unprotected grounds and that the temperature was only a few degrees above the freezing point.

Martin Hughes went the full seven innings for Central to record his second victory. Hughes weathered Cleveland storms in the first and second innings and then kept the situation well in hand.

Central opened its half of the first with five runs and Cleveland came back with two. Then Central added a pair of tallies in the second, only to have Cleveland go into a 9 to 7 lead by scoring seven runs in its half. Cleveland was held scoreless during the third, fourth and fifth, but Central just about put the game on ice with two runs in each of those frames.

A belated Cleveland rally threatened Central's lead. Going into the last half of the seventh five runs behind, Cleveland at one time had the winning run at bat, but a double play nipped the uprising. Incidentally there were three twin killings, which was surprising considering the numbed fingers of the players.

Gene Greenwell, honor student and Cleveland's ace in center field, distinguished himself by hitting a home run in the seventh frame with the bases unoccupied. Norville Bleitz also hit for the circuit, lifting the ball over the right field fence with Pfeiffer on, in the first inning.

27 TEAMS COMPETE IN PAROCHIAL LEAGUE

Twenty-seven teams have entered the Parochial School Baseball League which opened its season last week, and 22 schools are represented with softball teams. St. John the Baptist, a large school, has two baseball teams, one at Carondelet and one at Marquette Park, and St. Edwards has entered one softball and one baseball team. The number of entries in softball is one-half what is was last year.

In each case, the teams are divided into five groups, and games are played in the public parks.

Rev. Martin Phelan and Jack O'Reilly have been re-elected to the presidency of the baseball and softball leagues, respectively. Rev. Bart Keaney is commissioner.

C. B. C. BEATS GATEWAY IN CORKBALL OPENER

The Gateway Corkball League opened, with C. B. C. and the Gateway team playing a scoreless tie in the first game, and the C. B. C. team winning the second, 1-0. In another set of games, the Wilkes defeated the Cizeks, 2-0, and then tied, 0-0.

In the third set of games, after a scoreless tie contest, the Neudeck batters pounded out an 8-2 victory over the Massaras. The second round of league play will be held next Sunday, starting at 9 o'clock in the morning.

POLLACK, MRS. BLASS WIN IN GOLF TOURNEY

Mrs. Blass and Lee Pollack won the mixed two-ball Scotch foursome Saturday in the tournament held at the Jefferson Barracks golf club as it inaugurated its season. Dr. Frank T. Duffy and Mrs. A. Regnier won second.

Other winners were Capt. R. Hnederson in the driving contest for men, Mrs. A. Regnier in the women's driving contest; Johnny Manion and Lieut. A. Regnier defeated John Pepp and Capt. R. Henderson in a best-ball exhibition with a 68.

WESTMINSTER TO OPEN ITS BASEBALL SEASON

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FULTON, Mo., April 16.—Westminster College will open its spring baseball schedule at Fulton Thursday, meeting Kirksville State Teachers College in the first of two games scheduled between these two schools.

The complete schedule is as follows: April 23, Missouri University at Fulton; April 30, Kirksville Teachers at Kirksville; May 2, Missouri University at Columbia; May 6-7, Missouri Valley at Marshall; May 13-14, Missouri Valley at Fulton.

JOCKEY WHO RODE THOMOND II DIES

By the Associated Press.

CHELTENHAM, England, April 16.—Willie Speck, British jockey, who finished third on Thomond II in the Grand National Steeplechase March 29, died in a hospital here today from injuries received a spill last Wednesday. His spine was injured when he fell while riding Gwelo.

Owns 14 Infielders.

JACKSON ROLLS 752 TO LEAD IN MAJOR CIRCUIT

Rolling a double-header in the Major City League on the Rogers Recreation alleys last night, local tenpinners did some heavy shelling.

When the firing had ceased, it was found that there were four totals better than 3200; four over 3100 and four better than 3000. In addition, three individuals had hit for better than 700, with Lowell Jackson showing the way with 752, including a high single game of 280. Art Scheer totaled 717 and Ben Cohen 702 for the other high figures.

The Budweisers, fourth-place winners in the five-man event of the recent American Bowling Congress tournament, counted 3246 for the high team figure of the evening. In their other match, the Budweisers scored 3095. Rolling in the same match, the Charles Krons had 3230 against a 3217 for the Hermanns. The Silver Seals had 3209 for the other 3200 count. In another match, the Seals scored 3103.

The Rogers five had scores of 3182 and 3164; the Lambers 3123 and 3036; Old Judge 3054 and the Hermanns 3093.

The results were as follows: First match, Silver Seals 3, Cabannes 0; Budweisers 2, Old Judge 1; Rogers 2, Hermanns 1; Lamberts 3, Say It With Flowers 0. Second series—Rogers 2, Say It With Flowers 1; Cabannes 2, Old Judge 1; Lamberts 3, A. B. C. 0; Budweisers 3, Silver Seals 0; Hermanns 2, Krons 1.

MANESS IS WINNER IN SIX-GAME PIN EVENT

Howard Maness was declared the winner of the third annual six-game handicap bowling classic at the Cherokee Recreation Saturday and Sunday following a close checkup of the averages and handicaps. Maness knocked down 1299 pins, including 54 sticks handicap, for a 209 average to beat out the veteran southpaw, Lee Nyhoff, who carded 1289. A total of 175 bowlers competed.

The rest of the first 10 and their scores follow: Gus Stumhofer 1269, W. Prasuhn 1263, L. Bankenbring 1258, C. Shoppe 1242, A. Guenther 1238, Sam Story 1237, Ted Menze 1228, Tom Cummings 1219, M. Aubuchon 1219. Bankenbring is from Edwardsville, Ill.

INITIALS NOT ENOUGH FOR L. S. U. ATHLETE

By the Associated Press.

BATON ROUGE, La., April 16.—How "No Name" Black, Louisiana State University's sophomore understudy to Glenn "Slats" Hardin, came to be named "No Name" has been puzzling cinder followers. But fellow students who gave it to him understand. They say it's literally correct. The students tell a story about how Black, registering at L. S. U. from Fort Worth, Tex., made out his enrollment card and signed it "E. A. Black." The registrar asked Black what the "E. A." stood for.

"They don't stand for anything," Black replied. "I was just baptized 'E. A.'" At the registrar's suggestion, however, Black took the arbitrary Christian names of "Edgar Allen" after Edgar Allen Poe.

BAER ACCEPTS BRADDOCK AS OPPONENT FOR TITLE BATTLE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Max Baer today accepted James J. Braddock, veteran New Jersey slugger, as an opponent for a heavyweight championship bout and the two will meet for the title June 13 in Madison Square Garden's big Long Island bowl.

The State Athletic Commission approved the match today shortly after contracts signed by Baer and Braddock had been filed by representatives of the Garden.

The commission also accepted the resignation of Barney Ross as lightweight champion and ruled that his successor will be the winner of a 15-round match between Lou Ambers of Herkimer, N. Y., and Tony Canzoneri in Madison Square Garden May 10.

Ambers agreed that if he wins from Canzoneri he will defend the title against any opponent the commission may name within 90 days.

Mike Jacobs, promoter for the Twentieth Century Sporting Club, asked that he be awarded June 5 for a welterweight title match between Jimmy McLarnin and Barney Ross, and June 19 for his proposed heavyweight contest between Primo Carnera and Joe Louis, the Detroit Negro, but the commission decided the dates were too close together and set May 28 for the Ross-McLarnin match and June 25 for the Carnera-Louis encounter. The former will be held at the Polo Grounds and the latter at the Yankee Stadium.

THREE NEW PILOTS IN INTERNATIONAL AS 1935 CAMPAIGN OPENS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 16.—With three new managers and a generous sprinkling of rookies and major league castoffs on each club, the International Baseball League will open its fifty-second season tomorrow with the prospects of another hard-fought battle for the four play-off positions.

There will be no little world series this year, the International League and American Association having broken off relations in that regard, but the two ranking teams in each of the North and South divisions again will meet in the playoff series with the players sharing in a special fund to be set aside during the regular season.

The opening games will find the Newark Bears, winner of the regular season race for the last three years, at home to the Rochester Red Wings; the Toronto Maple Leafs, victor in the playoffs, at Syracuse; the Montreal Royals at Baltimore and the Buffalo Bisons, Albany.

Rochester, Syracuse and Albany will start the season with new leaders. Eddie Dyer, a member of the St. Louis Cardinals' farm system for seven years, will be at the helm of the Red Wings, while Al Mamaux, erstwhile manager of the New Bears, will guide the Senators and Harry Leibold, former major leaguer, will direct the chiefs.

BOUCHER AND SHORE AWARDED HOCKEY CUPS

By the Associated Press.

MONTREAL, April 16.—The National Hockey League's individual awards—the Dr. David A. Hart and Lady Byng trophies—go to two veterans of the ice wars, Eddie Shore of Boston and Frank Boucher of the New York Rangers.

Shore won the Hart trophy, given annually to the player adjudged most valuable to his team. The big Boston defense star, who won the trophy in 1933, won a close race with Charley Conacher of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Boucher won the Lady Byng trophy, awarded the player who best embodies the highest type of sportsmanship combined with superior player ability. The Ranger center now has won this trophy three years in succession and seven times in all.

DETROIT CLUB WINS MINOR HOCKEY TITLE

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 16.—The Detroit Olympics packed the unofficial title of minor league hockey champions in their bags today to leave behind a crew of disgruntled Vancouver Lions.

And most disgruntled of all was Johnny Clark, net custodian of Guy Patrick's Northwestern pro league champions. The black-thatched goalie says he helped the Olympics to a 4-3 overtime decision last night in the fifth and deciding game of hockey's "little world series."

BILL FRIEL ELECTED TO TROLLEY LEAGUE BOARD

Bill Friel, former member of the St. Louis Browns business organization, has been elected to an honorary membership of the Missouri-Illinois Trolley Baseball League's board of directors.

Two clubs will have new names this season. The Kirkwood team has been changed to the Alpen Braus, while the Central (Ill.) team will now be known as the Centralia Boosters instead of the Jo-Boes.

The teams took their first workouts last Sunday. The league season starts a week from this coming Sunday. The opening games are: Collinsville at Edgemont, Alpen Braus at Belleville, and Central at Mount Vernon.

PERRY DEPARTS FOR EUROPE TO PARTICIPATE IN TENNIS EVENTS

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 16.—Leaving behind offers of a movie contract, Fred Perry, international tennis star, today was en route to New York and a boat for his native England to resume net play—and possibly patch up a broken romance.

The Englishman, world's amateur singles champion, packed up his bags and abruptly deserted Hollywood 12 hours after his fiancee, Mary Lawson, British actress, announced in London that their engagement was "off."

"He wants to live in America and become a screen actor. I don't want to live over there. I have my interests here in London," said Miss Lawson.

Perry, always reluctant to discuss his personal affairs, said nothing in response to Miss Lawson's statement. Yesterday afternoon he talked with film studio executives where negotiations have been under way for several weeks but apparently an agreement was not reached.

"I speak with responsibility and full knowledge of the facts when I say Mr. Perry has not turned professional, despite many rumors and reports to that effect," said Perry T. Jones, secretary of the California Tennis Association, with whom Perry talked before boarding a train (Golden State Limited) for the East.

"On the contrary," Jones continued, "he left for England for the purpose of competing in tennis tournaments which the English Lawn Tennis Association arranged for him, and to place himself at the disposal of his country and his tennis association in the defense of the Davis Cup championship.

"As to Miss Lawson's statement, I can say only that Mr. Perry is returning to England at once and that his status is 'unchanged.'"

Pressed for elaboration of the "unchanged status" remark, Jones said it might be "construed" to refer to the canceled engagement of the actress and the tennis star.

SUIT FOR $442,000 UNDER NUGENT LEASE

$8000 a Year From Jan. 1, 1932, to April 1, 1987, Sought in Court Action.

Suit for $442,000 rent, claimed under the remaining life of a long lease on part of the site of the defunct Nugent's department store, was filed in Circuit Court today. It sought $8000 a year from Jan. 1, 1932, to April 1, 1987; also $35,268 in taxes alleged to be due and $35,000 for damages said to have resulted from an alteration of the building.

The lot, measuring 75 by 160 feet, is at the northeast corner of Broadway and St. Charles street. The original lease was made by the late Frederick S. Giddings in 1888 and was assigned to the Broadway Real Estate Co. Plaintiffs in the suit were his sons, Charles and William Giddings of Madison, Wis., and Arthur Giddings of Winter Haven, Fla., represented by Attorney Arthur J. Freund. The defendants were a group of persons interested in the Broadway Real Estate Co. or otherwise concerned with the property. Among them were Horatio N. Spencer, Thomas T. Richards, Randall S. Dodd and Tom W. Bennett, said to be the last board of directors of the Broadway company.

It was alleged that about $100,000 was about to be distributed among holders of $250,000 in first mortgage bonds on the property, and that when the Broadway company was liquidated in 1926 the mortgage bonds and other assets amounting to $395,387 were distributed among the small group of persons holding its shares.

The department store has been closed for more than two years and the leasehold has been abandoned, it was asserted in the suit, as the basis for claiming payment of the entire balance of rent due under the lease. The leasehold and other property were sold to E. A. Giblin, representing the National Department Stores of Delaware, which operated Nugent's, and payment was made in $40,000 cash and $460,000 in first and second mortgage bonds, it was set forth. It was declared that National Department Stores guaranteed payment of the bonds, but went into voluntary bankruptcy in 1933.

An injunction to prevent transfer of the anticipated payment on the bonds was asked for, as was appointment of a receiver to hold the property. The petition asked the Court to determine damages due for abandonment of the lease and to require an accounting for the distribution of assets of the Broadway company. The St. Louis Union Trust Co. was made a defendant as depository for the first mortgage bonds and because of other connections. Freund said this property was one of the few in the city which had been in one family for so long. Frederick Giddings' father, an early missionary here, who established a church at Fourth and St. Charles streets, bought this lot as a pasture for his horse.

Times Beach Directors.

The Times Beach Property Owners' Association, at its annual meeting at Hotel Statler last night, elected five directors for three-year terms. Those elected were H. C. Kuhnert, William Heilman and A. J. Hornfeld of St. Louis and Anthony Blomes and J. B. Falkel of Eureka. Times Beach is on the Meramec River near Eureka.

BRITISH WOMAN PROTESTS AGAIN AT AN EXECUTION

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 16.—Mrs. Violet Vanderelst, opponent of capital punishment, headed another demonstration at Wandsworth jail, where Percy Charles Anderson was hanged today for the murder of Edith Drew Bear on a Brighton golf links.

Prior to the execution, police guarded both ends of the road leading to the jail. Mrs. Vanderelst, however, evaded the cordon and drove her limousine to the main prison gates. There she was halted by a Constable, who asked for her driver's license.

Apparently she had none, for police took her statement and then informed her she would be summoned for assault on a Constable who jumped on the running board of her car, fell off and was injured while she was making her dash for the prison.

Other cars carrying some of Mrs. Vanderelst's followers and equipped with loud speakers to spread her message were turned back as they attempted to enter the road.

Mrs. Vanderelst organized a demonstration April 2 at the time of the execution of a former naval petty officer convicted of cutting a shipmate's throat.

MOTORIST GETS SIX MONTHS AND FINE AS CARELESS DRIVER

Machine of Ralph Solberg Struck and Fatally Injured Woman, Nov. 9.

Ralph Solberg, a salesman, of 2817 North Grand boulevard, was sentenced to six months in the workhouse and fined $500 today by Police Judge Vest on a charge of careless driving of his automobile. He appealed.

Solberg was the driver of an automobile which struck Mrs. Joseph Rosenauer last Nov. 9 at Jefferson and Lafayette avenue. She died of her injuries a week later. The Coroner's jury held Solberg for criminal carelessness, but the grand jury refused to return an indictment.

Preston Stewett, 2831 Eads avenue, testified that Solberg drove his automobile through a safety zone, striking Mrs. Rosenauer as she stood there. Solberg testified that Mrs. Rosenauer left the safety zone and walked into the side of his car.

150 FLEE BEFORE FIRE SETS OFF DYNAMITE; 7 HURT

Agent Gives Alarm Just Before Explosives Wreck Station at Helenwood, Tenn.

By the Associated Press.

HELENWOOD, Tenn., April 16.—Explosion of a store of dynamite and blasting powder wrecked a railroad station, shattered hundreds of window glasses and slightly injured seven persons here today.

Fire starting in the residence of Mrs. Burdette Keeton spread to a warehouse in which 20 cases of dynamite and 200 cases of powder were stored.

The structure was about 300 yards from the railroad station, which, along with several stores and other buildings, was reduced to a mass of debris. The Masonic hall was destroyed by the fire.

"I saw the danger," said J. C. O'Connor, railroad station agent, "and started the alarm for residents to run for their lives." O'Connor said about 150 to 200 men and women had reached the edge of town when the blast occurred.

THREE FREED, ON APPEAL, IN RELIEF OFFICE DISORDERS

Acquitted After Being Fined in Police Court; Charge Against Another Dropped.

Miss Elvi Wekmark, Mrs. Mamie Edwards, Negro, and Owen Lutz were acquitted by juries in Judge Griffin's Court of Criminal Correction yesterday of peace disturbance charges growing out of disturbances at relief offices last fall. Following the acquittals a charge against Roy A. Friend, jointly charged with Lutz, was dismissed.

The four had appealed from $100 Police Court fines. Miss Wekmark and Mrs. Edwards were arrested last November at the Bureau for Homeless Women, 3817 Olive street, and Lutz and Friend at the Provident Association offices in October.

Standard Oil's Live Power Album

IN THIS PITCHED BATTLE STAKES WERE HIGH— WHO WON?

Life itself was at stake in the battle pictured here witnessed some years ago by a reputable sportsman. Two white mountain rams came galloping into view, pursued by a pack of five wolves. Finally, when they reached a wide shelf of rock, the rams whirled and poised themselves for the onslaught, each a veritable coiled spring of Live Power.

As the leader of the wolves reached the ledge, the biggest ram became a blurred white projectile. His charge sent the wolf whirling and twisting into the depths below. On came the pack, only to be met, each in turn, by those irresistible charging horns. When the last wolf had gone hurtling over the precipice, the two victorious rams gazed for a moment over the edge. Then they shook themselves, turned back to the rocky wall, and leisurely, peacefully, lay down to rest.

MO.-PAC. SUBSIDIARY TO PAY $690,960 INTEREST ON BONDS

Disbursement Held Up Pending Supreme Court Decision on Gold Clause.

Payment of $690,960 interest on River and Gulf Division first mortgage bonds of the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railroad, was ordered yesterday by Federal Circuit Judge Faris on application of trustees of the Missouri Pacific Railroad.

The order provides for payment in lawful money. The application said that interest payment had been delayed because bondholders sought collection on basis of gold payment or its equivalent, but since the United States Supreme Court upheld abrogation of the gold clause in bonds, the holders were willing to accept the interest in lawful money.

The bond issue amounts to $34,548,000 and is secured by a first lien on equipment. The payment ordered will meet all interest due to next May 1 at 4 per cent.

Senate Passes Interior Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The $61,000,000 Interior Department appropriation bill was passed today by the Senate and sent to conference with the House to adjust differences between the two branches. The Senate attached a provision creating a new office of Under Secretary o fthe Interior at a salary of $10,000 a year. An effort by Senator La Follette to inscrease an industrial loan fund for Indians from $2,500,000 to $5,000,000 was defeated.

ALDERMEN BEAT MAYOR'S EFFORT TO RULE BOARD

By Vote of 17 to 12 They Defeat Move to Confer Powers on President William L. Mason.

NINE NEW MEMBERS OPPOSE DICKMANN

Bernard J. Fitzsimmons, Who Is Anti-Administration Man, Elected Vice-President.

New Aldermen Guests of Mayor at Dinner

Mayor Dickmann's effort to control the new Board of Aldermen was defeated decisively when the board began its annual session today. Led by a group of Aldermen who differed with the Mayor during the first two years of the Democratic administration, the board overrode, by a vote of 17 to 12, the proposal of the Mayor's forces to center authority in William L. Mason, the new aldermanic president.

Bernard J. Fitzsimmons, new Alderman from the Eighth Ward, was elected vice-president with the backing of the Mayor's opponents, who did not put up a candidate against him. Rules which have been in force for the last two years, giving the vice-president the power to appoint committees, rule on points of order and supervise board employes, were adopted for the new session.

Rules Changed in 1933.

Mason, who had joined in the Mayor's effort to control the board, was allowed no more authority than the Democratic majority of the board gave Walter J. G. Neun (Rep.), the retired president, during the past two years. He may preside, preserve decorum and vote. He will not have the privilege which Neun had before the Republicans lost control of serving as an ex-officio committee member.

The rules were changed, when the Democrats took charge of the board with a 16 to 13 majority in 1933, as a means of concentrating authority in their party. Today, for the first time in its history, the board consisted entirely of Democrats. Alderman Golden, vice-president for the first year under Democratic rule, who directed the movement to shear Neun of power, today led the unsuccessful effort to restore the authority to Mason.

Although the 14 Aldermen from the even-numbered wards elected April 2 and inaugurated today ran on a platform indorsing Dickmann's administration, nine of them joined in the movement against control by the Mayor, while seven of the 14 Aldermen holding over supported Dickmann. The division on all questions was of the same personnel, 17 to 12.

Voting Against Mayor.

Those voting against the Mayor were: Aldermen Byrne, Fitzsimmons, Murray, John J. O'Connor, Charles O'Connor, Reidy, Routledge, Schweppe and Ziegenbalg, new members, and Aldermen Brown, Collins, Gummels, Hastey, Israel, Lietchen, Petersen and Slay, old members.

Those supporting the Mayor were: President Mason and Aldermen Couplin, Toberman, Walsh and Warnick, new members, and Aldermen Genteman, Golden, Hoeflinger, O'Toole, Pahl, Scott and Terry, old members.

The two new Aldermen with the same surname were identified on roll call as "O'Connor of the Fourth" and "O'Connor of the Sixteenth."

With Alderman Collins, the retiring vice-president, in the chair, the board convened and heard an invocation by Brigadier Lundgren of the Salvation Army and the singing of "America" by John Mahrer. City Register Cullinane administered the oath to the newly elected members. Collins and Golden at once sought to bring up the rules contest, but Mason held they were out of order because the program called for a speech by him. In a brief talk he pledged co-operation with the Aldermen and support of the administration.

74 Rules Are Read.

Collins then moved to readopt the rules of the last session. Golden offered an amendment to defer action so the new members could study the old and proposed new rules. The amendment was voted down, 17 to 12, and Collins' motion was adopted after the 74 rules had been read by the clerk at Golden's insistence and over Collins' objection. Mason said he would always have any paper read which any member desired to be read. Golden complained that the action taken stripped the president of power, saying he had not dreamed the device followed two years ago to hamper a Republican would be renewed against a Democrat.

Fitzsimmons Choice Unanimous.

Fitzsimmons, nominated by Collins for vice-president, was elected unanimously. In return, Fitzsimmons nominated Collins for Speaker pro tem, or floor leader, a positon Collins held in the first year of Democratic authority. This election also was unanimous. Fitzsimmons, brother of James J. Fitzsimmons, Democratic committeeman of the Eighth Ward and Chief Deputy Sheriff in the criminal division, was assistant clerk of the Board of Aldermen for more than a year and a half and recently was its clerk.

Harry W. O'Brien of Justice of the Peace Jimmy Miller's Fourth Ward Democratic organization, who had been assistant clerk, was promoted to clerk at $325 a month. Marshall McTague, who withdrew as an aldermanic candidate against Fitzsimmons, was made assistant clerk.

At the end of the meeting, Mayor Dickmann read his annual message to the board before the audience of several hundred persons in the flower-decorated aldermanic chamber. He recommended provision for issuance of $5,000,000 of the $16,100,000 improvement bond issue voted last year.

Dickmann said the improvement bonds should be sold to provide for work which should be done this year. All, or at least the major portion, of a $5,000,000 block, he said, could be supported by the merchants' and manufacturers' license taxes. If additional revenue was needed to carry these bonds, he added, it must be provided, so that the work could proceed.

One Block of Bonds Sold.

One block of last year's bonds, amounting to $3,500,000, was sold last January. The Mayor pointed out that of this group, $1,000,000 worth was being supported from the increase of the city gasoline tax and the remainder from the increase in the merchants' and manufacturers' taxes, both increases having been made last year. He reported that no additional taxes would have to be provided to meet requirements of earlier bond issues.

The deficit in general accounts for the fiscal year ended last week was about $900,000, compared with $149,198 a year previously, Dickmann told the Aldermen, explaining that expenditures of the last year were no greater than in the preceding year, except for the restoration of a 10 per cent cut in the city payroll and for the increased cost of food and drugs at institutions.

Balancing of Budget.

Urging balancing of the budget in the new fiscal year, he said this could be done by reducing operating expenses, by improved collection of current and delinquent taxes or by adoption of new taxes. Unnecessary items would be eliminated from the new budget, he promised, "but it is difficult to see how we can reduce operating expenses much, if any, below the amount expended last year."

"If additional services are to be rendered," he continued, "we will simply have to have additional revenues. We must, if we are to have better service, look to a better collection of taxes and additional revenue measures, or both. There should be, can be and, I predict, will be a great improvement in the collection of taxes. If the tax collection department functions, as we have every reason to expect it will, sufficient revenues can be brought in to meet our needs."

However, the Mayor recommended a review of the study of tax measures made by an aldermanic committee last year, "to determine whether some measures should be enacted not only to provide additional revenue, but to equalize the tax burden." This should be deferred, he suggested, until after the Legislature adjourned.

The Relief Situation.

Only about half of the $3,600,000 in public relief bonds voted at the recent election must be issued this year, the Mayor reported, saying the city's record in providing relief funds was enviable and expressing hope that the Legislature would make adequate provision for the State's share, to avoid embarrassment in obtaining Federal relief aid. The city, he added, should stand ready to co-operate with the Federal Government in the new work-relief program. The municipal relief bonds will be supported from the Municipal Bridge tolls.

In view of the probability that the Legislature would give the city greater power in regulation and taxation of liquor and non-intoxicating beer, the Mayor recommended consideration of the local ordinances on the subject after the prospective statutes became effective.

Wants Fuel Investigation.

Continuation of the special aldermanic committee which has been studying the possibility of supplying straight natural gas to consumers was urged by Dickmann. He suggested that the committee be empowered to look into all phases of the fuel problem, including use of coke and proper burning of soft coal, in order to arrive at a sound conclusion for elimination of smoke. The investigation, he said, should be thorough and rapid, "so that in the event we should decide to set up a municipal gas or coke system, or both, we may be in a position to secure an allotment of Federal funds."

The administration movement for traffic safety was not just a campaign, but a fixed policy, the Mayor asserted. He requested a careful study of traffic ordinances to eliminate unreasonable or unnecessary regulation, including useless traffic stopvs. He praised co-operation of the police, in advocating vigilance on their part, and reiterated his policy against "fixing" of charges against traffic offenders.

Much work lay ahead in the effort to establish a Jefferson-National Expansion Memorial on the river front with Federal aid, the Mayor pointed out. He predicted that the next two years would be "most eventful" and said the city officials should consider themselves fortunate to be able to serve at such a time. Pledging co-operation with the Board of Aldermen, he refrained from mentioning the contention over control of the board.

VIOLENT RIOTING AGAINST GERMANS ON POLISH BORDER

PROPERTY OWNERS BEATEN AND STONED

Reich Undecided on What Steps to Take—'Quick Note of Regret' for Outbreaks Suggested.

By the Associated Press.

GDYNIA, Poland, April 16.—Reinforced police squads patrolled communities in Pomorze (the Polish corridor) today as a precaution against renewed outbreaks of anti-German rioting.

In violent disorders of the last few days, one Nazi has been killed, several seriously wounded, about 100 shops wrecked and many windows in the homes of members of the German minority smashed.

A German official spokesman said he thought the Reich Government had not decided what steps to take in view of the demonstrations. It was suggested that possibly the Polish Government wished to avert a German protest by a "quick note of regret."

The demonstrations started Sunday in Wejherowo, a town of 9000, after the Polish burgomaster had addressed a meeting in protest against organization of the German minority. The burgomaster repeatedly referred to suppression of the Polish minority during the parliamentary election in the Free City of Danzig. After singing the national anthem, a mob of several thousand persons, shouting "Out with Germans," and "Down with German dogs," marched through the town.

Mob Gets Out of Control.

Police were unable to cope with the situation after cries of "Smash the German shops" and the firing of several shots had provided the signal for hotheads to break down a wall near a cemetery and throw bricks into show windows, business houses and the homes of Germans.

The victims of the attacks took shelter behind barricades. Property owners attempting to defend their premises were severely beaten and dispersed by showers of stones thrown by the mob.

About the same time, 40 young Poles in nearby Kack, armed with knives and daggers, smashed windows and broke in the doors of a German restaurant. Fritz Groehn was stabbed and his father and several others seriously wounded. Groehn died later in a hospital.

After this attack, the demonstrators marched to the home of a merchant named Kuehl, threw furniture from the windows and wounded the householder. The wounded Germans were taken across the border to a hospital in Zoppot, a village in the confines of the Free City of Danzig.

Situation in Silesia.

Further violent incidents were reported to have occurred in the towns of Zuckow and Rahnel. Reports from the Silesian coal fields said police had been ordered to watch for new outbreaks in that area, where Poles are said to be manifesting hostility toward the German minority schools.

A dispatch from Krolewska, Upper Silesia, said children were urged to rebel against their parents in anti-German demonstrations throughout the region. The children were urged to force their parents to take them from German minority schools, the dispatch said. Polish Deputy Baldyk asked residents of Zorny to boycott parents who send their children to German schools. He was supported by the Mayor of Zorny.

Inflammatory speechs were made and handbills scattered over the entire region denouncing German schools.

ZION, Ill., April 16.—William Edwards became Mayor of Zion yesterday, several days ahead of schedule, and announced plans to make the home of Wilbur Glenn Voliva a "normal village."

Neither a "wide open" town nor one strangled by "blue laws" was Edwards' pledge as he and colleagues took over the city government, dominated for more than two decades by Voliva, overseer of the Christian Catholic Apostolic Church.

Edwards, termed a "young Bolshevik" by Voliva, previously had said he would see that Zion "returned to the ways of the fathers" who, through strict regulations, halted smoking, use of tobacco, low-neck dresses, dancing, motion pictures, pork, bathing suits and other evils."

Later he moderated things, saying he wanted Zion to be a normal vil-

Philadelphia Court Severely Condemns 6 Lawyers in Disbarring Them for Unethical Practices

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—A State Senator, a Civil Service commissioner and four other lawyers were disbarred from practice by the Common Pleas Court yesterday.

Collusion with racketeers and other unethical practices were charged. Two others were exonerated but were admonished.

The senator disbarred is Samuel W. Salus, 63 years old, a State legislator for 32 years and a lawyer for 40 years, whose conduct the court branded "reprehensible."

Herbert W. Salus, Civil Service Commissioner, is the Senator's younger brother. In disbarring him the Court said the "extraordinary feature" was that he "evidently regarded his conduct as meritorious."

"Grossest Misconduct."

The others disbarred and the Court's comment:

Albert P. Goldberg, employed by the Salus law office—"Guilty of the grossest kind of professional misconduct."

Arthur S. Werblun—"sought to conceal his misdeeds by false and evasive testimony and by the destruction of account books of his firm."

Bernard L. Lemisch—abetted "a criminal conspiracy."

Those discharged:

Fred Camgartner, former Assemblyman—"Displayed an abundant ignorance of things going on about him in his own office."

I. J. Brad Brodsky, former associate of Lemisch—"Deserves censure."

The disbarred attorneys have 30 days in which to file appeals with the Pennsylvania Supreme Court. The lawyers or their counsel indicated in all cases that the appeals would be taken and possibly writs of supersedeas sought to stay the disbarment pending final decree.

Arthur S. Salus, the Senator's son, has been referred to the Bar Association "for appropriate action" as the result of a morals case in which his father was involved as counsel.

How Cleanup Started.

Investigation of the lawyers was prompted by Judge Horace Stern nearly a year ago when he wrote to Roland S. Morris, chancellor of the Bar Association, while sitting in a court dealing especially with arrests in the "numbers game" lottery. On his appeal that the bar "clean house," a special investigating committee was appointed and secret hearings were held last fall. Eight citations for "unprofessional conduct" resulted.

Open hearings before five president Judges of the Common Pleas Court were held last month, requiring two weeks. All eight lawyers categorically denied the charges.

Werblun, the Court noted, received regular retainers of $100 a week from Mickey Duffy, "a notorious criminal who was the head of a conspiracy to violate the lottery laws by carrying on what is known as the 'numbers game'." Duffy was murdered some time ago in Atlantic City.

Senator Salus' activities in the so-called Kroekel case drew sharp language from the Court. Salus was on one side and his employe on the other.

GEORGIA GOVERNOR ATTACKS NEW DEAL

"Picnic and Follies" Will End, Talmadge Says in North Carolina Speech.

By the Associated Press.

MURPHY, N. C., April 16.—Gov. Talmadge of Georgia attacked the national administration in a speech here yesterday and predicted an end to the "picnic and follies" in Washington.

He addressed 4000 Georgians and North Carolinans seeking early paving of the 15-mile road between Murphy and Blue Ridge, Ga.

Directing his remarks against spending in Washington, he said, "my friends, we are going to come out of this despair. Get your part of the money, because it is the last that will ever come your way from that source.

"The cotton and textile industries will not grow and flourish until this processing tax is entirely abolished. They have taught us to plow up cotton, burn wheat and kill sows and little pigs. Importations of cotton goods from Japan have increased more than 2000 per cent. We import corn and oats from South America and when they reach our ports the tariff is almost all written off under authority from Washington. Why, we have even imported cotton seed meal from China.

"Real recovery and prosperity will come from private industry, from honest people at work paying taxes and not looking to the Government for anything but a square deal. That brain truster crowd in Washington—some of those who ought to be out in private industry themselves—called us rascals and the last spasm we had was the spectacle Saturday night of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace speaking to farmers at the Wesley Memorial Church in Atlanta where the only farmers that ever go are those that have offices in big buildings.

"He said anybody that criticised them for killing hogs and plowing up cotton were radicals. We people in the South know you can't borrow yourself out of debt, make water run up hill and drink yourself sober. But let the picnic run on, let the follies up there go on. We are coming out of this despair. We have to get back to fundamentals, get back to the country church and brick school houses."

MISSOURI HOUSE DELAYS ACTION ON LIQUOR BILL

Wants Conference Report on Beer Measure Before Acting Finally on Legislation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 16.—Action on the second conference committee report on the Senate liquor bill was deferred by the House today until another conference report on the Senate 3.2 beer bill is brought before the House. The Senate has already adopted the second conference report on the liquor bill and has repassed the bill.

Representatives Lauf of Jefferson City and Bennett of Salem both urged postponement of action on the liquor measure, arguing that the beer and liquor bills related to the same general subject and should be considered jointly. Although no motion was put to defer action, most of the members of the House seemed in favor of waiting until a conference report on the beer bill is ready.

The first conference reports on both bills were adopted by the Senate and rejected by the House. The Senate has reappointed its conference committee on the beer bill, but no meetings have been arranged.

AIR DEFENSE DEPARTMENT FOR BRITISH GOVERNMENT

It Will Act to Safeguard Islands' 46,000,000 Persons Against Attacks.

LONDON, April 16.—The Government announced today it was setting up a special department to deal with safeguarding the British Isles' 46,000,000 persons against air attacks. The announcement was made to the House of Commons by Sir John Gilmour, the Home Secretary.

The primary duty of the department, it was said, will be to communicate to local authorities throughout England and Wales "the details of measures which it would be necessary for them to take for the purpose of organizing local services for safeguarding the civilian population against the effects of air attacks."

PARAGUAY REPORTS CAPTURE OF 3500 SQUARE MILES

Losses of Bolivians Said to Have Been 3000 in Fighting.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, April 16.—The Ministry of Defense announced today that in the last ten days Paraguay has captured 3500 square miles of territory in the Bolivian Province of Santa Cruz and inflicted losses estimated at 3000 men on four Bolivian regiments.

A spokesman for the Foreign Ministry, referring to proposals for mediating between the Chaco belligerents, said, "Paraguay acknowledges the good will of her neighbors, but the war will be long if Bolivia is obstinate in seeking conquest of the Chaco despite the disasters she has suffered."

BALANCED BRITISH BUDGET LAID TO DEFAULT ON DEBT

Charges Made by Labor and Socialist Leaders After Chamberlain's Report to Commons.

OBLIGATION TO U. S. A 'FORGOTTEN THING'

Critic Assails Putting It in 'Nice Category Where It No Longer Needs to Be Mentioned.'

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 16.—The Government was charged by opposition leaders today with balancing its budget through failure to pay its war debt to the United States.

The comparatively modest concessions accorded taxpayers despite the surplus forecast for the current fiscal year was being widely interpreted as paving the way for further increases in British armaments.

Both pro-Government and opposition quarters agreed that Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, was ultra-conservative in estimating his revenue for the ensuing year because of the possibility the Government may be looking for additional funds before the year is out to strengthen national defenses.

Labor Leader's Attack.

Great Britain's war debt to the United States was brought up in a statement by George Lansbury, labor leader.

"The Chancellor was able to balance his accounts only by refusing to pay Britain's debt to the United States," the Laborite said. "If the Labor Government defaulted in the same way, we should have been told it was the end of all things."

Another dig on this score was contributed by James Maxton, leader of the left wing Socialists, who said:

"I can remember in the last two or three budgets there was always some reference to the American debt. I notice it has now gone into that very nice category—that it no longer needs to be mentioned. That is a very satisfactory way of dealing with extraordinary debts—letting them drop into the limbo of forgotten things."

Report of Chamberlain.

Chamberlain presented the British budget for 1935-36 with an estimated surplus of £5,610,000 (about $28,030,000) in the House of Commons yesterday. He estimated the total of ordinary expenditures by the Government at £729,970,000 ($3,649,800,000), with a total estimated revenue of £735,580,000.

On the expenditure side, he pointed out a provision must be made for $52,300,000 for defense services as already outlined in the army, navy and aviation estimates.

Estimating the income tax would bring £237,000,000 during the coming year, an increase of £14,000,000 over last year's figures, he recommended that the rate in the lower brackets be appreciably reduced. He proposed that instead of the existing £175 ($875) of taxable income being at 2 shillings 3 pence (about 51 cents) a pound, that the first £135 of taxable income should be charged at the rate of 1 shilling 6 pence (about 36 cents). In addition, the personal exemption of a married man would be increased from £150 ($750) to £170 ($850) and the exemption for each child would be increased from £40 to £50 after the first child.

He also announced a full restoration of pay cuts of public servants, to be effective after July 1. He estimated the cost of the income tax changes at £10,000,000 (about $49,000,000) during the year.

Removal of the tax on theater seats costing 6 pence or less also was announced.

SPY TRIAL ENDS IN PARIS

Decision Tomorrow as to Two Americans and 19 Others.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 16.—The trial of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz, Americans, accused of espionage, and 19 co-defendants, ended yesterday, after four weeks of secret testimony. The court adjourned until tomorrow, when the judgments will be given in an open session.

Switz appeared in better health and more calm than at any previous time during the trial. Mrs. Switz joked and laughed with the guard who sat beside her.

GERMANY REFUSES TO GIVE UP JOURNALIST

Holds Berthold Jacob for Trial Despite Swiss Protest Over "Abduction."

By the Associated Press.

BERNE, Switzerland, April 16.—With the probability of an appeal by Switzerland to the Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague, the Swiss Federal Council decided today that nothing was to be gained by further discussing the "facts" of the alleged abduction of Berthold Jacob, German newspaperman, with the German Government.

Giuseppe Motta, Minister of Foreign Affairs, is expected to announce next week a new step in Switzerland's efforts to return Jacob to Swiss jurisdiction.

BERLIN, April 16.—Despite a diplomatic protest from the Swiss Government, Germany declined yesterday to return Berthold Jacob, German newspaper man, to Switzerland, branding him as a "traitor" who must submit to trial. It has been alleged that Jacob was abducted from Swiss soil.

A German News Bureau communique said Jacob "came within German jurisdiction without action by an official German department, and as he is a traitor by word and thought, who frequently before has been sentenced, nothing else can be done by Germany except to let justice take its course."

The news bureau issued an earlier statement declaring it had determined that Hans Wesermann, a German citizen under arrest in Switzerland, acted on his own behalf and without orders from the German Government in the alleged abduction of Jacob March 9.

"Wesermann's accomplices and motives," said the statement, 'cannot be judged from here. It is likely that he intended to submit Jacob to the German authority in order to better his position toward German officials."

Bridge Plans Again Approved.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The plans submitted by the Father Marquette Memorial Bridge Association for construction of a bridge across the Illinois River about 3.8 miles above Grafton, Ill. Identical plans, providing the same clearances and location, were approved by the War Department in December, 1932, but no work was started under that authorization and the approval expired in December, 1933.

STORM TROOPS TO BE CUT TO 'FANATICALLY OBEDIENT'

Victor Lutze Says There Are Too Many "Non-Partisans" in Hitler's Special Army.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, April 16.—Reduction in brown-shirted storm troops to "a small fanatic elite" was announced today by Victor Lutze, head of the organization. Lutze issued a statement in which he denied that conscription laws obviate the necessity for continuance of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's special army.

He said he abhorred the idea of the present large body of the Sturm Abteilung in which there are many non-partisans, explaining he "rather prefers a small, perfectly trained fanatically obedient toward Hitler, than an S. A. trying to make an impression by its mass."

Lutze said a large scale reorganization and sifting is going on in the Reich, which will be completed within six months when "only the elite will be left" in the S. A.

HEARINGS ENDED IN DR. NORMANO'S DEPORTATION CASE

Previous Attempt to Extradite Him as Isaak Lewin, Accused of Forgery in Germany, Failed.

BOSTON, April 16.—Hearings on the case of Dr. Joao Federico Normano and his wife, Ida, whose deportation has been sought on the ground that they were in the United States under a falsified passport, were concluded last night at the immigration station. Attorneys Parker and Howes now forward their findings and the testimony to Washington, where the final ruling will be made. The hearing was in private.

The proceedings have lasted two years, and began when a student under Dr. Normano in the economics department at Harvard told the German Consul here that he believed Normano was really Isaak Lewin, wanted in Germany on an accusation of forgery.

Kurt von Tippelskirch, the German Consul, at once demanded the arrest and extradition to Germany of the Harvard instructor. Normano was held for a long time without bail, though his actual imprisonment was modified to a requirement that he appear at the United States Marshal's office daily. The result was that he spent his days there, studying and writing articles on economics.

Extradition Action Fails.

There was an extended hearing on the demand for extradition, for a number of prominent lawyers had become interested in Normano's plight. Testimony was sent from Germany, and this and the need of meeting it made a long delay. In the end, Commisisoner Jenney found that Normano was illegally in this country because his passport stated that he was born in

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Gen. Johnson and Code Wages.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE blundering blunderbuss, Gen. Johnson, reports over and over that practically all the opposition to NRA as a promoter of monopoly comes from the little fellows who do not want to pay code wages for code hours. The fact is that the codes are made by the big fellows for the big fellows and are effectively administered to foster big-fellow monopoly. This is concisely stated by the Darrow board and is known to everyone, apparently, but Gen. Johnson.

"Minimum code wages are so low that anything less would be sweating labor," he says. Those words condemn NRA far more devastatingly than anything anyone else could say. Do you remember that the President said we must effect not merely a living wage, but the wages of decent living? Yet Gen. Johnson has said that $12 and $13 code minimum wages are not the wages of decent living "in some parts of the country." Conversely, he must think they are the wages of decent living in other parts of the country.

I suggest that the doughty General be given $13 a week, let him choose his part of the country, and see how much decent living he can make of it. He couldn't very well associate with his present coterie on that income; so that he should not be lonesome, let us appropriate a $12-a-week salary for his erstwhile buddy, Donald Richberg, and let the pair give the country a concrete and patriotic example of how to weather a "temporary depression." PLEBE.

Design of New Jewel Box.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

LOOKING at the illustration of the proposed new greenhouse in Forest Park, as published recently, one would think there were no architects available in this community. It is attributed to an engineer (which announcement was superfluous), but how can anyone imagine that forbidding block of ice as a proper setting for delicately-tinted orchids and lilies? And do you think people will call this new enclosure "the Jewel Box"?

If there are any architects employed at the City Hall, they seem to have very little authority, judging from the designs for park structures that have emanated from there in recent years. The city fathers seem to forget that we and future generations will have to look at these buildings, and that we have the right to demand the best architectural talent that St. Louis can provide.

R. W. REYNOLDS.

What Germany's Anthem Really Means.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HOPE F. W. P., whose letter you published recently, is not a German or a German-American, because his interpretation of the national anthem of Germany, "Deutschland Ueber Alles," strangely coincides with the deliberate misinterpretation given this song by inter-Allied propaganda writers and speakers during the World War.

It is needless to say that the true meaning of "Deutschland Ueber Alles," which the poet had in mind, was that Germany is to be loved by Germans above everything — "ueber alles"—in the world. It was neither a statement of German superiority nor an urge toward German imperialist expansion.

However, when one reads Hitler's writings and those of his followers, one is bound to believe that these people agree, in reference to the mentioned song, with inter-Allied propagandists during the late war.

Nazi-ism and Fascism originated in narrow-minded ultra-nationalism promoting over-estimation of one's own nation, and under-estimation, contempt and hatred of all other nations, and are bound to lead to a never-ending succession of bloody wars, and eventually to the destruction of civilization.

It is a well-known fact that every nation believes itself to be the center and highest perfection of mankind. That is true of the nations of Europe as well as those of other continents.

More emphasis on what unites the civilized nations of the world, and less emphasis on what divides them, is required.

Defends the Hess Bill.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN YOUR editorial on the Hess bill, you would lead the public to believe that the entire 13¼ cents left after the 3-cent tax is deducted for the State would be clear profit for the track owner. Where do you think the money paid for purses comes from? Where do you think the salaries paid to the hundred or more employes of the track come from? Who do you think pays for the advertising, insurance, lights, repairs, etc.? All of these expenses come out of the track owner's 13¼ cents, leaving him a fair profit, which any business is entitled to.

I grant you that 16¼ cents out of every dollar that is bet is deducted before the dogs or horses start. The betting public knows that, just as it knows that the entire 40 cents they pay to see a picture show is deducted from the 40 cents they pay to see their favorite star pass in review. GREYHOUND BREEDER.

THE LEGISLATURE'S TEST.

State legislatures usually reserve their major acts for the latter days of the session, but the present Missouri Assembly is in grave danger of adjourning without having accomplished anything greatly to its credit.

The test of the session will rest in its capacity to whip its major program together in the few weeks that remain. Up to this time, no major act has resulted from the session. Presumably the appropriation bills, the new liquor bill, old-age pensions, relief measures and a drivers' license bill will pass the Legislature. Whatever they are, as the matter stands, they will not constitute a serious effort to meet the necessities of the State.

The Legislature has time to redeem itself. It can do so very largely by passing the principal code bills now before the session. It is too late to hope that a constructive program of legislation can result from a session which began without a definite program. Some of the states have a pre-legislative survey made of their needs and present their constructive programs when their legislatures convene. To leave these things to chance, as Missouri does, is to invite exactly such disasters as that which threatens us now. Neglect to prepare a program presupposes extraordinary leadership either in the Governor or the legislative leaders, and neither of these expectations, if they were entertained, has been realized at Jefferson City.

The Legislature has, then, to consider how it can escape very serious public censure for having wasted its opportunity. To play the part of Nero fiddling while Rome burns is the certain way to public obloquy, and we cannot believe the present Missouri session wishes to play that part. If not, its leaders can select a group of deserving measures which can be put through the session. The code bills, for instance, need only the revivifying support of a will to get something done. The fingerprinting bill, which would require fingerprints of all persons arrested on felony charges, has passed the House and been killed by the Senate Judiciary Committee. It is estimated that fingerprinting is a factor in not less than 90 per cent of all criminal convictions. To cavil at such a prime defense against the criminal world, as the Senate committee has done, is a grave social disservice. The bill should be brought to the floor.

Another of the code bills has passed the House and is now on the Senate calendar awaiting passage. It would shorten the time for perfecting appeals from conviction in felony cases from 12 months to four months, with discretion in the trial Judge to grant a 60-day extension. A Senate committee amended it to fix the time at six months, with discretion in the trial Judge to extend it to nine months. This bill, much less important than some of the other code bills, is the only measure in its category with an immediate chance of adoption.

But these are only two of almost 20 code measures, most of which bear the indorsement of the national and State bar associations. Both the alibi and the bail bills are still in the House. Neither has been passed. Neither has reached a Senate committee. The outlook for these vital measures, together with others of scarcely less import, could not be more desolate, could not be more disheartening, could not more graphically illustrate the futility up to this time of the legislative session.

The drivers' license bill is of the utmost importance. Passed by the Senate as an enabling act by means of which cities of 10,000 population and over could compel motorists to secure licenses to drive, it has been amended by the House to apply to the whole State. The matter is now in conference. The Automobile Club of Missouri favors the House plan, obviously preferable.

The session can hardly last beyond the first of May. Meanwhile, we suggest that the Legislature think these things over while there is time.

NO. 5 IN THREE MONTHS.

The grade crossing tragedy on Illinois Highway No. 3 at Monsanto, just south of East St. Louis, which cost two persons their lives and seriously injured three others, was the fifth such accident at that spot in three months. This shocking fact, like the ghastly school bus disaster at Rockville, Md., last week, speaks for itself. Plainly, President Roosevelt makes a move which will have universal approval when he selects grade crossing elimination as one of the major projects of the new public work relief program. The removal, on a national scale, of these death traps cannot get under way too soon.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR THE STATES.

Those who view with concern the rising power of the Federal Government, as contrasted with the dwindling power of the states, should gain some reassurance from the growth of a previously little-used political instrument—the interstate compact. By this logical device, the states may take joint action to safeguard their common interests without the need for Federal intervention.

Congress indorsed the principle by including among the recently enacted anti-crime bills a measure authorizing the states to unite for joint action against criminal depredations. This has borne little fruit so far, but the states will be wise to take advantage of the opportunity if they wish to keep law enforcement in their own hands rather than depending on Federal authority.

Writing in the New York Times, Ernest L. Averill, president of the National Association of Attorneys-General, calls the roll of recent co-operative endeavors among the states. Among these is a six-state gathering, at Gov. Lehman's invitation, to consider uniform milk regulation (a consequence of the Supreme Court's action in the New York milk code case). Others are a proposed compact among eight industrial states of the Northeast to embrace uniform labor legislation, and the oil compact recently evolved by discussion among Southeastern states.

An important instrument in this field is the Council of State Governments, an offshoot of the American Legislators' Association. The former was organized for the specific purpose of acting as a "co-ordinating body for the states, particularly in promoting regional agreements and compacts," and to provide a means of contact among the various states and between the states and the Federal Government. This organization is seeking, as one objective, uniform regional regulation of highway carriers. This field affords an excellent example of why united action is urgent, for notice has been served by Government officials that legislation by Congress will be sought if the states fail to solve this knotty problem.

New Jersey seems aware of the need and the opportunity, for its Legislature last month set up a special body, the State Commission on Interstate Co-operation, for this purpose. Other states would do well to join the movement, either by formal action in advance or as occasion arises. United action by the states on regional problems will help to preserve their traditional rights in a time of growing centralization. If state rights are neglected or defaulted, conduct of many matters will perforce be assumed by Congress, to the weakening of that basic American institution, the state.

SECRETARY MORGENTHAU REPORTS.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau believes that the Government policy of refunding its obligations at lower interest rates has broken "the financial log jam." In March, following the Government's example, private business has refunded nine times as much of its obligations as it did in the same month a year ago. He points out also that in the last 15 months the prices of representative municipal bonds have risen 24 per cent, and high-grade railroad, public utility and industrial bond prices have risen from 12 to 14 per cent. These increases reflect the decrease in the cost of money.

By a gradual process of conversion, the Government has succeeded in reducing the average interest rate on outstanding Government securities to 2.86 per cent. Some of them yield less than 1 per cent. The Government has been able to write its own ticket on conversions, and the resultant decrease in our relative interest burden is such that it is actually less now than it was in 1925, when the national debt was smaller by eight billion dollars. The next step in the process will be to retire next fall $1,250,000,000 of 4¼ per cent bonds, the last of the Liberty Loan issue.

Mr. Morgenthau goes to some length to reassure the country as to the great and growing public debt. He believes the deficit at the end of the two-year period ending June 30, 1935, will be two billion dollars less than estimated by the President in his first budget message. That would still leave a two-year deficit of about seven billion dollars. But $1,700,000,000 of this is represented by loans made by the RFC, PWA, HOLC and other governmental agencies, much of which is recapturable. Another $1,200,000,000 was spent for dams, roads, rivers, harbors and so on, and thus represents tangible improvements. Somewhat between that category and the category of relief is $600,000,000 spent on the Civilian Conservation Corps.

The largest single item in Federal emergency expenditures, of course, is direct relief, which has cost about three billion dollars. The drain on the Treasury to provide unemployed persons with the bare necessities of life has described a constantly increasing curve. It is the bugbear that the Government is attempting to vanquish from a score of attacking points. Just now, the principal drive on relief payments, hence on unemployment, is coming from the four-billion-dollar appropriation for public works, by which the President hopes to provide work for 3,500,000 persons.

Naturally, the Secretary is optimistic. He places the best possible light on all of the Government's financial operations. But we imagine the attitude of the country is healthily skeptical. It is awaiting the proof of the pudding. It is watching for the diminution of the numbers on relief and for that necessary improvement in private business which must come before any kind of real assurance can be felt. Can the four-billion-dollar public works expenditure accomplish that result? Will it come before that money is spent? These questions are in the lap of the gods.

HE VOTED 19 TIMES.

A striking demonstration of election law weaknesses was staged at the recent election at Evanston, Ill. A reporter for the Evanston News-Index visited 19 polling places, gave a different name on each occasion, and was permitted to vote at each place. (He had informed the police of his plan in advance, and spoiled each ballot by writing the name of his newspaper across it.) It was easy, the repeater said; "I could easily have made it 30 times."

His experience discloses how ineffective present laws are in curbing ballot abuses. An organized group adopting the same tactics on a large scale could easily turn the tide of an election. The Chicago Tribune thus sums up the lesson of the experiment: "If the News-Index man had been required at each polling place to sign an application for a ballot, and his signature had been compared with that of the lawful registrant for whom he was attempting to vote, his career as a floater would have ended suddenly."

Both the Illinois and Missouri legislatures could end this invitation to fraud by passing a permanent registration law with signature requirement. While they delay, the people are cheated of fair elections, and are taxed with an unnecessary outlay for the present inefficient and more costly system.

THE OPENING DAY.

Where Mr. Baseball Fan sits is now the head of the table. For the next six months, the question of the twilight hour will be: "What's the score?" The season opens today.

Here in St. Louis, the Cleveland Indians, heralded as warriors likely to arrive at the happy hunting ground of first place, will be pitted against the Browns. In Chicago, the Cardinals will make the inaugural historic by presenting Dizzy Dean as master of pitching ceremonies.

There has been a lot of curiosity about Dizzy during the Florida training prologue. Whether the superman of last year can repeat his Nietzschean supremacy in 1935 has been debated by the sport's best minds. They think it improbable. But Paul, it is sagely conceded, may equal, or even surpass, the success of 1934, so the joint account of the Brothers Dean may maintain the family tradition. If they fail, the Cardinals will forfeit the distinction to which they and St. Louis and the Mississippi Valley have become accustomed. So speak the pundits.

But September is an eternity remote from April, and so many things happen under summer suns that never could occur, and so many things never occur that were bound to happen, that the baseball prophets that bloom in the spring are usually blasted in the fall.

Out of the history of the game, however, a few certainties have evolved which may, we believe, be accepted as the law of the diamond. It is written in many a delirious diary that the Cardinals are never beaten until the season's book is closed. And while the Browns technically may be eclipsed by some of their adversaries, there is a quality of leadership in their manager, Rogers Hornsby, that somehow inspires his team with the spirit of victory. Experts may count the Browns out in print. Only superior baseball can beat them on the field.

St. Louis will be very much in the sculpture unveiled today.

TODAY AND TOMORROW

Elusive Curves

IN ORDER to predict the future, we have turned to statistical curves. The modern fortune teller is the statistician. This suits the temper of our age, in which the greatest triumphs of man have been achieved through the use of exact quantitative measurements, and surely it is an excellent thing that men are learning to count the facts instead of asserting them.

But there are pitfalls. Just because statistics seem so cold and so impersonal, they tend to tyrannize over reason and common sense, and men will often believe on the authority of a statistical curve something which cannot be true according to all the rest of their knowledge.

Take, for example, the little argument which Frank Kent, Edward H. Collins and I have been having about whether the startling increase in the size of the relief rolls is the proper and only yardstick for measuring the progress of recovery.

If you compare the number of persons on the relief rolls in January, 1934, with the number in January, 1935, you find, if, like Mr. Collins, you happen to have forgotten the Civil Works Administration, that the number has doubled. By this yardstick, it would appear that in 12 months, the depression had become nearly twice as severe. Now it is not twice as severe when measured by any other yardstick that men use.

What is one to do? Believe the story told by the relief yardstick, or look for the reasons why it tells a wholly different story from the other yardsticks?

* * *

Suppose that a man came to this country knowing nothing whatever about our history. And then suppose he got hold of the pension rolls from 1870 to 1898. He would find that, year after year, the number of pensioned soldiers and soldiers' widows was growing, and he would probably go home saying: "What a country! Those Americans must be the most bloodthirsty people on earth. They were at war steadily during those 28 years, for every year they had more veterans to pension."

It might be very hard to convince him that actually the country had been at peace throughout the whole period when its pension roll was increasing.

The disposition to believe the incredible because there is a statistical curve is only one of the pitfalls of statistical interpretation. One of the commonest is to look at a curve, see that it is rising or falling, and then imagine that it is going on forever in the direction to which it is pointed. In the boom, if a stock doubled in price in one year, there were no end of people ready to believe it would keep on doubling in price year after year.

Just now, the papers are full of prophecies and warnings based, not on what is happening, but what will happen if some particular tendency is followed out to its logical and absolute end. Thus, it has been said that if the Government operates a small furniture factory in a small town as an experiment in unemployment relief, this is the beginning of Communism, because if the Government operated all factories, we should have Communism. So also would a mud puddle be as big as the Atlantic Ocean if enough water were put into it.

Then it is said that the NRA was the beginning of Fascism because it set up a form of control which, if it had worked, if it had been extended, if it could be enforced, would in a few superficial details resemble the Italian corporative state.

Tendencies are significant, and undesirable ones can be arrested if they are promptly recognized. But it is the easiest thing in the world to become a hypochondriac about tendencies, to develop insomnia by saying to oneself in the middle of the night: "I am awake, and if I continue to keep awake, I shall have a sleepless night."

Worry is oftener than not nothing but suffering the pains one would feel if a tendency were carried to its logical conclusion. Sometimes it is. But much more often, the ascending curves turn down and the descending curves turn up because they have spent their energies or counteracting forces have appeared. One tendency in human affairs does not produce a revolution in human affairs.

* * *

Another way to be misled by statistics is to compare two sets of facts that appear to be of the same order but have a different base. This can be illustrated by the attempts to compare industrial recovery in Britain with industrial recovery in the United States. Thus, in December, 1934, British production was 110 per cent of what it was in 1928, whereas ours was only about 80 per cent of 1928. It would be easy to say that the British are through with the depression and that we are bogged down in it. Many have said so.

But it happens that 1928 was a year of depression in Britain, while it was a year of boom prosperity in the United States. What really happened was that Britain had no great boom and no comparably great depression; that we fell from a greater height to a greater depth and have climbed up a greater distance out of our greater depth than Britain has climbed out of her lesser depth.

Sometimes the mistake of false comparisons takes the form of a failure to carry through the comparison. For example, there is an argument often used to show how bad is our financial position. It is pointed out that 44 per cent of the national debt is held by the Federal Reserve System, whereas only 15 per cent of the British debt is held by the Bank of England and the 10 London clearing banks.

The figures are startling. But a closer examination shows that the London banks have at least 41 per cent of their loans and investments in Government securities, and that the American member banks have about 40 per cent. As regards the Bank of England and the Federal Reserve banks, both have virtually all their earning assets in Government securities. How, then does it happen that 44 per cent of our debt is held by the banks and only 15 per cent of the British debt by their banks?

It happens because our debt is actually smaller than the British, and much smaller in relation to our banking resources. To hold 15 per cent of the larger British debt is as great a strain on the smaller resources of the British banks as holding 44 per cent of the smaller American debt is on the greater resources of the American banks.

This does not prove that all is right with the world. But it does prove that the unanalyzed figures are not to be generalized from too readily.

The best statisticians are very skeptical. They respect their tools, but they never forget that they are tools, and not magic wands and divining rods. If we as laymen are going to use statistics as freely as we now use them, we shall have to learn from the statistician how to be thoroughly skeptical, particularly when the statistics indicate a conclusion that is contrary to common sense and general knowledge.

* * *

Owing to the fact that I was travelling the foregoing article was written and dispatched before I had an opportunity to read Mr. Kent's rejoinder of last Thursday. On the question at issue, which is whether the increase in the relief rolls is the only yardstick of recovery, there is nothing further to say at the moment, and I shall not reply to Mr. Kent's personal comments because all that would come of that would be that I might lose a good friend in trying to win an unimportant argument.

I have, however, sent a message to Mr. Kent, saying: "Will you join me in an effort to find out by direct personal investigation the reasons why the Federal relief rolls have increased, while production, employment, savings deposits, have also increased? In making this investigation, I shall be glad to follow any procedure you suggest."

A Real License Law Needed

From the Kansas City Star.

MISSOURI needs not a mere makeshift of a drivers' license law, but a law that will afford the State the protection increasingly demanded because of the mounting accident toll on its highways. Delay in such an important matter already has been costly; in the future, it would have to be paid for still more heavily in human life, in injuries and in property damage.

The argument for genuinely protective drivers' licenses is so impelling that state after state has enacted the required law. Missouri has come to be one of the few in the whole country that is lagging in the modern and accepted means to safety.

Weeks ago, the Missouri House passed a fairly satisfactory bill, but the measure was held up in Senate committee. The Senate then passed simply an enabling act, making it possible for any city of the State of 10,000 or more in population to adopt a drivers' license ordinance, if it so desired.

That kind of provision is grossly inadequate. Some of the cities would have the ordinances, others would not. There would be limited protection in the communities acting favorably. Kansas City, on its own initiative, has had drivers' licenses for several years, and has derived unquestionable benefits from the plan. But today the higher and increasing fatality rates are on the State thoroughfares, rather than in the cities, and it is Missouri as a whole that requires the protection.

The House Committee on Roads and Highways now has amended the Senate bill to restore features of the original House bill with exception of a license fee, which has been eliminated. Thus a provision which created opposition, notwithstanding its reasonableness, is out of the way. If the House should pass the amended bill, the measure could be taken direct to the Senate floor and that body could be given a chance to act upon it. This would be calculated to prevent further delay and quite possibly to bring the final enactment this State has a right to expect.

NUDIST PUN.

Judging from the way the reformers are digging into the doings of the nudists they are determined soon or late to get something on them.

Gen. Johnson's Article

"Father Coughlin, in Private Conversation, Has Voiced the Conviction That Our Only Salvation Is a Dictatorship, and That He Will Either Be or Control the Dictator."

By Gen. Hugh S. Johnson.

WASHINGTON, April 16.

THE last figure in a procession of Presidents at the Gridiron dinner was reported in the press to be Father Coughlin. I am told that, in private conversation with a very important man, he has voiced the conviction that our only salvation is a dictatorship, and that he will either be or control the dictator.

Beginning April 25, the League for Social Justice begins State conventions in the 12 most populous states. Press reports indicate that the Detroit convention for the State of Michigan alone will see 20,000 delegates.

My recent controversy with Father Coughlin has opened to me hundreds of channels of information. I thought the situation was bad before I began to speak. I had no idea how bad it really is. There is not the slightest doubt in my mind now that there are at least 5,000,000 supporting members of voting age in Father Coughlin's League for Social Justice. There may be, as he claims, 8,000,000.

I don't know whether his plan of State organization bodes good or ill for him. It may be that the election of State officials will split unity of action. It is certain that great mass conventions will call attention to his enormous power and may awaken the country to its danger.

The equanimity of responsible leadership in both of the old parties is hard to understand. Here is a Fascist movement which, of itself alone, could so far split the followers of Roosevelt as to leave him only a minority. Here is a doctrine, preached as effectively as any crusade of the middle ages, which threatens the destruction of our institutions. Against it not one voice is raised.

When I ventured to call attention to it, the conservative press elected to treat that discussion as a three-cornered brawl among Long, Coughlin and myself.

You can't kiss this thing off in this way. This country is dependent on representative government Over and over again it has been proved that, even in a two-party system, representative government can be controlled by powerfully organized lobbies for the support of minority interests.

If you say no more of the League for Social Justice than that it is, by all odds, the most effective lobby ever organized in America you have said enough.

Nobody likes the role of Paul Revere. The old brass brigade is too strong in the press section. But I am willing to bet my little reputation that this Coughlin business is serious.

The papers do not carry Coughlin, but that fact did not prevent him setting up a compact political organization of from 5,000,000 to 8,000,000 discontented people.

Don't forget that 14,000,000 standpatters voted for Hoover in 1932. Father Coughlin has taken over from a third to a half of those who wanted the New Deal. Look out for a Coughlin Deal.

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, April 16.

MORE than a thousand persons have asked Seth Thomas, AAA solicitor, for a copy of the Myers report on the treatment of share-croppers by cotton plantation owners.

To every request Thomas has said no.

Official reason given for refusal is that the report deals with a legal case which is nobody's business while the AAA is preparing prosecution.

Actually the report deals with much more. It covers particularly the growth of unionism and communism among agricultural workers.

Meanwhile, the plight of the Southern share-cropper, continues to be severe. It has become a problem not only for the Department of Agriculture but also for the Federal Relief Administration. They find their relief rolls mounting in Southern States, and want to know whether this results from cotton tenants being dispossessed.

Harry Hopkins has sent a specialist into the field to make a study of the whole situation.

He is careful to avoid saying that the cotton reduction program under the direction of his good friend Chester Davis has aggravated his relief problem. He is making no charges. But he wants the facts.

Kidded.

SOL ROSENBLATT, hard-working NRA enforcement officer, explaining to members of the Lumber Code Authority why the Government had decided not to try rigid enforcement.

"Frankly we don't believe in some of the provisions in this code," he said. "There is no use, therefore, to kid ourselves that the Government is going to try to enforce them."

"Well," interrupted David Mason, chairman of the Authority, "you have been kidding us lumbermen for 18 months."

Farm Census.

RESULTS of the census of agriculture are awaited with expectancy. One item of special interest is the amount of farm mortgage debt.

Two of the 100 questions on the schedule were framed to deal specifically with this matter. But the results, when published, will not tell the whole story of farm mortgages.

Instructions have been given to editors to scratch this item in cases where the farmer does not own all of the land or owns land elsewhere.

If, for example, a man owns 500 acres on which he carries a $30,000 mortgage, and owns 10 acres elsewhere, the $30,000 figure is scratched. That mortgage will not appear in the totals when the Census Bureau publishes its results.

FERA Piper.

WAVING his arms wildly, a man rose from his seat in the waiting room of FERA offices recently and declared he had cooled his heels long enough.

"I want to see Mr. Hopkins!" he demanded.

The secretary tried again to persuade him that his project for "constructing a second line of military defense" was something for the War Department to review, not the Relief Administration.

"But I propose to give employment," he declared, "to 2000 people!"

This was a signal for the other heel-coolers to flock around him. The office was full of job-applicants. They pushed up to the man with an idea and offered their services.

"Sure, I'll give you jobs," he cried. "I'll give you all jobs. You come with me. If the relief people don't want this idea, we'll go over to the War Department. I'm going to give employment to 2000 men."

The FERA offices have not seen them since.

Central Banking.

IT LOOKS as if the famous central banking legislation which has been debated back and forth in banking circles since last summer, would die aborning in Congress.

Cause of the stagnation gets down to the condition of the House and Senate Banking Committees.

The House Committee is composed chiefly of banking liberals who want to recast the banking system of the country so as to place full control in the hands of the Government.

But in the Senate Committee an opposite condition exists. Here such Old Guarders as Glass of Virginia, Adams of Colorado, Townsend of Delaware hold control.

They are willing to plug obvious loopholes and weaknesses. But they are adamantly opposed to extending Federal sway over banks and bankers.

In the House Committee, the administration's banking reform bill, providing for a modified central banking system, already has been approved.

But in the Senate, the opposite is true. The Senate Committee has not even begun consideration of the bill. Furthermore it is harboring a sub-rosa scheme to scuttle it.

On the surface, the scheme appears completely innocent. The bill under consideration deals with two subjects—the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the central banking system. Senate committee foes of central banking propose that the two topics be separated into two individual bills.

Following this division, they would pass the FDIC immediately leaving the central bank idea for "later consideration." This would mean the death sentence for central banking.

Merry-Go-Round.

ABSENCE from the House this session is especially noticeable on the part of Tammany Congressmen. The Democratic majority is large enough to be safe, and there is less demand by floor leaders for regular attendance. Dickstein of New York was absent for two weeks recently. Many of the Tammany group spend as much time in New York as in Washington . . . The latest clash between administration officials and Comptroller General McCarl has just become public. Jim Moffett's Housing Administration sent a group of men into the field equipped with new brief cases. The cases were part of their equipment, to be paid by the FHA. But when the bill came to McCarl's desk, he ruled otherwise . . . When more than 100 members are present on the floor of the House, Speaker Joe Byrns spends most of his energy pounding the gavel to keep order . . . Crossing the street between the House Office Building and the Capitol the other day, Texas' war-bitten Congressman Maury Maverick barely escaped being hit by a tourist driving a car from Pennsylvania. With a wry smile, Maverick called after him, "You almost killed a Congressman then!" . . . The public galleries of the Senate begin to fill up at 10:30 every morning. Session begins at 12. Gallery attendance is considerably heavier this session than last.

CONSIDERING CITY PARK IN VANDEVENTER PLACE

Welfare Director Darst Trying to Learn What Taking Over of Property Would Cost.

Director of Public Welfare Darst said today he had asked several real estate men to find out what the city would have to pay for homes in Vandeventer place in the event it was decided to establsh a park there.

Property in Vandeventer place is assessed at $470,000, Darst says. About $464,000 of funds for the acquisition of public parks remains from the 1923 bond issue. He was hopeful that some property owners might donate their grounds and buildings to the city to aid in carrying out the proposal.

Some of the buildings would be left standing if the park were established, Darst said, but most of them would be torn down. He suggested that a branch library, a clinic or a community center building would be appropriate in such a park.

Vandeventer place, which lies between Grand boulevard and Vandeventer avenue, just north of Enright avenue, was once a fine residential section. The large homes on the place have deteriorated, but property owners have insisted on maintaining the original restrictions against any use other than for individual residences. A few of the homes have been torn down to save taxes.

TWO PROFESSORS RESIGN AT MISSOURI UNIVERSITY

They are Guy V. Head, Law Faculty Member and Dr. J. A. M'Geogh, Psychology Department Head.

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 16.—Resignation of two University of Missouri faculty members, Guy V. Head, professor of law, and Dr. John A. McGeogh, chairman of the department of psychology, was announced today by Dr. F. A. Middlebush, acting president.

Dr. McGeogh, who came here in 1930, resigned to accept a professorship with Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn. Dr. McGeogh formerly was on the University of Arkansas faculty.

An alumnus of the university, Prof. Head has for 11 years been a law faculty member. Serving as General Counsel for the Federal Land Bank in St. Louis, Prof. Head has been on leave of absence since 1931. He will continue with the St. Louis position.

Both resignations are effective next Aug. 31.

HEARING ENDED IN DR. NORMANO'S DEPORTATION CASE

Brazil and this was not true. His wife had come in on his passport, which made her also subject to deportation.

For an unexplained reason the matter was held up in Washington so long that Normano was able, through habeas corpus proceedings, to obtain his freedom from the extradition proceedings because the time limit imposed by the extradition treaty had expired.

The deportation proceedings were then begun, and have just reached the point of submission of the testimony to Washington, where a Board of Review will determine whether the Normanos shall be sent out of the country.

Destination a Question.

An interesting question has arisen as to their destination if they are deported. Normano is regarded as a "White Russian" by birth. Germany claimed him as a citizen. But he came to the United States from Brazil.

One reason why his case attracted wide attention and sympathy was that deportation to Germany was considered the equivalent of a death sentence. Dr. Normano is a Jew, and the Nazi treatment of Jews made Jewish people here believe that he would be killed.

His attorney maintains that Normano was never guilty of forgery, and was the victim of dishonest partners in the banking business which he conducted, first in Germany and later in Paris. It was his partner who persuaded Normano to go to Brazil. There he immediately attracted attention by his knowledge of economics. He wrote a book on South American economics which has become standard and it attracted enough attention so that he obtained the position of lecturer to the Harvard School of Economics, later becoming an instructor.

SAN CARLO OPERA COMPANY ARRIVES FOR WEEK'S STAY

Will Open With "Madame Butterfly" at Auditorium Monday Night.

The San Carlo Grand Opera Company of 125 persons reached St. Louis yesterday afternoon on a special train from Denver, bringing its own orchestra, chorus, ballet and scenery.

The company is making its twenty-fifth annual tour. Carlo Peroni, musical director, expressed his gratification that the new Municipal Auditorium was available for the jubilee performances here.

"Madame Butterfly" will be the opening attraction at the Auditorium Monday night. On the following evenings the operas to be performed are "Aida," "Lohengrin," "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci," "Rigoletto," "Il Trovatore" and "Carmen." "Martha" will be given at the Saturday matinee.

16 WELFARE GROUPS INDORSE SECURITY BILL

Resolution Calls on Missouri Senators and Representatives to Support Measure.

The Wagner-Lewis social security bill pending in Congress was indorsed last night by representatives of 16 social welfare organizations in a meeting at Sheldon Memorial.

In a resolution urging Missouri Senators and Representatives to support the bill it was stated that "unemployment is the most serious of hazards confronting industrial workers; some 1,000,000 persons over 65 years of age are dependent on the public for support; more than 40 per cent of persons on relief are children under 16, and the need for public health services has thereby increased."

Addresses in favor of the bill were made by J. Lionberger Davis, banker; William M. Brandt, secretary of Central Trades and Labor Union; Prof. Ralph Fuchs of the Washington University Law School and Oscar Leonard of the American Association for Social Security.

Davis said the measure was "a very mild dose of social legislation which could not hurt the pocketbook of the worst squealer." It was not a bureaucratic bill, he declared, its spirit being to aid the states in handling their social problems. He denounced criticism of the bill by manufacturers and business groups and praised its child welfare provisions.

The provision for unemployment compensation was explained by Prof. Fuchs, who said that the measure should not be confused with the Lundeen bill. He said, however, that he favored redistribution of wealth in principle.

Leonard discussed the old-age pension provisions, and Brandt said that labor organizations favored passage of the bill.

SCULPTOR JOHN PAULDING DIES

Chicago Man Known for War Memorials in Middle West.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 16.—John Paulding, 65 years old, sculptor, died yesterday after two and a half months' illness of encephalitis.

Mr. Paulding was widely known for his war memorials and his works were found in many cities in the Middle West. Recently he attracted attention with a three-ton model of the famous painting, "The Doctor," which was exhibited at a Century of Progress Exposition.

$113,000 FOR JEWISH FUND

Campaign to Raise $139,900 Will End Tomorrow.

Gifts totaling $113,100 to the $139,900 Jewish Welfare Fund Campaign were reported yesterday at a luncheon meeting of the workers at Hotel Statler. Aaron Waldhein, honorary chairman, was the principal speaker.

The special gifts division reported $12,040 in donations; the men's division, $3109; women's division, $920 and the junior division $125. The campaign will continue until tomorrow evening.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 16. — Mary Adeline Prentice, grand-daughter of John D. Rockefeller Sr., regarded as a potential heiress to a large part of the oil man's millions, has the position of office nurse and secretary to a physician. A graduate of Vassar, she studied nursing training. Miss Prentice's mother was the former Alta Rockefeller.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

MISS DOROTHY TABLOT LUND, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Lund, 5968 West Cabanne avenue, and Austin Porter Leland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Leland, 18 Windermer place, whose marriage will take place Wednesday, April 24, will be guests of honor at several parties preceding their marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Ivers Meier Jr., will give the first of the parties, when they entertain at a small dinner at their home, 7300 Pershing avenue, Thursday night. Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith Fox and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hawes Miller will give a similar party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fox, 725 Skinker boulevard. Miss Katherine James and her brother, T. Frank James Jr. will give a cocktail party at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Frank James, 6425 Wydown boulevard, Sunday afternoon.

Two parties will be given Monday. Miss Lund will be the guest of honor at a luncheon at Bellerive Country Club for which Mrs. Daniel Upthegrove will be hostess and the evening of the same day Mr. Leland will give a buffet supper for the bridal party at the home of his parents. Tuesday Mrs. Walter Henson, 6330 Pershing avenue, will entertain at luncheon for the prospective bride and Tuesday afternoon preceding the rehearsal Miss Alice Emery of Chevy Chase, Md., who will be the bridesmaid, will give a cocktail party at Bellerive Country Club. After the rehearsal Miss Marjorie Green will give a dinner at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Green of the Kent road.

The wedding will take place at 5 p. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lund with a reception following at the St. Louis Woman's Club.

The out of town guests will include Mr. and Mrs. James A. Emery of Chevy Chase, and their daughters, Miss Alice and Miss Leticia Emery and Mrs. Lund's sister, Mrs. John S. Boyle of Little Rock, Ark., and her sons, Calvin R. and Joel Ledbetter.

The first of a series of pre-wedding parties for Miss Elizabeth von Phul Keeler and Frederick B. Swarts who will be married Saturday, April 27, will be a cocktail party Saturday evening given by Miss Mary Coit Day, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coit Day, 5117 Westminster place.

The wedding will take place at 5 o'clock in the afternoon at the home of the prospective bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. L. Marquard Forster, 1108 Center drive, Hampton Park. Mgr. John P. Spencer will officiate. A reception will follow the ceremony. Miss Keeler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gouverneur Keeler, 625 Skinker boulevard, and Mr. Swarts is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sol L. Swarts, 5362 Waterman avenue.

The first party of next week will be buffet supper to be given Monday night by Miss Carol Randolph, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel B. Randolph of the St. Louis Country Club grounds. Miss Randolph will be one of Miss Keeler's bridesmaids.

Another bridesmaid, Miss Jane Lamy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Oscar Lamy of Forest Ridge will entertain the bridal party Tuesday at a cocktail party at her home followed by a dinner at one of the hotels. The third bridesmaid, Miss Virginia Garesche, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Garesche, 4905 Argyle place, will give a kitchen shower for Miss Keeler at her home Wednesday afternoon.

The groomsmen will give a dinner Wednesday night at either the St. Louis Country Club or the Log Cabin Club. Mrs. Forster will be hostess at a cocktail party Friday evening after the rehearsal which will take place at her home in the late afternoon. The cocktail party will be followed by a buffet supper at the Keeler home at which Miss Lucille Keeler will be hostess. She is to be her sister's maid of honor.

Mrs. Frank A. Thompson, 117 South Clay avenue, Ferguson, will return Saturday from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Samuel Pryor of Greenwich, Conn., at the latter's winter home at Hobe Sound, Fla. Mrs. Thompson's daughter, Miss Noel Thompson, who accompanied her mother to Florida for her spring vacation, returned home in time to resume her studies at Mary Institute.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene D. Nime, 56 Portland place, will not return from Mexico this week, as they had planned, but will remain there until the latter part of May.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Love, 44 Westmoreland place, have joined the St. Louis colony at the Homestead, in Hot Springs, Va.

Informal entertainment continues to be planned in honor of Mrs. Hildreth Meige of Lowell, Mass., who, with her young daughter, Martha, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Cuendet of the Oxford Apartments.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. William Harrison Luyties gave a buffet supper, and Friday Mrs. Mahlon Brookings Wallace Jr. of the St. Louis Country Club grounds entertained a group at luncheon for the visitor.

Mrs. Thomas H. Meston, 501 Clara avenue, returned Sunday evening from a motor trip to New York, on which she was accompanied by her son, Robert S. Meston. Mr. Meston will remain in the East for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion L. J. Lambert, 22 Portland place, returned Thursday from Miami Beach, Fla., where they spent three months during the late winter.

Miss Judith Griffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Griffin, 39 Kingsbury place, left yesterday morning for Kansas City, where she will be a bridesmaid in the wedding of Miss Marian Sparks. She will be married in a church ceremony tonight to Richard Greenleaf Taylor of New York. The prospective bride and Miss Griffin were classmates at The Principia. The latter will return home tomorrow.

Mrs. Samuel Scott, formerly of St. Louis, but now living in New York, will arrive Easter morning for a six-week stay. She will be the house guest for a few days after her arrival of Mrs. George Compton, 8 Beverly place. About the middle of June, Mrs. Scott will return to Carmel, N. Y., to carry on her dramatic work with the summer theater there.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Bitting Jr., 5240 Westminster place, and their subdebutante daughter, Miss Suzanne Bitting, who have been on a trip around the world, are expected home about the first of the month. They have recently visited the Orient. Miss Suzanne plans to make her debut next season.

NOW YOU SAVE THIS MUCH MONEY EVERY MONTH ON YOUR ELECTRIC BILL
☛ In 1933 your electric bills were based on "room count" and varied according to the number of "counted" rooms in your home.
☛ Now, on Union Electric's new low rate, the size of your house has nothing to do with your bill.
☛ In 1933, if you lived in a St. Louis home with four counted rooms and used 50 kilowatt hours, you paid a monthly electric bill of $2.73.
☛ And that was among the lowest electric rates in the country.
☛ This year, in that same house, for that same amount of electricity, you pay a monthly electric bill of $1.95.
☛ That saves you 78¢ every month—or—you can use 2/3 more electricity during the month at no extra cost.

BIDDLE ADVISES CALM STUDY OF LABOR PROBLEMS

Says Exaggeration of 7A as Labor's 'Magna Charta' Made Employers Fear 'Closed Shop.'

Francis Biddle, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, addressing about 150 business men, labor leaders and civic workers yesterday afternoon at Hotel Coronado, pleaded for a dispassionate approach to the problems of employers and workers, and argued that collective bargaining was one of the forms of social control required by the complexity of modern life.

His brief formal talk at the meeting, sponsored by the St. Louis Regional Labor Board, was followed by a lengthy discussion in which members of the audience participated. Some who spoke had their pet points of view to advance; some, both business men and labor leaders, wanted to draw Biddle out on such subjects as "majority rule," "company unions" and "closed shops."

There were others with grievances to air, who demanded to know what the head of the National Labor Relations Board was going to do about their particular problems. Biddle, quite at ease, declined to be drawn into any specific controversy, but limited himself to a discussion of general principles.

Controversy Over 7A.

The whole problem, he remarked, had been complicated unnecessarily by the emotional approach which had been the attitude of both capital and labor. Somehow, he said, the impression had got abroad that Section 7A of the NRA was labor's "Magna Charta." Labor leaders, he suggested, had something to do with that, and had encouraged the belief that the national administration wanted all workers to organize.

"Now, isn't it true," Biddle asked, "that if you exaggerate on one side you exaggerate the picture on the other? There evolved in the minds of employers the specter of one big closed shop union spread thorugh the land, and there developed a very sincere and honest fear of sudden and unfair labor organization.

"The 'closed shop' became a red rag which labor leaders waved before the eyes of employers. They would have done much better to forget about that, and get organized and established so that they could obtain recognition."

Biddle said he had no brief for either side, but that he did believe in collective bargaining. He did not expect it to spring full grown upon the land, he said, but he thought it was a healthy thing and would continue to grow and be modified as the need arose. It was opposed, he said, because the frontier tradition still persisted in America, although the frontier had gone. America was built, he conceded, by rugged individualists, vigorous men, who resisted social control. "Roughly speaking," he said, "these are the men who oppose the New Deal, who say, 'Let us go back to the good old days.'" But the "good old days," Biddle said, had gone with the frontier.

Jungle Law in Labor Disputes.

At another point in his remarks Biddle mentioned that industrial struggles had been conducted under "the law of the jungle" on the theory that "God looks after the fellow who looks after himself." "That might have been all right in pioneer days," he said, "but it doesn't fit as well as it used to."

Social control need not be imposed by the Government, Biddle said, but as in the case of collective bargaining might be developed within industry and labor. "All that collective bargaining means," he said, "is that the employer and the laborers sit down before a strike to see if they can't work the thing out without that."

He put in a word for the pending Wagner labor disputes bill, which, he said, did no more than provide for collective bargaining, the holding of elections to determine the will of a majority of the employes, and outlaw unfair labor practices. Under the Wagner bill, he said, the findings of the National Labor Relations Board would be enforced through the courts in the same manner as are those of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Federal Trade Commission.

Safeguard for Employers.

Someone pointed out that the Wagner bill defined unfair labor practices by employers, but said nothing about violence and coercion by unions. Biddle answered that there was no need for such a provision because an injunction against such tactics could be obtained "in any court in the land in five minutes."

There was a question about "where does the minority come in, under majority rule?" "Where does the minority come in after any election?" Biddle answered. The questioner persisted that majority rule in labor unions meant the sacrifice of personal rights. "That's the vice of the democratic system, but I still believe in it," Biddle said.

"But then, it's a theoretical thing," he continued. "Where the majority gets some advantage for he workers, you'll never hear of the minority kicking."

A labor organizer insisted that collective bargaining didn't mean anything unless the employer "put it on the dotted line." "You'll have to remember," said Biddle, "that we have a Constitution. Sometimes them tell me I forget about it. But there is no way that the employer can be forced to enter into a contract."

"Closed Shop" at City Hall.

The question arose of what would become of the minority, not members of a union, if an employer entered into a closed-shop agreement. "Under any rule," Biddle answered, "the employer has the right to employ whom he wants. If he decides to employ only union men, that is his privilege."

A speaker on the floor expounded on the city administration's attitude toward the closed shop. The administration, he said, was strongly in favor of that practice. "Why," he said, "up at the City Hall you have to be a Democrat or you can't get a job." Amid the laughter, Biddle inquired what had been the situation "in the old days."

Biddle had mentioned that the regional labor boards had adjusted about 5000 complaints. He was asked how many of them originated with company unions. Misunderstanding the question, he answered that in a sample group of 83 handled by the national board 30 per cent involved company unions. When the question was repeated, he said, "Why, none, of course. Company unions don't bring complaints to us." Biddle said there were "honest" company unions, but they were very much in the minority. Company unions had sprung up like mushrooms after the NRA, he said, but he thought that they, "like Huey Long," were ephemeral things. If employers really desired industrial peace, he said, they would permit company unions "to fade out of the picture."

As the meeting was breaking up a zealot in the audience took up the theme of "majority rule" and said America was ruled by a majority not of men but of dollars. Biddle heard him out good naturedly and then pleaded for faith in the institutions of democracy and elected officials.

"But I hope you'll keep your eye on me," he said, "and if you find that I'm representing the 'great interests' let me know about it, won't you?"

Gray Hair

Best Remedy Is Made At Home

You can now make at home a better gray hair remedy than you can buy by following this simple recipe: To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it yourself at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained.

Barbo imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair, making it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

DEATH OF DENTIST, FOUND SHOT, HELD ACCIDENTAL

A Coroner's jury in Belleville last night returned a verdict of accident in the death of Dr. Oscar C. Gellenbeck, 33-year-old dentist, who was found shot to death last Wednesday in his living quarters above his office at 4115 West Main street, Belleville.

Witnesses at the inquest were Mrs. George Littman, wife of the doctor's cousin who resides at the same address, and Herman Dankendrink, a Belleville policeman. Mrs. Littman said she found Dr. Gallenbeck in a chair with a bullet wound in the head. A .22-caliber rifle was on the floor at his side. Dankendrink testified the dentist had seemed unusually cheerful when he spoke to him earlier in the day. The dentist told him, Dankendrink said, that he wished the weather would clear so he could go hunting.

Dr. Gallenbeck was graduated from the Washington University School of Dentistry in 1924 and from that time until 1933, when he moved to Belleville, he practiced in East St. Louis.

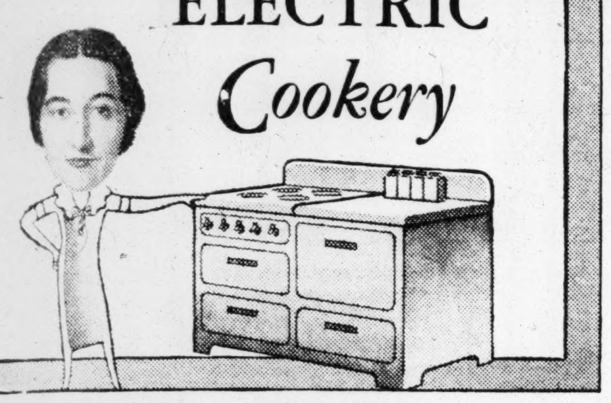
HERE'S WHY I believe in ELECTRIC Cookery



by ESTHER LEE BRIDE

HOME ECONOMIST, Union Electric Light and Power Company

I COULD put this whole article into four words and just say "Because I've used it!" But I'll go further and tell you some of the outstanding reasons for my great enthusiasm for Electric Cookery. Women who have attended our cooking classes know that this is a subject I love. Anyone who has ever cooked electrically understands exactly why.

There's speed

If you have any lingering doubt about electric cooking's speed, let me dispel that right now. It's fast! With high heat and a small quantity of water, pots of vegetables can be brought to boiling temperature in from 4 to 6 minutes.

With such performance there should be no question of speed in operation.

There's cleanliness and coolness

Electric cookery is clean. No grimy, sooty deposit on pots and pans or cooking units. No fumes or grease on kitchen walls or curtains. Such a clean way of cooking takes out lots of the drudgery, doesn't it? And to be able to have the kitchen cool is wonderful. Even with a temperature of 450° inside the oven you can put your hand right on the outside.

It gives new leisure

When you cook electrically you have so much more time! Time to spend with the children . . . to catch up with your reading . . . to go out more. Think of blithely turning the key in the door, while your electric servant cheerfully does the cooking! Automatic controls take care of that. You put the dinner in the oven, set the controls, and set your mind at rest! Here's a sample of an Oven Dinner that's easy to prepare and will simply bake itself. (Write me for any recipes that [illegible]

Imagine coming home from an afternoon at the movies, or around a Bridge table, and serving such a dinner! Chances are your husband will bring a box of candy tomorrow because he thinks the little woman has been slaving so hard for him!

Things taste better

Everything you cook electrically has better flavor. Natural flavors are kept in. So, naturally, health elements are kept in too—vitamins and minerals we can't afford to lose. And how saving an electric range is! A roast cooked electrically weighs much more than the same roast cooked by old fashioned methods, because the shrinkage is less.

Speaking of expense . . .

All of which leads me into this reminder. You can buy an Electric Range today—a beautiful new one, with all the fascinating improvements—much cheaper than you probably imagine. And I know that most of you don't realize how cheap it is to operate, here in St. Louis, where electricity is cheap. For the average St. Louis home, count a penny a person a meal—and that's all there is to it. No wonder we say

STRIKE IN STATEHOUSE ENDS

Minnesota Capitol Without Light and Heat About Three Hours.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 16.—An eight-man walkout, which threatened to tie up State business by leaving the Capitol without light and heat, ended yesterday less than three hours after it began.

Demanding that their wages, cut with those of other State workers two years ago, be restored to union levels, the eight men, employed in the Capitol power plant, struck at 10 a. m. At 12:45, however, after Gov. Olson and legislative leaders had promised to seek restoration of the union wage, the disgruntled employes went back to work.

FEDERAL JURY CHOSEN TO TRY DUTCH SCHULTZ

Prosecutor Drops Seven of 11 Tax Evasion Counts Against New York Gangster.

By the Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 16. — Dutch Schultz, former beer lord of the Bronx, lost a fight in United States Court yesterday to hold off for another week his trial on charges of evading payment of taxes on income rolled up during thre years of prohibition. A jury was selected today.

The Federal Government itself, however, elected to drop the last seven counts from the indictment. On the four remaining counts he may be sentenced if convicted to a total of 16 years and fined $40,000.

Chief of defense counsel James M. Noonan's arguments in seeking the adjournment was his contention that the office of United States Attorney Oliver D. Burden of the Northern District, had not complied with the Albany order of Federal Judge Frank Cooper directing the filing of a bill of particulars.

One of the things the defense staff had sought in a bill of particulars and said it had failed to receive was the Government's statement of Schultz's source of income.

The motion of John H. McEvers, chief of the prosecution, for severance of the last seven counts in the indictment was interpreted as a step to block the almost certain determination of the defense to make such motion, because it involved other defendants not on trial.

Schultz was rearraigned to meet certain technical requirements arising out of the filing of his demurrer. The formality was over in a second.

Rising from his seat facing Judge Frederick H. Bryant, he walked forward, said, "not guilty," then resumed his place with a smirk on his face.

"I've been in worser spots than this," he said.

McEvers has played an important part in the investigation of the defendant's earnings.

"He's a fair guy," Schultz said afterward.

BOY DIES AFTER OPERATION TO RIGHT INTERNAL ORGANS

Ailment Believed to Have Been Same as That Corrected in Two Other Children.

By the Associated Press.

FALL RIVER, Mass., April 16.—William Spiegelblatt, 9 years old, of Newport, R. I., who underwent an operation Saturday for a disarrangement of internal organs, died today at the Truesdale Hospital.

Doctors at the hospital said the boy's condition had not been normal, that he had suffered rheumatic fever three years ago and that this affected his heart.

The position of the boy's internal organs was not made known prior to his operation, but it was believed his ailment was the same as that of Alyce Jane McHenry, who was operated on March 4 and now is convalescing at a nurses' home, and Jimmy Neilson, 13, of San Jose, Cal., who still is confined to the hospital.

POLITICAL GAIN SOUGHT IN RELIEF OUTLAY

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—A plea that members of Congress be allowed to make what political capital they can out of the $4,000,000,000 work relief fund was made to President Roosevelt yesterday.

The unofficial House Democratic steering committee, bearer of the plea returned to capitol hill, however, without specific assurances from the President. The best they could say, in the words of several conferees talking privately, was that Mr. Roosevelt "listened sympathetically."

The democratic conferees who went to the White House, none of whom would speak for publication, asserted they were proposing nothing unworthy but merely wanted to restore the system that existed before Roosevelt came in and Congress started making lump sum appropriations for public works.

In the past, they said, Congress had passed bills making appropriations for specific projects. Members then could tell their constituents back home that they had obtained that money.

Members have complained recently that under the new system, by which the $3,200,000,000 public works appropriation was spent, Secretary of the Interior Ickes handled the money with the President's approval and frequently they were in the dark as to what work was to be done in their districts.

One member said he replied to a constituent that the PWA was not planning to supply money for a specific project in his district. But within less than a week, he said, PWA announced the allocation had been made.

The delegation asked Mr. Roosevelt to keep such things in mind and suggested that if there were uncertainty about projects of the same kind in an area that the Congressmen from that district be consulted. They also wanted to tell the folks back home about the projects before formal announcement was made.

One of them was asked this question: "In substance, you want to make arrangements to get the full political benefit out of the money?"

"That's putting it a little badly, but that's the idea," he replied.

SENATE VOTES TO MAKE HOPS A BASIC COMMODITY

Measure Sent to House; Producers in Favor of It. Says McNary.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Hops would be made a basic agricultural commodity under the Agricultural Adjustment Act by a bill passed yesterday by the Senate and sent to the House.

Senator McNary (Rep.), Oregon, author of the measure, said the producers were for it and there would be great loss in the industry unless it were passed.

Brighten up with ALL-BRAN!

You've had days when you've felt discouraged and low. Nothing seemed to go right. Frequently these dreary days can be traced to common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in your meals.

This ailment may cause headaches and loss of energy. Correct it by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory research shows Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and food-iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables. It is gentle—and often more effective. Isn't this natural food better than taking patent medicines—often harmful?

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal, in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Brighten days with ALL-BRAN! Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

H. I. HARRIMAN FOR EXTENSION OF NRA WITH LIMITATIONS

Head of Chamber of Commerce of U. S. Would Confine It to Interstate Commerce.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Extension of NRA witn modifications limiting its operation to interstate commerce was recommended to Congress today by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Henry I. Harriman, president of the chamber, told the Senate Finance Committee his faith in the "basic principles" of NRA was unchanged, though too much had been attempted under the original act.

He recommended several changes in the law, including a limitation on its scope to "business engaged in or affecting interstate commerce."

The chamber, Harriman said, favored the open shop. He added that the right of employes to bargain collectively or individually existed without writing it into the law.

Harriman said there was a division of opinion within the chamber on granting power to impose limited codes, but he felt the President should have authority to impose codes regulating child labor, maximum hours, minimum wages and collective bargaining.

Harriman's Proposals.

Outlining the chamber's proposals, Harriman recommended that the act should be temporary, should be limited to business engaged in or affecting interstate commerce, and taht the Government should have power to approv or disapprov codes submitted by industry, but not to modify them or impose them.

All codes, he said, should cover child labor, hours, wages and collective bargaining. But Harriman contended price-fixing and production control should not be permitted except in rare instances where large surpluses accumulated.

He testified that the chamber was opposed to "any statutory limitation on hours, such as a 30-hour week," and termed the pending administration bill "much more complex and confusing tha nthe present law."

Says Law Isn't Enforced.

Dr. Walton Hamilton, member of the Recovery Board, ridiculed enforcement of the anti-trust laws and asserted NRA could be "a very valuable addition to and supplement of the anti-trust acts." He said in 40 years of the anti-trust laws before 1930, only 40 or 50 individuals had been sent to jail and less than $2,000,000 in fines collected, despite the concentration of industry during that period.

"The enforcement was a little less than the traffic could be made to bear," Hamilton commented. "That raises the question of whether we ought not be able to contrive something more swift and efficacious than the anti-trust laws, in writing the new law."

Hamilton testified the aluminum industry had been a "thorn in the side of the Justice Department" for many years and of NRA for months.

He said it might be necessary in the coal industry, for instance, to place a floor under prices, but in teh aluminum industry he would "like to see an attempt made to establish a price ceiling."

"Did the aluminum industry request a price-fixing provision in the code?" Chairman Harrison asked. "No, it didn't find it necessary," Hamilton replied. "A monopoly doesn't have to ask for price-fixing in the code. That is arranged behind the scenes."

Hamilton recommended that the new law should contain a "positive injunction against monopoly" to bolster the anti-trust laws.

Withholding of Extension Pending Supreme Court Ruling Urged.

Agreement by the United States Supreme Court to pass on one NRA labor case at this term, probably within the next six weeks, drew prompt demands from senatorial critics of the Recovery Administration that Congress withhold extension of the Recovery Act until the Court has acted.

Administration leaders, however, said the bill to extend and revise the NRA would be pushed ahead. They are pressing for passage before June 16, when the present act expires.

The Supreme Court agreed to review the Schechter poultry case, which the Government has chosen for a test of the law. It involves NRA'S authority to fix minimum wages and maximum hours. May 2 was set for the hearing of arguments. The case is based on lower court rulings concerning the Schechter Poultry Corporation of Brooklyn.

Hastings and Clark Protest.

Demands that Congress wait for a court ruling were made by Senators Hastings (Rep.), Delaware, and Clark (Dem.), Missouri, who sought unsuccessfully last month to have the administration proceed with its previous test case, involving an Alabama lumber company. The Government, however, withdrew its appeal, announcing it preferred a test in some other case.

Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, also contended yesterday that Congress should not act finally on the new recovery law until after a court decision, but he said there was no reason why Congress should not proceed with consideration of a new law.

Clark said if the NRA bill came up in the Senate before the court acted, he would move to extend the present law for six months so that Congress would have time to deliberate on the court's ruling.

Chairman Harrison of the Senate Finance Committee, which is considering the legislation, said: "We're not going to hold back because of the Supreme Court case because we must get this out of the way by June 16." Harrison said his committee would complete its hearings this week and go into executive session immediately to begin framing a bill.

Clark's Statement.

Clark said that Donald Richberg, chairman of the Recovery Board, was trying to avert a court decision on the law by getting a new law enacted to offset the effect of any adverse decision on the present law. "I am not going to vote to extend NRA in a different form without a decision from the Supreme Court," he said.

The Schechter poultry case came to the Supreme Court from the Second Circuit Court of Appeals, which decided against the Government. The lower court upheld the Government on a number of points, but said it had no power under the Constitution to regulate hours and wages.

TESTIMONY ON PRICES AT STATE GAS INQUIRY

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 16. — Testimony on the price at which straight natural gas might be supplied to St. Louis and St. Louis County was resumed today before the Missouri Public Service Commission, in its inquiry into the feasibility of substituting straight natural for the mixed gas now sold in the city and county.

The estimates, which were qualified by numerous conditions, were submitted by the Mississippi River Fuel Corporation, which operates a natural gas pipe line extending from Louisiana to St. Louis, and the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co., operating a natural gas line which passes 73 miles north of St. Louis.

Preliminary figures submitted by the Panhandle, for St. Louis, on which testimony was resumed today, varied, on an increasing scale, from 36 cents a thousand cubic feet in 1936 to 39 cents a thousand cubic feet in 1940. These figures were for gas to be delivered at the company's line at a point near Bowling Green, Mo. They did not include carrying charges for a connecting line which would have to be constructed between St. Louis and the company's main line, if the change-over were made.

A combination estimate for supplying straight natural gas for resale in St. Louis and St. Louis County covered the same range, from 36 cents a thousand in 1936 to 39 cents a thousand in 1940.

Rate Expert to Appear.

There was no discussion in yesterday's hearing of the method by which these rates were arrived at, pending arrival of a rate expert for the company.

Ben C. Comfort of St. Louis, vice-president and general manager of the Mississippi River Fuel Corporation, told the commission his company had the necessary gas and was willing to enter into negotiations with the Laclede Gas Light Co. of St. Louis to furnish it with straight natural gas for resale to domestic and commercial customers. He did not mention St. Louis County, and said his estimates did not include gas for sale to industrial users.

He estimated the price to the Laclede company would be 33 cents a thousand cubic feet in 1936, and would increase annually, as the demand increased, to 44 cents a thousand in 1940.

The Mississippi River Fuel Corporation now sells natural gas to the Laclede Gas Light Co. and the St. Louis County Gas Co. for mixing purposes only. The Laclede company in 1934 paid the pipe line company an average of 22.89 cents a thousand cubic feet. Comfort said this price was based on a very favorable load factor, which could not be maintained if the Laclede's entire gas requirements were to be met, instead of its requirements for mixing purposes only.

Question of Load Factor.

Comfort, reading from a prepared statement, told the commission he thought the load factor under which the Laclede would take gas for distribution as straight natural could be improved to a point where an average price of 35 cents a thousand cubic feet might be maintained for the period from 1936 to 1940, inclusive, and that his company was willing to co-operate with Laclede to this end.

Chairman J. C. Collet of the commission indicated he thought these prices might be prohibitive, and asked Comfort for the rate data on which they were based.

Comfort said he was not prepared to furnish information justifying the rates quoted.

"Did you bring these figures up here to be handed to the commission, without inquiry as to what they are based on?" Collet asked.

Comfort said he was not prepared to go into that question. "We just understood that we were to submit a statement of what we were willing to do," Comfort said.

Testimony in former cases before the commission placed the cost of the mixed gas sold by the Laclede company, in its gas holders ready for distribution, at about 28 cents a 1000 cubic feet. The company's daily purchases of natural gas from the Mississippi River Fuel Corporation are kept within a maximum of 7,000,000 cubic feet a day, in order to hold down the demand charge. The company's daily sales of mixed gas vary, with seasonal conditions, from 7,000,000 cubic feet a day to about 22,500,000.

JOB FOR FATHER OF TRIPLETS BORN IN OLD SCHOOL HOUSE

Clothing and Blankets Provided for Mother and Babies, and Food for Family.

By the Associated Press.

SOMERSET, Pa., April 16.—Walter Kiser, father of the triplets, who were born in an abandoned schoolhouse, got a relief job yesterday and will make $15.71 a week if he works every day. Clothing and blankets are on hand for the 22-year-old mother and the three boys, who were born in the old building last Friday.

The Relief Board at Somerset has ordered emergency allotments of fruit, milk and other food for the family, which Dr. T. C. Lyons said was "starving and destitute" when he answered the call. The Kisers and their small daughter, Audrey, had been making their home in the old schoolhouse ever since the father lost his job.

TEXAS CONVICTS TELL OF MAIMING SELVES

Did It in Fear of Guards, They Say at Legislative Investigation.

By the Associated Press.

ANGLETON, Tex., April 16.—Convicts on crutches went before legislative investigators yesterday and told stories of having maimed themselves to escape the alleged brutality of guards at the retrieve State prison farm near here.

The session, at which a special prison committee of the Texas House of Representatives interviewed several prisoners, was closed to outsiders.

Names of the convicts were not disclosed. The men remained before the committee for 30 minutes to an hour each. Committeemen refused to permit the prisoners to be questioned afterward.

"I am generally against executive sessions," said Kenneth McCalla of Houston, committee head, "but in this case, if we are to get to the bottom of this thing, the convicts will have to be questioned alone."

Prison farm officials, however, said one of the convicts questioned had injected kerosene into an injured leg to cause infection, and that others had cut themselves on the legs.

The investigation was ordered after two State Prison Board members had reported prisoners mutilated themselves by cutting off legs and in other ways because they feared guards would kill them if they went into the fields to work.

Capt. I. K. Kelly, head of the farm for the last six years, said the convicts merely were looking for sympathy. He said 20 had maimed themselves during the last two years, several since talk of a legislative investigation was heard.

The investigators were met here by a citizens' committee, which, while saying any investigation was welcomed, defended Capt. Kelly and said he had "the interest of the convicts at heart."

The committee pointed out that the most hardened convicts in the Texas prison system were sent to the farm.

One-House Assembly Recommended

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., April 16.—Submission of a constitutional amendment by which Texas would follow the lead of Nebraska in forming a one-house Legislature was recommended last night by a House Committee. The one-branch Legislature would have from 125 to 150 members, compared to 150 representatives and 31 Senators now.

SUIT FOR DOUBLE INDEMNITY

Widow of John Kassly Contends Death Resulted From Accident.

Suit for $12,000, representing double indemnity insurance payment for the death last Sept. 14 of John Kassly, East St. Louis undertaker, was filed yesterday in the City Court of East St. Louis by his widow.

Her petition alleges she is entitled to double indemnity because Kassly died of a hemorrhage brought about when he accidentally ruptured a blood vessel in his nose.

LETTER THAT MIGHT HAVE STOPPED EXECUTION FOUND

Discovered in Files at San Quentin Prison; Not Official Notice From Supreme Court.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 16.—A letter notifying San Quentin Prison officials of appeal action entered into the so-called "mistake hanging" case of Rush Griffin, Negro, yesterday.

Officials, after unearthing of the letter in prison files, pointed out, however, that the letter could not be considered an order which would have stayed the execution. They said an official notice from the clerk of the State Supreme Court was required.

The letter, addressed to Warden James B. Holohan, was writiten by William Boardman, chief clerk of the criminal department of the County Clerk's office in Los Angeles. Records showed the desired acknowledgement was made by Julian Alco, acting Warden.

Boardman took before the Los Angeles County grand jury papers which he said showed that prison authorities had been notified of the appeal. Griffin, found guilty of the murder of Laurence L. Lyons, a medical student at the University of Southern California, was hanged a week ago last Friday.

ARTIFICIAL SILK CHEMIST DIES

C. F. Cross Aided in Perfecting Cellulose Spinning Process.

HOVE, SUSSEX, England, April 16.—Charles Frederick Cross, 75 years old, to whom women are partly indebted for artificial silk hosiery, died today.

Cross, with a fellow chemist, E. J. Bevan, invented the cellulose process for spinning artificial silk more than 40 years ago.

BOARD FIRES POLICE RESEARCH OFFICER

Thomas N. Lewis, Inventor of Ballistics Device, Ousted "For Good of Service."

Thomas N. Lewis, research officer of the St. Louis Police Department, and inventor of a device whereby it can be determined whether a bullet was fired from a specific firearm, was removed from his post by the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday, "for the good of the service."

Lewis joined the Police Department Feb. 6, 1927, as a photographer at $130 a month and was made head of the research bureau two years later, when it was organized, at $200 a month. He has testified frequently at trials where there has been controversy over which weapon a bullet was fired from.

Tear Gas Device for Safes.

In addition to the microscopic photographic device, he has patented recently a device to prevent combinations from being knocked off safes. A cover is fastened over the combination and if it is tampered with, tear gas is released.

Lewis lives at 6166 Crescent avenue. He will be succeeded temporarily by Orlando L. Reich, his assistant, 1119 Obear avenue, who joined the department April 1, 1934, as a draftsman, and was appointed last Oct. 12 to assist Lewis.

Lewis said he had no definite plans for the future, but probably would open his own research bureau to serve other police departments. He said he regretted that three years ago he had refused an offer by Northwestern University to operate a ballistics bureau there at an annual salary of $3500.

His Ballistics Inventions.

Speaking of the devices he has developed for the St. Louis Police Department, Lewis said he constructed the first instrument which made it possibel to photograph the interior of a gun barrel. A model aluminum bullet which he made to demonstrate rifling marks is widely used by other police departments, Lewis said. Another of his devices was a combination protractor and micrometer through which it is possible to determine from the markings on a bullet the make of guns from which it was fired.

Lewis said he thought he was the first to demonstrate that the dulling of tools causes variations in the gun barrel markings so that not all bullets fired from guns of the same make are similarly marked.

QUARTERS FOR ORPHANS DRIVEN OUT BY FIRE

They Will Be Housed in Old Concordia Seminary Pending Rebuilding of Des Peres Home.

Children of the Lutheran Orphans' Home at Des Peres, which was destroyed by fire yesterday, will be moved early in May to the old Concordia Seminary building group at Jefferson avenue and Winnebago street. This was decided yesterday by the board of trustees of the institution, after the 114 children had been taken to the German Protestant Orphans' Home, 8240 St. Charles road, for temporary shelter.

Plans for rebuilding the Home on the present site, Manchester and Ballas roads, will be considered by trustees, their president, William A. Koeneman, said today. He estimated that about $95,000 insurance would be collected on building and contents, placing the loss at more than $150,000. Additional money will be needed for rebuilding, but the problem of raising the money has not been taken up. Not all the space in the old three-story building was in use in the last few years.

"Some people have told us," Koeneman said, "that the modern method is to place the children in private homes, and we agree that this is a good idea so far as it can be done. But only a limited number of destitute children can find homes with desirable families which are willing to take them. Particularly when children are not orphans but have been abandoned, as is the case with some of ours, it is impossible to get families to take them. The old location of our Home is ideal, and we hope we shall be able to put up a suitable new building."

NOW CHEESE FUTURES

CHICAGO, April 16.—Trading in cheese futures will be inaugurated on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange May 1, according to an announcement today by L. S. Tenny, exchange business manager.

The trading unit will be Wisconsin State Brand Colored Single Daisies, and the unit size will be a carlot of 22,000 pounds. Wisconsin cheese was specified because of the 350,000,000 pounds or more of cheese produced in the United States annually, around 250,000,000 pounds is made in Wisconsin. The Wisconsin State grading rules are to be used as the basis for the exchange rules. Prices will be quoted in cents per pound with fluctuations in eighths as in butter and egg futures.

WHEAT REBOUNDS 2 CENTS, SELLING ABOVE A DOLLAR

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, April 16.—Wheat sold above a dollar today for the first time since last January, when the market rose 2c late. Bids reached a dollar several days ago. The market reflected upturn at Chicago, where comment on Southwest dust damage was cited. Corn also strengthened, July being held up over cent at close.

The Winnipeg wheat market was unchanged to ⅛c lower at outset. The close was ½@⅝c net higher.

Liverpool wheat in one cable was ⅛ to ¼d off, compared with ⅛ to ⅜d lower opening. The close was ⅛ to ¼d net lower.

WHEAT RISES TO NEW PEAK FOR SEASON AT CHICAGO

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 16.—Wheat prices jumped more than 2 cents just before the close today to new peaks for the season on the bullish tenor of crop advices, more than overcoming the profit taking tendency that accounted for the market's earlier easiness.

Reports of dust storms were received.

Wheat closed 2 to 2⅜ cents above the previous finish, May $1.02½@⅝, and corn was ½ to 1⅜c up, May 89⅜@½c. Oats gained ½@⅞c, rye ¾@⅞c and barley was unchanged to 1¼c higher. Provisions were steady.

Bullish trade news was largely ignored in the grain market early today as prices averaged lower.

Talk was current that crop reports from the Western plains region had been fairly well discounted, at least for the time being. Wheat opened ⅛@⅝ lower, May 99¾c@$1.00⅛, and then showed little change. Corn started ⅛@¾ off, May 88⅛@88½c and continued easy.

Weakness in Liverpool wheat prompted selling here. Some liquidation was attributed to selling by recent buyers, with observers pointing out that a period of profit-taking was the natural result of a price rise such as occurred last week. Good support appeared around the $1 level for May wheat and at times all wheat deliveries sold above the previous close, but the market lacked vigor. More dust-blowing was reported in Southwestern Kansas.

A Department of Agriculture report indicating that the drouth situation in the Western wheat belt is worse than a year ago was said by many traders to do no more than supplement recent private advices. A suggestion that further wheat importation may be necessary tended to accentuate the importance of the world wheat situation, with prices at all leading world markets well below the domestic level.

Corn and oats followed wheat.

Provisions were steady to easy.

Wheat future purchases yesterday totaled 37,538,000 bushels, corn 13,025,000. Open interest in wheat was 81,322,000 bushels and in corn 55,480,000.

Early in the last hour wheat was ⅞@1c net higher and corn ⅛@⅜c better.

Scattered Metals, Chemicals and Industrials Show Substantial Gains—Profit Taking in Early Period.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Stock market specialties, with scattered chemicals, oils and industrials, pushed up in today's session after early profit-taking had been absorbed. Selectivity ruled throughout the rather quiet proceedings. The close was fairly firm. Transfers approximated 720,000 shares.

Wheat gave equities some support, rallying for net gains of more than 2 cents a bushel following a hesitant start. First reports of freight shipments during the past week showed increases. Aside from the grains, the majority of commodities were inclined to dip. Cotton sagged and bonds and leading foreign exchanges were moderately mixed.

Passage by the Senate of Co-ordinator Eastman's proposal for the regulation of busses and trucks pleased the followers of carrier stocks, but the transportation group failed to exhibit exceptional enthusiasm.

Allied Chemical shares spurted some 5 points, U. S. Smelting advanced about 2 at its best, and others, up fractions to a point or more, included Standard Oils of New Jersey and California, Socony, Continental Oil, Lehman Corp., Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting, Air Reduction, International Business Machines, du Pont, Liggett & Myers "B" and American Tobacco "B."

Among leaders, unchanged to a shade up or down, were American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Consolidated Gas, North American, Public Service of New Jersey, General Motors, Chrysler, Santa Fe, New York Central, Delaware & Hudson, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck and Douglas Aircraft. Prices, generally tended to recede a trifle just before the finish.

Sterling Up in Afternoon.

Wheat recovered on fresh reports of dust storm damage and ended with advances of 2 to 2⅜ cents a bushel. Corn came back sympathetically for gains of ½ to 1⅜ and oats, rye and barley were up ½ to 1¼. At Winnipeg wheat improved ½ to ⅝. Cotton yielded 25 to 50 cents a bale, but was down around $1 at one time.

Sterling, at midafternoon, was ¼ of a cent higher at $4.85¾, but the French franc was off .00⅛ of a cent at 6.60 cents. Belgas were unchanged, Swiss francs up .01 of a cent and guilders .03 of a cent higher. Canadians dollars were 1-16 of a cent better at 99¾ cents.

Overnight Developments.

Standard Oil Co. of California reported net earnings for 1934 of $1.40, compared with 58 cents a share in 1933.

Life insurance sales for the first quarter were 10.1 per cent above the like period last year, although March sales declined 2.4 per cent.

Estimated earnings for the quarter of du Pont declined from 90 cents last year to 85 cents for the three months just closed was a silght damper on sentiment.

The Federal Reserve Board's statement of condition of member banks in 91 cities showed an increase of $137,000,000 in net demand deposits and of $109,000,000 in reserve balances with reserve banks, reflecting the continued piling up of funds.

Day's 15 Most Active Stocks.

Closing price and net change of the 15 most active stocks: Radio 5, unchanged; Consol Gas 21⅞, down ⅛; Std Oil N J 41⅝, up 1⅜; Socony-Vac 13⅞, up ⅛; Gen Elec 24, down ¼; Cerro de Pasco 51, up 1; Ohio Oil 11⅞, unchanged; Barnsdall 9, unchanged; Transamerica 5⅜, up ¼; Cont Oil 18⅞, up ¼; Gen Motors 29⅞, unchanged; Gen Realty & Ut ⅞, down ⅛; Int Nickel 26⅝, down ¼; Radio pf B 42¼, up ¾; Std Oil Cal 32⅞, up ½.

When Steel Industry Makes Money.

NEW YORK, April 16.—When the steel industry operates at 41.7 per cent it breaks even. Each per cent it operates above this point its profit is at an annual rate of $8,000,000; each point below brings a loss of $8,000,000.

So states Col. Leonard P. Ayres, economist and vice-president of the Cleveland Trust Co., Cleveland, in the magazine "Steel" this week. His calculation is based on the experience of steel producers in the past six years and holds good for every depression year.

In the first quarter the steel industry's operations averaged 49 per cent. The current rate is about 45.

SILVER AGAIN IS LOWER

NEW YORK, April 16.—Foreign silver for domestic commercial use declined one cent an ounce to 67¼ cents today following an easier tone in the London market.

This is the second day in succession that the price of the white metal has been lowered, following the rapid upturn last week when it attained a new peak since the middle of 1926.

Frisco Carloadings.

Revenue freight and receipts from connections by the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway for the week ended April 13 totaled 12,067 cars, an increase of 1216 cars over the preceding week and 155 cars over the same week last year.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 5 TO 10 POINTS LOWER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Cotton sold off today under realizing brought about by easy Liverpool cables and reactionary sentiment following recent sharp advances. Declines from 16 to 19 points brought in renewed trade buying or covering, however, and the market showed partial recovery during the afternoon. At 2 o'clock July was selling around 11.63 or 6 points up from the lowest with the general market steady at net declines of 7 to 13 points.

Futures closed steady, 5-10 lower. May 11.58-59; July 11.66; Oct. 11.35; Dec. 11.44-45; Jan. 11.46; March 11.56-57. Spot quiet; middling 11.90.

May opened 11.56; July, 11.59; October, 11.28; December, 11.33; January, 11.38; March, 11.45.

The decline extended to 11.58 for July and 11.32 for December, making net losses of about 15 to 18 points. Offerings were taken by the trade, however, and the market rallied 3 or 4 points from the lowest before the session had gone far. Trading was fairly active. No special news factor was discussed in connection with foreign selling, which was attributed to reactionary sentiment abroad and a disposition to even up commitments.

Trading was quiet later in the morning and fluctuations narrowed. A good part of the business represented further switching from near to late months. Prices held fairly steady after the early decline of 15 to 18 points, however, and there was a little buying on the rally in grain. At midday prices were four or five points up from the lowest.

UTILITY BONDS ARE IMPROVED LATE

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 16.—The bond market held on a comparatively steady course today despite easing tendencies among some of the lower-priced railroad obligations. U. S. Governments showed some improvement. A brisk run up in North American 5s to 97, up 3¾ points on balance, was a feature of the late trading.

Other utilities ending higher included Western Union 5s, Columbia Gas 5s and Detroit Edison 4½s. Minor losses were shown by Southern Railway 4s and Erie 5s. Other rail obligations showed some improvement following passage by the Senate of the bus and truck regulation bill. Among the most active were Santa Fe 4s, up ⅜ at 109½, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, up ⅝ at 118¼, and Pennsylvania general 4½s at 106⅜. Industrial loans were about a standoff. Chile Copper 5s were ½ higher at 91 and Texas Corporation 5s slipped ⅛ to 103¼.

Gains ranging from 1-32d to 4-32ds were in the majority among Government loans. The foreign department continued to work higher.

GENERAL ELECTRIC QUARTER SALES 16 PCT. OVER YEAR AGO

By the Associated Press.
SCHENECTADY, N. Y., April 16.—Sales billed by General Electric Co. for the first quarter of 1935 amounted to $40,393,538, compared with $34,935,551 for the same quarter a year ago, an increase of 16 per cent, Gerard Swope, president, announced to stockholders of the company at their annual meeting here.

Profit available for dividends on the common stock amounted to $5,390,930 for the first quarter of 1935, compared with $3,921,961 for the first quarter of 1934, an increase of 37 per cent. This is equivalent to 19c a share for the 1935 quarter and 14c a share for the 1934 quarter.

Mr. Swope pointed out that last year a dividend of 15c a share was paid on the special stock out of the earnings of the first quarter, while for the first quarter this year there is no such deduction from earnings, as the final payment made upon retirement of the special stock on April 15 was provided for last year. This is equivalent to approximately 2c per share for the quarter on the common stock.

Lewis Blair Williams, chairman of the board of the National City Bank in Cleveland, was elected to the board.

STRIKE OF ONION WORKERS

Texas Rangers Guarding Highways; 2000 Men Out.

By the Associated Press.

LAREDO, Tex., April 16.—Five Texas Rangers joined local officers last night in preserving peace and keeping highways open, as an onion workers' strike threatened to ruin a large spring crop.

Adjutant-General Nesbitt ordered the Rangers here after District Judge J. F. Mulally, District Attorney John A. Valls and other officials appealed to State authorities for help. Nearly 2000 onion workers, demanding higher wages and better working conditions, have been lining the highways near here in peaceful picketing. There have been no disturbances, but onion growers took three truckloads of workers through the picket lines to get them to fields.

Three Prisoners Burned to Death.

ACMAR, Ala., April 16.—Three Negro prisoners were burned to death Sunday in a fire that destroyed the jail in which they had been lodged a short time earlier on charges in connection with a shooting. The dead: T. T. Edwards, Jim Church and John Lacey. Coroner Gray said Church had threatened to burn the jail.

ICKES CHANGES TEXAS OIL FIELD INVESTIGATORS

Supervisory Agency Takes Over Work — Secretary Approves Thomas Control Bill.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 16. — The Interior Department's division of investigation, headed by Louis Glavis, was ordered today by Secretary Ickes to end its activities in the East Texas oil field.

Ickes said at a press conference that a new investigative force, the Federal Petroleum Supervisory Agency, would aid in regulating interstate shipments from the fields. He explained he had directed Glavis and the Federal Board to turn over to G. W. Van Fleet, director of the new agency, all their investigation records.

Ickes expressed belief that Federal regulation of the oil industry was necessary and vigorously approved the Thomas bill designed to set up state quotas of production of crude which reaches interstate commerce.

Senate hearings on the Thomas oil bill began today. The bill, introduced by Senator Thomas (Dem.), Oklahoma, creases a Federal petroleum board which would fix production allowables for all states.

Gov. James V. Allred of Texas and others who believe the State can control production of crude oil from the East Texas field hope the bill will be blocked in the House Interstate Commerce Committee, of which Representative Rayburn (Dem.), Texas, is chairman.

Gov. Allred learned on his arrival in Washington last night that the Texas Legislature has passed a bill making truck shipments of illegally-produced oil and gasoline a misdemeanor. William McCaw, the State's Attorney-General, commented that now "every Justice of the Peace can now stop those trucks."

Secretary Ickes in approving the Thomas bill, testifying before a Senate Mines Subcommittee. He approved interstate compacts in part, but suggested they were insufficient to cope with a problem which involves all states since they are all affected by prices for oil and gasoline.

Ickes testified only two fundamental questions were involved in the problem of legislation and said the first, concerning whether it fell within the Federal power, had been answered adequately by recent court decisions in California and Louisiana. As to its desirability, he referred to his own opinions, frequently expressed, that the industry and the consuming public needed supervision. He referred to reports of the natural resources board and other organizations, declaring that conservation of the nation's resources was necessary.

He expressed the opinion that the petroleum code and some other legislation were only temporary measures and added he thought the oil industry presented a permanent problem.

"Within certain limits, state laws governing production are invaluable, but they may not affect commerce which is beyond a state's power," he said. "This bill is no attempt at invasion of a state's rights. This is a matter of the Federal Government working in cooperation with the states."

The Railroad Crossings.
Father Divine Rejoices.
When Russia Is Rich.
Munsey's $10,000,000.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1935.)

DEEPLY grieved by the killing of many school children at a public crossing, the President plans extensive elimination of railroad grade crossings. Complete elimination of such crossings would involve spending hundreds of millions or billions. The work would be undertaken with careful concentration on the fact that railroading itself is bound to change or disappear, as far as transportation of passengers is concerned.

Railroads in the future must carry passengers more than 100 miles an hour, on light railroad equipment, able to climb steep grades as easily as automobiles do now. Elimination of grade crossings will take that into consideration and include elimination of existing sharp curves at crossings that the work may not be done twice.

A Negro preacher known to his followers as "The Rev. Father J. Divine," who is said to have told his disciples that he is literally divine, was arrested, with his principal follower, called "Faithful Mary."

In court, "Father Divine," admitted he was not "exactly" God, but something much like it. The Judge dismissed the case, which seems only just considering that "the air" is full of broadcasters that have about the same idea.

After his acquittal and release "Father" Divine enjoyed the spectacle of an old time "camp meeting" in crowded streets outside New York's Criminal Court Building. Three thousand, mainly Negroes, prayed, danced, with tears streaming down their faces, and chanted in honor of "Father" Divine. "Peace, Father; it's wonderful. He is God."

"Father" Divine, smiling, drove away "in a glittering limousine," his faithful follower, known as "Faithful Mary," sitting beside him with a very large, diamond ring.

"Faithful Mary" testifies that only three years ago she was, in her own words, a "tubercular, gin-soaked woman of the streets, weighing less than 100 pounds." Her present prosperity and weight are quoted as proof of "Father" Divine's supernatural power.

The United States just now is full of interesting personalities of this kind, on and off the air.

How rich will the Russians become, with their energetic development of national resources—all over Russia and far into Arctic regions?

And what will be the effect on Communism, Bolshevism and the proletariat, when Russia becomes, as it may, the richest nation on earth, and those who rule Russia become the world's richest men, perhaps the first multiple billionaires in history?

Expeditions sent into the Arctic have discovered coal, nickel, zinc, tin, copper, gold and oil, all inside the Arctic Circle.

A regular line of freight ships has been established through the Northwest passage, gigantic ice breakers going ahead of the freighters. Already Russia produces three times as much gold as the United States. What will be the psychological effect on Communism when Russia produces more gold than any other nation on earth?

Many years ago a noted editor used to say to this writer, "Brisbane, if you ever get any money, which you never will, you will find that your opinions will change."

To the present bosses of Russia it may be said truly, that when they become billionaires, which they surely will, their opinions will probably change.

Russia does not possess all the energy, by the way. The Rockefellers, through Standard Oil, have long since developed oil wells inside the Arctic Circle. They are too far for profitable pipe lines, yet, but the oil is there, waiting, in case of need.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York reports that, as residuary legatee of the late Frank A. Munsey, it will receive about $10,000,000; largest single benefaction in its history.

It is to be hoped that Munsey's ghost will be allowed to return and look at the beautiful pictures that his money will buy for the public's education; also that the ghost will be able on such trips to realize how much good it did when on earth by combining or killing newspapers that were better dead.

If you love your British cousins, rejoice. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, says British income taxes will be cut, because British finances show a substantial surplus. That surplus ap-

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

SO NOW it's spring, tra-la! Here come the violets and primrose, flinging their fragrant foam over the black sod. And with them, worse luck, all the creeping, crawling, buzzing, biting army of blights. Beetles, cutworms, slugs—ugh!!—what nasty things they are! Remind you of some humans, don't they?

Elsie Robinson

Human meanies in their infinite variety — how many times they've snipped or smeared your most blossomy moods! Busybodies — mumbling martyrs and bellowing bullies — professional self-pityers — naggers — sly, snoopy males — spiteful females — smug smarties of either sex—what queer creatures they all are! And how, you wonder, do they get that way?

They look and act, most of them, like regular people. They're bright, attractive, capable. They seem to have fair enough breaks. Then what's wrong? Why aren't they happy: And — what's more important — why won't they let anyone else be happy? Why do they continually exude a sort of sourbug atmosphere that taints every situation?

Warped Lives.

What's the Secret Sorrow all about? You can't for the life of you, discover. Seemingly, they are in the best of health, with luck as good as the average. Yet five seconds after you meet them you know that Something's Wrong. Some vague but vast Injustice has warped their lives, and they have endless ways of bringing the fact to your attention.

Right in the midst of a swell time they'll do the darndest things! In fact, the sweller the time, the darnder the things! Suddenly, just as everyone else is ha-ha-ing hilariously, they'll go dumb. Moody as a broody hen. Slink off by themselves, letting out sighs like the belch of a blast furnace. Or go high hat . . . smiling to themselves in that secret, snooty way that's guaranteed to make everyone else feel like a phony nickel. Or maybe blow up. Get frightfully insulted. Or—just for variation — Become Ill, so everyone else has to stop playing and fuss over 'em.

But why? Who's hurt them? What ails them? Nothing and nobody, partner. The Meanie has no real grudge or grief. He's neither mad nor sad. He acts that way simply because he's AFRAID. Afraid of what? AFRAID OF BEING IGNORED. Nor is this fear as unreasonable as it seems.

There is one thing which every human needs as much as he needs air, water, food. And that is—SELF EXPRESSION. A place in the sun. Applause and attention. What's life all about? Why do we work and worry, struggle and sacrifice? That's why—because we want to put ourselves on record. A perfectly normal and necessary desire—and there are countless healthy ways of achieving it.

BUT—and here comes the joker—ALL THESE WAYS DEMAND HARD WORK. And there are many humans who are too lazy or cowardly to pay such a price for self-expression. Yet nature clamors as loudly for self expression in them as in heroes or saints. So what? If they can't make the grade by fair means, they do it by foul—hence the swarming army of pesty, parasitic humans, neurotics and meanies.

A Meanie isn't mean just for the love of meanness. He's mean because it gives him NUISANCE VALUE. He achieves importance by pestiness rather than by pluck or perseverance. Too sluggish to work, too timid to take risks, too stingy to throw his life into the pot with the rest of the gang, he yet manages to gain the attention he craves by sneers, sulks, sobs, whines, wheezes and general contrariness.

So what? So leave him alone! For the more he bewilders or exasperates the Other Fellow, the better the Meanie is pleased. Black Looks ar laurel wreaths to such cantakerous creatures!

Detail Makes the Motion Picture

HOLLYWOOD, April 15.

"SLEEPING CAT. Must," one of a thousand notations scribbled in his notebooks, is cryptic to the world but shorthand to that important underling, the assistant director.

The assistant director — anonymous hero of a thousand and one nights in Hollywood — becomes the man of the hour by virtue of a single asset—the little black book he always carries.

The record of every irregularity that occurs during the filming of a picture, the tablet whereon are inscribed the ten commandments of production, the minutes of each day's shooting—the little black book is an impartial chronicle of film history, a commentary on Hollywood and its people.

The Little Black Book.

On the day that Darryl Zanuck decided to film "Cardinal Richelieu," with George Arliss in the title role, Ben Silvey's little black book came into being on the Twentieth Century lot. Now that this photoplay is in finished form and awaiting its release at the Radio City Music Hall this week, a glance at Silvey's jottings may not be untimely.

On the first page, heavily underlined in red crayon, are the words: "Miter understudy." They tell a story. During the final week of production, Zanuck, who is a stickler for accuracy in historical pictures, invited two high church dignitaries to watch the filming of an important scene in "Cardinal Richelieu," expressing the hope that they would find nothing amiss.

The churchmen happened on the set during a rehearsal in which Arliss's stand-in (one of those doubles found only in Hollywood) was to pass majestically through the court of Louis XIII, nodding graciously to those he recognized.

At the last moment it was discovered that the stand-in's costume—a replica of that worn by Arliss—was incomplete. The miter, the cardinal's elaborate head-dress was missing. An assistant telephoned to the wardrobe department and learned that the only miter available was that which Arliss was wearing. The wardrobe department promised to send another hat along the same lines, one that would cast the same shadow.

Which explains why the visiting churchmen watched, with a good deal of amazement, Arliss' understudy marching regally toward the cameras wearing the beautiful vestments of Cardinal Richelieu—topped off by a rakish Turkish fez! That was one for the black book which Silvey will not soon forget.

Less of a catastrophe was the beauty shop erected on the set to minister to the needs of 200 extra players and recorded in the assistant director's book as "Beauty shop: Male. 200 curling irons."

In the days when Richelieu flourished, a man was hardly a man unless he sported a beard, a luxurious mustache and a handful of curls.

To remedy a natural deficiency, Zanuck established the world's largest beauty parlor for men. It was presided over by a host of experts, who supplied the needed touch to face and head—without charge or barber shop waits.

Item No. 3 in the Silvey production diary, "Sleeping cat (must)," refers to a casting problem which was still unsolved the day "Cardinal Richelieu" went before the cameras. Rowland V. Lee, director, requiring a cat to act as Arliss' pet, conferred with the casting department and specified that certain comatose characteristics were desirable. "Cats are the most difficult of all creatures to work with," he explained, "and the best feline actor is one that sleeps. Get me a sleeping cat."

This, as it turned out, was no easy assignment. Dozens of cats were exhibited to Lee, but most of them proved unusually alert. Finally, Mrs. Zella Cavenagh, of Beverly Hills, appeared at the studio carrying on her arm what appeared to be a rather dowdy fur piece. It was Tige, which slept through his interview, slept through his tests and which may be sleeping yet. Anyway, he got the job.

Silvey's black book yields other instances of victory and defeat, promise and fulfillment. But he's saving them for a rainy day in Hollywood.

Problems of Social Usage When Dining

A Cup Is Never Served on Larger Plate Without Its Saucer.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

IS it never permissible to serve a cup without its saucer on a larger plate, which is ample enough to hold both cup and refreshments? This would seem to simplify service and make the guests' afternoon less tedious.

Emily Post

Answer: A cup without its saucer is as unsuitable as a stocking worn without a shoe. Even if there are no small tables on which people can put down their tea plates as well as their cups and saucers, then the cup on its saucer can be put on an ordinary sized plate which leaves space for food. But at thousands of teas, and for no one knows how many years, people have managed their tea perfectly well with a cup and a saucer in one hand and a sandwich or a piece of cake in the—other, or on the rim of the saucer. After all, one is not supposed to eat a plateful of food at a tea.

Dear Mrs. Post: The other day I lunched with friends and when the maid brought in the finger bowls one of the ladies removed her bowl and doily to the table. No one else followed her example except the hostess and I still can't understand why either of them did this. Perhaps you know.

Answer: This was a perfectly natural gesture—done without paying attention as to whether fruit was to be served—in which case, had she taken any, it would have been necessary to remove the finger bowl. And in the second case, had the hostess used what is known as double service, the finger bowl is always removed to the table and the dessert eaten on its matching glass plate. The hostess probably removed her finger bowl absentmindedly, but it is possible, if the guest was so self-conscious that she could have been upset by anything so trifling, that the hostess followed suit to avoid the chance of letting her feel embarrassed.

Dear Mrs. Post: Several times lately I have had guests who took their dinner napkins into the living room for after-dinner coffee. I have never before seen or heard of this practice and wondered if perhaps I have not kept up with the ever-changing times.

Answer: I have never heard of this before, and I can't imagine what they intended doing with them! If you ever find out, I wish you'd tell me.

Heavy Cleaning Cloths

It is a shame to discard those heavy woolen cloths you have been using for floors just because they are badly soiled; they are too hard to replace. Soak them for an hour in hot water in which sal soda has been dissolved, allowing three tablespoons soda to one gallon of water. Stir the cloths ever so often with a stick. Remove and wash in hot suds as usual, rinsing in hot water. You will find them as good as new.

Candles in Warm Weather

Warm weather is on the way and it is well to remember a coat of white varnish over the candles for table use will prevent the grease from running down the sides and from bending into ugly shapes while burning. It will help a great deal in having attractive candles during the "melting" season.

FRISBY MAKES SURPRISE MOVE

Will Thwart Enemies by Assuming Dual Personality

WASHINGTON. — Congressman Horace W. Frisby today announced a new move, startling in its daring, to clarify national issues now before the people of this country. "Since early this a. m.," says the Congressman, "I have been quietly collecting the calumnies, vicious vituperations and outright fibs that have lately been directed toward yours truly. It is my purpose to run through these carefully and cull out the worst my enemies have been able to say about me when out of earshot. I will then ask for radio time over some handy national network to deliver this material in a scurrilous and underhanded attack upon myself. In the name of fair play, I will then demand that I be given equal time over the same hook-up to answer these vile accusations made by myself, which, as a matter of fact are without foundation.

pears in spite of the fact that Britain is adding more than $52,000,000 to the cost of armaments.

Your satisfaction in this good news may be increased by your knowledge that the United States had the pleasure of financing the surplus and the additional armaments to the tune of $5,000,000,000 in war debts, not paid.

Senator Wheeler of Montana has introduced a bill ordering the national Government to take over, own and operate, the railroads of the nation, beginning Jan. 1, 1936. There is no doubt that railroad stock and bond holders would say "amen" if they could be sure of getting a fair price for their property. Railroad management, naturally, would grieve. To give up power is always unpleasant.

A Precarious Time to Force Partner's Bi

West	North	East	South
1 Di.	Pass	2 Cl.	Dbl.
Pass	2 Sp.	Pass	Pass
Dbl.	Pass	Pass	Pass

I would criticise South for bidding two spades when he was both vulnerable and mashed in between two bidders, but the double . . . What if North had bid hearts on four to the nine spot?

The play was fairly automatic. East opened the king of diamonds and shifted to a low club. West took with the ace, returning the ace of diamonds and a third round of the suit, which East ruffed. East cashed the king of clubs—not the best play. A jack of hearts shift will set the contract 200 points. Even at this point it was not too late, but East played back a low heart. North ducked the trick completely in dummy and West went up with the king.

Two diamonds, a ruff, three spades, two clubs and a heart set North, who was more or less acting the part of an innocent bystander, 1400 points. She got off cheaply.

It was pointed out by North and South that we could have made a small slam at either clubs or no trumps, as the cards lie, but I refuse to bid such slams. Game we would have reached. I guarantee that. And it would probably have been a three no trumps game. Seventy-five per cent of our games were played at that contract. Why should this hand have been an exception?

The Bears Find A Rocking Horse For a Play Thing

By Mary Graham Bonner

WILLY NILLY had fixed up his place while the ducks had been away on their trip, and now that they were back and had plenty to do in spring cleaning their pond and talking about the trip, Willy Nilly thought he would have time to attend to his sticking-out, pointed ears.

The lamb had found a pleasant field in which to play and rest. Top Notch was busy keeping his general store in order and waiting on his bird customers. Christopher Columbus Crow was doing a bit of thinking about fields soon to be planted, and the bears were off on marketing trips every day.

He was just about to start for the next village when Jupiter Bear came running heavily along.

"Willy Nilly, Willy Nilly," he called, "while we were taking a long, long walk around the next village we saw an old dump and in it were some parts of automobiles and a rocking horse."

"We don't want the parts of the automobiles, but we'd love to have the rocking horse. You know how we bears love to play. Won't you get it for us? It has been thrown away, honestly and truly."

Willy Nilly could hardly refuse the bear sthis pleasure when he had taken the time to build a boat for the ducks. He walked along with Jupiter Bear and saw the rocking horse lying in a dump.

CROSS STITCH DOG AND CAT PATTERN 937

WHO could resist this appealing kitten and droll wire-haired puppy? Cross stitch in various colors and shades makes them stand out most realistically. The crosses are 8 to the inch and so are easy to embroider. The heads make a charming pair of pictures or pillows; they are a subject that is most popular today. Do them in wool or silk on a light or dark background.

Pattern 937 comes to you with a transfer pattern of a dog's head 7x7 3-4 inches; and a cat's head 5 3-4x7 inches; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches needed; a color key.

Send 10 cents in stamps or coins (coins preferred) for this pattern to St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York, N. Y.

Some Simple Ways To Keep Good-Looking

By Edna K. Forbes

THE woman who works in an office or a shop all day, or who runs her own small business, no doubt wishes that there were, somewhere, two or three clear methods for keeping herself good-looking, and two or three simple things to use for it. Even analyzing the vast variety of beauty preparations takes time—and how will she know she is right? Having purchased one cream, she finds the superior claims of another set forth, and wishes she could begin all over again. Or she gets discouraged and buys that simple and blessed affair called an "all-purpose" cream, and lets it go at that.

Well, here are the methods and here are the creams set forth; you need not worry further. You must first of all cleanse; second, do something to stimulate the skin, bring up the blood; third, something to nourish and soothe the skin. That is all there is to that.

You cleanse with the finest liquifying cream you can buy, or else with a fine mineral or vegetable oil. Or if you have an oily skin, you cleanse with a trace of cream and wash this off with soap and water, rinsing with warm water.

You apply a circulation ointment, or an oil for the same purpose, to bring up the blood. If you want to skip this step, make that warm rinse very warm indeed, in fact, hot, and hold the face cloth over your skin for some time, dousing it again and again with hot water, until the face is flushed quite red.

Then you nourish, with any one of many excellent tissue, massage or nourishing creams (they mean the same thing) that are on sale in the shops. If you treat your face at bedtime, leave on some of the cream, if you plan to go out after this treatment, wipe off this cream with tonic or cold water and use a foundation cream under your face powder.

NOVELTIES FOR EASTER -:- -:- By SYLVIA STILES

A TOY Easter rabbit no longer can rely upon a fluffy coat and a pink neckband for popularity. Complete outfits are necessary before it can shine in the Easter parade, and certain points of fashion must be considered.

Any little girl who gets a new bunny as a gift will study its clothes before she passes her approval. A small boy, also, may be critical as to the cut of trousers or the set of a hat of his Easter pet. Even when it comes to a painted reproduction of this cunning animal, there are color and style rules to be observed if Young America is to be satisfied.

Ducks and chickens also receive their share of attention if they are attired in the latest manner. Their bonnets must follow the vogue set by our leading hat designers and their dresses must be made of style-right materials. Accessories, likewise, are significant whether the toy animal is dressed to suit a girl's or boy's approval.

One very wise duck that is a Beau Brummel of the season has some articles of attire that makes one think he is copying the Weather Bird. He wears a flashy waistcoat and a derby hat and he carries an umbrella. A watch chain is one of the impressive features of his garb, looming up majestically on his rotund front.

Another Easter specimen, this one a rabbit, takes his clothes inspiration from the David Copperfield era. A color scheme of tan, brown and yellow is carried out consistently from ears to toes. A high brown hat, a plaid waistcoat, finished with brown velvet collar and cuffs, grosgrain tie and pale yellow fannel trousers are among the reasons why he is destined for great popularity.

Another hero of the Easter season is dressed in the colorful costume of a bell-boy. His coat is bright blue, his trousers red and he displays a multitude of brass buttons. Not all of the favorites are citified, however, a farm boy garb being one of the most frequently noted in retail store displays. Overalls and a calico shirt are quite cleverly conceived as is a ragged straw hat.

The belle of the Easter promenade among the rabbits, ducks and chickens is demurely sweet. Her piquant bunny face sets off to advantage a quaint straw bonnet. A net ruffle frames her face while wide organdie ties are fastened under her chin. Her pale pink organdie dress has puffed sleeves. The skirt is quite bouffant and caught up naively at one side with a cluster of old-fashioned flowers. There is a dust ruffle underneath, but it fails to conceal the ruffles of her pantaloons. Ears are lined with brown to match the brown feet. For fear it might rain and the color scheme be spoiled, Miss Rabbit carries an umbrella.

Terry cloth is the stuff of which Easter animals for the tiny tots are made, but it is dressed up with novel decorations. A shirt of dotted chintz, for example, is of very bright hue, but it is no more attractive than a frock of dainty dotted swiss which a rival wears. Pique, linen, dimity and organdie are other fabrics used so often that they must be quite in vogue.

Perhaps the most artistic and appealing of all the fashionable folk in the Easter animal kingdom are the tiny twin bunnies in their bassinet. All of the appointments which one would expect to find for twins of royalty are included. The bassinet is ruffled and beribboned in color schemes of red and white, green and white, or pink and white. The twins are of very fine white plush.

In every collection on display there are similar evidences of fashion appeal, quite sufficient to convince that clothes make the toy this Easter season. Of second importance is the tempting assortment of candy and other tidbits which accompany most of these playthings. The little animals may be all dressed up, but they are beasts of burden just the same. Some pull wagons heavily loaded with sweets. Others tote bright-colored and bulging watering cans filled with Easter eggs. A very practical rabbit is a checked gingham costume is laden with spools of thread and needles, and has that myrtered expression which indicates that, although stuck with a hundred pins, it wouldn't utter a sound.

Cookies, candy and even tea are carried by some china rabbits, the one entrusted with the beverage turning itself into a tea pot like an Alice-in-Wonderland character.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

Dear Mrs. Carr:

"UNIVERSITY GRADUATE" has expressed my very feelings. She says she is a young married woman, whereas, I have been married happily 14 years. I wonder if something might ever mar my happiness, although this never entered my mind until two months ago, when I observed it happening to very close friends of mine—a couple in our crowd.

Like "University Graduate's" husband, this man was also thrown with many women, but their influence had not touched him; then, all of a sudden, his ideals were thrown to the winds. He had attractiveness and the necessary prestige and success in business. He also has the kind of wife who makes a real home (too loyal, if you ask me). But there is one thing she lacks and that is the courage to try to find some other interests.

Blame it on the "foolish forties" if you will. But what can be the opinion of right thinking people of these girls who go with married men?

I WONDER.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Carr:

COULD you tell me where we can get the words to "La Cucaracha"

R. R.

Most of these songs you can get in the music stores or music departments of the department stores.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM collecting old songs and hope you will print this letter: If anyone has the story of the train wreck which inspired the writing of the "Wreck of the '97" and the story of "Casey at The Bat," also the story of the engineer immortalized in "Billy Rickard's Last Ride," I would appreciate it very much if such information could be mailed to me. I am willing to exchange data on songs or to give the words of any I have.

THOMAS T.

I am sorry I have not space to list all the songs you wish and those you are willing to exchange; but should you care to send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I will mail you any replies you may have and you can then exchange detailed information.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WILL you please send me the address of the lady who wants to give away plants and flowers?

A FLOWER LOVER.

I can only send addresses of this kind when a self-addressed, stamped envelope is inclosed. I have already had more than 150 answers to this kind offer and have already sent more than can be accommodated; so I shall just have to hope for better luck, for those who are disappointed, next time.

* * *

Dear Martha:

I WAS just wondering if any of your readers could tell me where I could buy some rich black dirt. I want it for pot plants not for the garden. They could let me know through your column.

DAILY READER.

You would find it more satisfactory, I believe, to ask a florist. I cannot print the names of people who buy and sell things, in the column. There are gardens, places out on country roads and other outlying districts which provide this kind of soil.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WILL you tell me what I could use to dye gray hair black, so that it would not look badly?

MRS. I. H.

There are many commercial dyes, but none, so far as I have observed, that do not "look badly." It seems to me women are doing less and less hair-dyeing; gray or white hair is considered quite distinguished and better suited to the face which is no longer young.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM going to entertain a bridge club of 12 girls on a Sunday afternoon in the future. I am rather undecided what to wear, not knowing what would be best. Would you suggest hostess pajamas, street or afternoon dress?

DOROTHY L.

If your club has been in the habit of entertaining rather formally, wear a formal type of afternoon dress (Sunday night dress). If the entertaining has been simple, wear a street dress or an afternoon dress which is about street length.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Carr:

FROM time to time, you no doubt receive requests from newcomers to St. Louis, or other persons to direct them to a group of young persons with whom they may meet on a common ground, and become acquainted.

Anyone who may be interested in riding a bicycle with a group of young men and women (over 18 years of age) on Sunday mornings, and whom you will recommend to us, is welcome to ride with us as our guest, and will be well treated and given every opportunity to become acquainted and feel at ease.

Cordially,
FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT CYCLING CLUB,
4101 Botanical avenue.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I WANT to say a few words to "Just Another Nut" and others, too. Perhaps if I tell them a little about myself, it might help them to be more contented.

I am a crippled girl and I used to be so discontented because I couldn't use my hands right, couldn't walk right, couldn't talk right. But now since I have been reading Mrs. Carr's column, I've learned contentment and to be thankful that I have a good mind, good hearing and good eyesight. We are on relief and sometimes the going gets pretty hard, but still I am thankful to have food to eat.

I want to say to these people:

Have a hobby and forget yourself. The way to do it is by watching others, writing a little poetry, listening to the radio, reading. So, friends, be thankful for everything you happen to have: work, play, books, music, health, life, old friends, anything which our dear God sends us.

I AM.

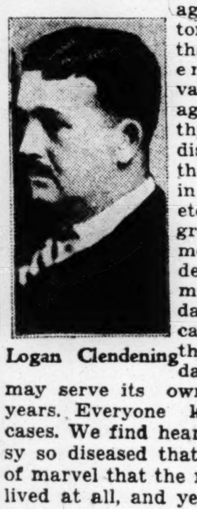
Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

Final Test in A Diagnosis Is Measurement

Exactness Has Increased as New Instruments Are Adopted.

By
Logan Clendening, M. D.

THE final step in summing up the diagnosis of a particular individual is to try to decide what his functional capacity is. Most diagnosis is anatomical. We say that the heart is enlarged, the valves are damaged, or that the thyroid gland is diseased, or that there is a stone in the kidney, etc., but the greatest refinement comes in deciding how much work this damaged organ can do. We know that a badly damaged heart may serve its owner for many years. Everyone knows of such cases. We find hearts at an autopsy so diseased that it is a matter of marvel that the man could have lived at all, and yet he did, doing a fair amount of work.



Logan Clendening

The decision as to this functional capacity, or, in other words, this physiological diagnosis, has depended in the past largely upon the clinical judgment and experience of the physician, but we are finding methods of exact measurement which bid fair to be increasingly important. Measurement is the final test of science, and no science made much growth until it began to have standards of measurement.

Thus, I received the other day, the report of the young army surgeon who took care of Napoleon at St. Helena during his last illness. He records that the Emperor's body beat was high or low, but he gave no exact measurements because the clinical thermometer had not yet been perfected.

Clinical medicine has been borrowing instruments from the physiological laboratory for the purpose of making these more exact measurements of functional capacity. One of the first that we borrowed was the blood pressure apparatus. Another recent one was the apparatus for measuring basal metabolism. Basal metabolism is the total energy exchange of the body, and is measured by the amount of oxygen which it consumes per square area of body surface. We have found, especially in activity of the thyroid gland, that the basal metabolism is high, and that when it degenerates the basal metabolism is low. This is true because the thyroid is the regulator of energy exchange.

Another method of physilogic examination is that of the irregularities of the pulse and the integrity of the conduction system of the heart muscle. This is done by a very delicate indicator of galvanic electricity called the "electrocardiograph." A tracing of the heart's action can be made upon a roll of photographic film so that an extremely good idea of what is taking place inside the heart can be obtained.

By still other methods, more or less chemical in nature, we are able to judge the functional capacity of the kidneys, and of the liver.

Just the Thought.

No matter how small the gift, take some little thing along with you when you call on the sick person. It may only be a jar of jelly or preserve, but it will help break the monotony of the invalid's day.

A Poor Finish to Clothes

Many laundresses do not iron their clothes dry and this results in easily creased garments that look unsightly after one wearing. Do not dampen the clothes so wet that it is difficult to iron them absolutely dry.

WOMEN do like frosted cakes. Perhaps they like them because men like to eat them. The rather new method of baking cake and frosting together is evidently in high favor. This frosting is spread on the cake just before it goes into the oven. It does not, of course, take the place of the thick, fluffy frosting one frequently prefers for a cake. But it is good, attractive, not very sweet or rich, and is advantageous because it is easy to make.

Baked Chocolate Icing

One-half cup light brown sugar.
Two tablespoons cocoa.
One-fourth cup nuts, chopped.

Beat egg white until stiff, but not dry. Beat in the light brown sugar gradually, then follow with the cocoa, just as in making meringue. Spread over cake batter in pan ready for baking, and sprinkle nuts over top. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). This makes three-fourths cup of icing.

The length of baking time will vary with the kind of cake. Cup cakes or a shallow loaf cake will bake in about 20 to 25 minutes. Because of the delicate chocolate topping, it is best not to use this frosting on a cake requiring longer than 30 minutes of baking time.

Spicy apple butter gives a great deal of character to a filling recommended for use on gingerbread or spice cake.

Apple Butter Filling

One-half cup apple butter.
One cup whipping cream.

Combine nuts and apple butter. Whip cream until stiff and fold in other ingredients. This makes enough filling for one 9-inch layer cake.

Carrot Icing

One-eighth teaspoon cream of tartar.
One-half cup carrots, grated.
Two egg whites.

Combine sugar, cream of tartar and water. Bring to a boil, wiping all sugar crystals from sides of pan. Cook syrup to 230 degrees F. or until it spins a thread. Remove from fire, add grated carrots and allow to come to a full boil again. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Pour syrup slowly into beaten egg whites in a thin stream, continuing to beat until icing has thickened and will hold its shape. This recipe makes about two cups of icing or enough for the top and sides of a 9-inch double layer cake.

If undisguised lemon is your favorite among flavorings, try the easily prepared recipe for lemon meringue frosting. A little more sugar may be added for those who prefer a sweeter frosting. This frosting is spread on a freshly baked cake, and put back into the oven for an additional 15 minutes.

Lemon Meringue Frosting

One tablespoon cornstarch.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
Two egg yolks.
Grated rind of one lemon.
One-fourth cup water.
One teaspoon butter.
Two egg whites.

Mix dry ingredients in top of double boiler. Add slightly beaten egg yolks to which have been added the lemon rind and juice, and the water. Cook until thickened. Remove from heat and add butter. Allow to cool. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry, and fold into lemon mixture. Spread on warm, freshly baked cake and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 15 minutes or until meringue is browned slightly. This recipe makes enough meringue for one medium-sized loaf cake or 12 good sized cup cakes.

Nutmeg Cream Frosting

One cup granulated sugar.
One-half cup thick sour cream.
One-eighth teaspoon nutmeg.

Combine all ingredients in a saucepan and blend well. Bring to a full boil for one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and cool slightly. Beat until it thickens and becomes white. This requires long beating, about 20 minutes with an electric beater. This recipe makes sufficient frosting for one 9-inch double layer cake.

Sour Cream Prune Filling

Two eggs.
Three-fourths cup granulated sugar.
One teaspoon grated lemon rind.
One teaspoon vanilla.

Beat eggs and combine with sugar in top of double boiler. Add sour cream, chopped prunes and grated lemon rind. Cook for about 20 minutes or until very thick. Remove from heat, add vanilla, and cool before spreading on cake. This recipe makes sufficient filling for one 9-inch double layer cake.

The bisque frosting is a soft icing with a rich, nutty flavor which would appeal as a change from everyday frostings.

Bisque Frosting

One-half cup corn syrup.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
Two egg whites.
Three-fourths cup almond macaroon crumbs.
Two tablespoons brandy.

Combine sugar, corn syrup, water and salt in a saucepan and stir over a low flame until sugar is dissolved. Boil to 245 degrees F., or until mixture forms a firm ball in cold water. Remove from fire. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Pour syrup slowly into beaten egg whites in a thin stream, continuing to beat until frosting thickens. Add the macaroon crumbs and brandy. Spread on cake immediately. This makes enough icing for a 9-inch double layer cake.

Lemon Filling

Three-fourths granulated sugar.
Juice of one lemon.
Grated rind of one lemon.
Salt.
One-half square unsweetened chocolate.

Thoroughly mix cornstarch and sugar in top of double boiler. Add water gradually and stir until blended to a thin mixture. Cook, stirring continuously until very thick and clear. Remove the top part of double boiler and add egg yolk slowly, stirring constantly, until well blended. Return top to double boiler and cook one minute. Remove from the heat, add lemon juice, grated rind and salt. Cool. When cold, fold in cream which has been whipped until almost stiff, and spread on cake. Grate the chocolate over top of filling. This recipe makes sufficient filling for one 9-inch double layer cake.

The Intricate Pattern That Makes Up Life

By The Rev. J. F. Newton

LAST Summer, in London, a young Persian student attended my services at the City Temple, and we became good friends. He told me many interesting things about his country and its people.

For one thing, he told me how, when they are making a Persian carpet, or rug, they hang it up vertically on a frame. Little boys, sitting on planks at various levels, put in the colors from the wrong side.

The artist stands on the right side of the rug, giving instructions to the boys on the other side, telling them what colors to use and where. The boys simply obey, not seeing the design or pattern at all.

"But sometimes," I said, "a boy, however skillful, must make a mistake. What happens then?" I asked. "Well," he said, "quite often the artist does not make the little boy take out the wrong color. If he is a great artist, he weaves the mistake into the pattern and it is lost."

To me it seemed a kind of picture, if not a parable, of life in ourselves and in the world. There must be a design, or pattern, in the scheme of things, but we do not see it. We are on the wrong side.

Even if we did see it, we could hardly grasp or understand it. It is too vast and intricate for our little minds. At best our vision of it would be dim and distorted, and it is not our business, anyway.

All we can do is to obey instructions, as to what colors to use, putting in red when red is wanted, and white when white is asked for. Of course we make mistakes, as do other little boys working with us.

For we cannot live alone; we are subject to the ignorance, follies and mistakes of others. Nor can our mistakes be undone. But the great Artist on the other side does not let us spoil the pattern.

At last, when our day is done, and we see the tapestry from the right side, we shall find our mistakes, our calamities, our failures, and even our sins, woven into the pattern, adding to its beauty.

If we work with the divine Artist, putting our life into His plan, sometime we shall see the meaning of our busy, broken days.

Children Need Watching, But Not Excessively

By Mrs. Brooke P. Church

"I'M worried about Susan. She doesn't seem well at all, and I can't find a doctor who will really take her trouble seriously."

"Sally has something on her mind, I'm sure. She seems depressed, and in a little child it is unnatural."

"There's something wrong with Sam."

"I took Mary to the doctor again yesterday to have a thorough examination."

The gardener who pulled up his beans every few hours or days to see if they were growing, would wear himself out and in the end ruin his crops. Having chosen the best seed, and a suitable spot for it to grow in, he prepares the ground, plants the beans and gives nature a chance. The plants will need some attention later, but probably not enough to keep him awake nights. If he disturbs them too much he will hamper and dwarf their development.

Children are very much the same. They need a certain amount of watching, a certain amount of care, but not so much that they are conscious of it. There are hundreds of young mothers, who, though blessed with normal, healthy children, are lying awake nights worrying over trifles.

Children should be taken easily, in one's stride, and not forever looked at as problems. The mother who worries over every ache and pain, sees blood-poisoning in every scratch or cut, imagines inhibitions and complexes at every thwarted whim or unfulfilled desire, peddles her child about to doctors to find an ailment which is probably nonexistent, or, if it does exist, of no importance, is in a fair way to realize all her fears.

Live and let live. Half the problems which children offer, disappear if they are ignored or treated lightly.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, April 17.

ACCENT today is on relations with those older and propositions started fairly well back in the past. Dig up the old ideas. Consult old friends and advisers. Avoid causes of clashes in late afternoon. Evening neutral.

Interfering.

Whenever we interfere with the correct proportion or relationship of parts in anything, we are destroying beauty; this applies to the proper relationship between work and play; to how much a person should eat of this or that (each of us has a different set of requirements, be that difference large or small). To so interfere is among the Venus sins. Avoid them.

On Broadway

By Walter Winchell

THERE are no new Wilson Mizner anecdotes, of course. But none of his was ever tiresome. After great success at writing plays, he discovered that the film magnates considered him only so-so. And so he quit and opened a Hollywood restaurant, which clicked from the start.

Walter Winchell

"How do you account for your success in the restaurant racket?" a colleague asked him.

"I'm a success running a hash house in Hollywood," replied Mizner, "because it is easier to stick a steak into their heads than an idea."

The most recent fisticuffs reported from Hollywood recall the "inside" to the one-rounder in which Jim Tully and Jack Gilbert were featured seasons ago.

"I really didn't mean to hit him," explained Tully, "but after he missed five times, I thought it best—as he was liable to fan himself to death. So I hit him once."

Heheheh.

S. Jay Kaufman from the Hollywoods relays this Garbo yarn, which a cousin of Lew Ayres asserts is gospel.

Ayres was chosen to play the male lead opposite Greta in a picture. The first scene was a long kiss. So tepid was Garbo's lip clinch it scared Lew stiff.

Garbo let go to catch her breath and then called the director. "Plizz," she said, "be kind enoff to introduce me to diss yong man."

As Frinstance.

It was Shaw, after being poked by Mr. William Archer about his rap review on Beerbohm Tree, who countered: "What outrageous nonsense! Mr. Tree is infinitely obliged to me, for all London, it appears, is flocking to his theater to see whether he is as rotten as I said he was!"

Ouch!

Then there's the one about the swell-headed actor, who opened in a play that had scenery, a cast, stage-hands and nearly everything except an audience. He complained because the lights spelling his name weren't large enough. To argue it further, he got a ladder, took it to the marquee and climbed it to measure the size of the lettering.

A curious mob collected. "Go ahead, measure them!" yelled the manager, "but don't come down from that ladder—it's the only way you can draw a crowd!"

Incidentally.

It reminds us of the time Texas Guinan appeared at a Chicago house where she said the acoustics were grand — because she could hear the people in the very last rows knocking her.

Penalty of Fame.

Perhaps radio's severest criticism came from the lips of the late Adolph Ochs, the Times publisher, who was having another birthday, and his nephew, Col. Adler, phoned to offer his felicitations.

"Uncle," said the nephew, "I'd like to help you celebrate in a novel manner. How would you like it if I brought over Amos and Andy?"

"Amos and Andy who?" was the retort.

As If You Didn't Know.

It was Bill Nye who gave a perfect summary of most columnists when he flipped this about a contemporary: "He is indebted to his memory for his jests—and to his imagination for his facts."

ELLEN turned and fled from the scene. She wanted one thing only—to get away, to put distance, much distance, between herself and the sight of Michael. The sight of Michael and Marjorie. If she lived to be a hundred Ellen knew she would never forget that scene. Marjorie in her new spring suit, Marjorie with her hand coyly upon Michael's arm.

For hours they had been together there in the office. Michael had telephoned home. He couldn't be home for dinner—there was a stress of work. He had to work. It was the old, old alibi. So many married men have told it to so many jealous wives—yes, the old, old alibi.

BEGIN HERE TODAY:

ELLEN MALLORY married MICHAEL DALE against her mother's wishes. The first rift between the young couple occurred when Ellen went back to her job to help pay her mother's debts. The breach widened when Ellen saw Mike with MARJORIE HUTTON and was forced to believe that the gossip about them was really true. She refused to let Mike explain and went home to her mother instead. At MRS. MALLORY'S urging, Ellen filed a divorce suit, only to withdraw it when she discovered she was going to have a baby. But the half-hearted attempt to patch up their marriage hasn't succeeded even after MICHAEL JR. is born. Then Marjorie returns to town with the openly avowed purpose of winning Mike, and the news arouses Ellen's old suspicions. One night Ellen goes to Mike's office to attempt a reconciliation and there sees him—with Marjorie.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

Somehow, on the wings of despair, Ellen reached home. She was determined she would pack what she needed of her own and baby Mike's clothing. And then she would go home to Mama.

Afterward there would be time enough to decide what she could do. Plenty of time to go back to work. Plenty of time to file another divorce suit. Yes—plenty of time—in the long heartbreak of a life without the man she loved.

But of one thing Ellen was determined. Never again could she sleep under Michael Dale's roof. That part of her life was definitely over.

She had hastily packed the few things she and the baby would need when Michael came home.

Afterward Ellen knew she had been too hasty, knew that she had been unfair to her husband in almost every difference they'd had in their brief married life.

Looking back she realized that never once had they been permitted to make their own judgments—what they thought and even said to each other had been largely influenced by others.

Alone, in their own little home, unmolested by the opinions of other people, Ellen and Michael could have smoothed away the difficulties that beset their path to happiness. But they had never had that chance.

Ellen heard Michael drive into the yard. Even then, through the wild torment of jealousy that was driving her almost wild she was calm enough to wish that she might hold her tempestuous thoughts in leash. Might talk it over calmly and with reason.

But jealous people who love very, very intensely are rarely reasonable. Certainly never reasonable and jealous at one and the same time.

Ellen scarcely heard Michael open the door, turned only when he spoke, standing there in the doorway of their bedroom. Mike's voice trembled a little as he spoke. "Ellen, you—you saw?"

"Yes."

"Ellen, I came home right away. I want to explain to you. I can explain"——

"It won't be necessary, Michael. I don't want you to explain. Our marriage was headed for this. There isn't any explanation that I want to listen to."

Oh, she knew she was unfair. Fought herself to be reasonable. But the jealous memory of Marjorie would not fade.

"Ellen, you've got to listen. It isn't fair to me, it isn't fair to our child—Ellen, it isn't fair to yourself"——

"It's bad taste, Michael," Ellen said with pointed sarsasm, "for you to worry about being fair to me. If you'd wanted to be fair to me you needn't have telephoned about the work you had to do. You could just have said that you wanted to meet Marjorie Hutton. I would have understood—perhaps even better than you thought."

"Ellen, before God I had to work. I didn't know that Marjorie Hutton was coming to the office. I didn't"——

• • •

ELLEN raised her hand to silence him. "Michael, please. Must we go into all that? Perhaps it would be just as well to tell it only once—to the court."

"Then you mean—to divorce me?"

"Yes."

Michael strode across the room, stood by the little bed, staring down at the sleeping baby. "You can't divorce me, Ellen," he said at last. "You can't divorce me, Ellen. I won't let you."

"You can't stop me, Michael!" Ellen said at last. "There's no sense beating around the bush. We—we don't love each other. Everything was over—between us—long before Michael was born. I can't go on with it any longer. I want a divorce, Michael. I want my maiden name back. I want to do some of the things I've always longed to do."

"And the baby?"

Ellen looked up, startled. "Why, —why, Mike, he'll go with me. He's my baby, Mike. You couldn't—oh you wouldn't try to take him away from me?"

"He's my baby, too," Michael said slowly. "I won't fight your divorce, Ellen—if you're determined to have it I guess I can't stop you. But Michael's my child, too. I haven't done anything wrong. You can't take him away from me."

And there at that point, although the argument went on for a long time, it had to stay.

The next day Ellen took the baby and went to her mother's home. She left a note for Michael. In it she explained the conclusions at which she had arrived during the long, lonely night.

"I'll not file for divorce until you ask me to file, Michael. And when I file it will only be when you have agreed that I can keep little Michael. But I can't go on with you any longer."

It was just, as he had suspected all along, that their hasty marriage had been a mistake—a hasty, ill-timed mistake for which he had been largely responsible. And poor little baby Micheal was the real sufferer. That was the way of life, it seemed, the innocent suffer and the guilty go free, too many times.

Mama was frankly delighted that Ellen had come home. She truly loved her baby grandson and she was genuinely sincere in saying that she would be only too glad to take care of him.

"You can go right back to work, Ellen. I haven't the least doubt that the Bensons will be tickled pink to have you. I met Mrs. Benson the other day and she told me they'd been having a terrible time with stenographers. She says that you spoiled them, Ellen."

The Bensons were glad to have Ellen back. "It's just as well, Ellen," Mrs. Benson said. "I've often told Mr. Benson you were never cut out to be a wife and mother."

"No," faintly—it was interesting to hear what others thought of one. "What then?"

"Well, you're a natural born office manager. That's what you ought to do. And on the other side there's tennis. If you were a girl of mine I'd insist that you go back to your tennis. You had fame, and maybe even a fortune, right within your grasp, and you threw it away to get married to a man so good looking that the women will always be running after him."

• • •

AND Mrs. Benson grinned as she noted how her conversational shaft had struck home. Mama had suggested that she say those very things to Ellen once she got the chance and neither of the older women had guessed that the chance would come so soon.

Go back into tennis competition. The idea came like a ray of hope to Ellen.

And why not? She was desperately lonely. How splendid to do something then that would interest her thoroughly—help her to forget the loneliness that never left her.

She took to going past the school tennis courts, watching the play, and offering an occasional bit of advice to some of the youthful players who treated her as a veteran at the game and listened so respectfully that it gave her the championship thrill all over again.

It was on a later afternoon that she met Ben Milford, the football coach at the Fairhaven High School. He was a slender, good looking man of about her age and he had won honors for himself in the world of tennis.

He knew some of the national players Ellen had met. It was a pleasure to visit with him. Ellen got out her tennis togs, lovingly fingered the racquet that had won the Northwestern meet for her and diffidently challenged young Milford to a match.

Ben Milford was delighted. He had wanted to meet young Mrs. Dale, the famous Ellen Mallory who had won from a most sensational field. The match had been held in his home city. He had watched Ellen's game and gloried in it.

He told her so in no uncertain glowing terms.

"We'll have a great time," Ellen promised. "I'm fearfully out of practice but if you'll bear with me I'll get brushed up again, and will we ever play!"

Evening after evening they played. And often to a gallery. It was a joy to see Ellen's graceful swing and her face lighted with the joy of the game she loved.

Mary Dale worried about it. "I'm afraid, John," she said one night as they rode by and Dr. John parked his car for a minute. "I'm afraid that things will never again be right with the young people."

"I've thought of it often," Doctor John admitted heavily. "When Ellen was still with Mike I didn't worry so much. They're young and I thought the baby would hold them together until such a time as they both came to their senses."

"But they aren't coming to their senses, John. And I'm worried. Take Ellen there—and this young Milford—"

"They're just interested in tennis, dear. They have a lot in common.

"But that's the point, John dear. Don't you see? And Ellen's lonely—and here's young Milford—right on the job of making her forget. Oh, I tell you I don't like it, dear."

The old doctor started the car. He had healed the body of many a client. He sighed to think that no physician, other than the Great Physician, is wise enough to heal souls.

"We'll have to let the children work out their own lives, Mary," he said sadly.

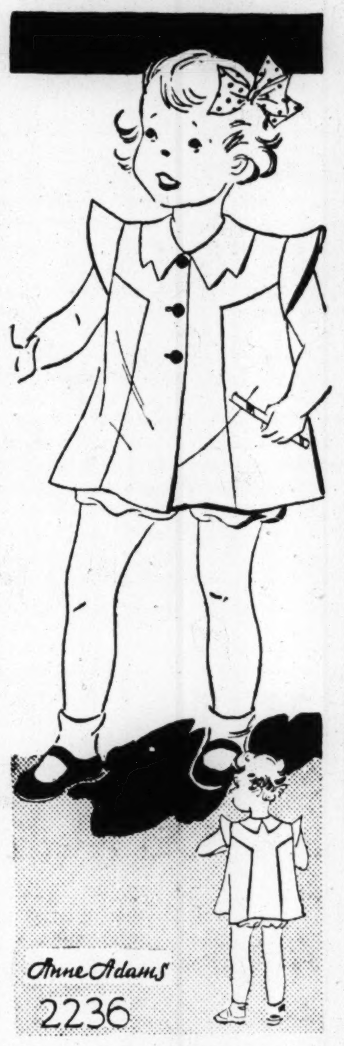
TODAY'S PATTERN



Child's Frock

HERE'S a sensible little play frock she can change into herself, little as she is! Just three buttons to do up and then a long opening to give her lots of freedom. The matching bloomers look neat and cute as her chubby legs flash about. The tidy tailored collar will stay put and the perky little flare over her shoulder is what she needs instead of a sleeve in the hot weather. Awfully simple to make and a figured percale or solid-color percale or broadcloth are the best bets fo ra dress that's due for lots of tubbings! Choose contrasting for collar sleeves for extra smartness.

Pattern 2236 is available in sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6 takes 2½ yards 36-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Why we women LONG for new RADIOS

by ESTHER LEE BRIDE

IT'S not that we're faithless creatures! Many of us have stuck to our old radio sets, loyally, for years. But we can't be blind to the fact that they are old and out-dated. We envy our friends' new sets. We read how low the prices are. We drop in at a store that carries electrical goods and hear one of the new models. Of course we want one!

Great improvements in low priced sets

The inexpensive radio of today has merits that only the very high priced sets of a few years ago could boast. Distance, for one thing. Remember how everybody on the block used to get excited if you brought in a foreign station? Now you languidly tune out Spain, if you happen to be interested in Zion City.

Reception clear and undistorted

Foreign stations not only come in. They come in brilliantly clear and undistorted. There's a new thrill in radio reception when it's like this—for those of us who get excited over foreign cities talking, right in our own living rooms. And of course this crystal clear reception is a joy for local stations. The new sets bring them in so we feel as if we were sitting in the studio.

Tone important for children's ears

Did you ever stop to think what this new beauty of tone means in your home? Children love the radio of course. No matter how carefully mothers select the type of programs children listen to, they can't protect ears from poor tone. Music, played or sung with poor tone, is bad for children's musical taste. Beautiful music, with beautiful tone, accustoms young ears to that standard and may do a lot toward forming musical taste.

Many children have their own radios

Speaking of children, do yours have their own radio, in their own room? Many mothers have found that that little extra set brings peace and harmony into the home. Tired fathers can hear their favorite dance music without encroaching on Junior's Bed Time Story, and everyone is happy. That's another reason we women want new radios.

Scatter them over the house

We want them in the plural too. The children's room isn't the only place. Having one in the kitchen is a great convenience and a pleasure. It's nice to be entertained while we're working. Besides, the kitchen is the very place to hear some of the home making programs. A radio in the bedroom and one for the car are fine. How lovely it is that prices are now so reasonable. It's not extravagant at all to talk of owning several radios.

Cost of operation is startlingly low

Nor are radios extravagant after we get them into our homes. Not in St. Louis! For here we can run a radio a whole long evening for a penny's worth of electricity. Think of going to the greatest show on earth for a penny a night! That's because

1. —In his fascinating book, "What Makes Us So Queer?" Dr. David Seabury, consulting psychologist, says, "One of the queerest things about most of us is we do not want to know ourselves." He finds we build all sorts of defense mechanisms and personality fictions in order to escape knowing our real selves. There are a lot of things about myself that I half way suspect, but I do not care to have some psychologist exploring my mind too closely for fear I might find they were the truth. We do not wish our egos punctured and this is the chief thing that keeps us from trying honestly to know ourselves.

2. —It is probably nearly all acquired. If a general love for a child were natural it would seem that, should a babe be separated from its parents at birth, and they should see it, say 10 years later, they would at once love it as much as if they had been associated all this time. Human experience is against such an assumption. Most of the love of parents and children, in all probability, comes from association.

3. —The mechanical explanation of life has mostly been developed within the past hundred years, but recently Mrs. Frances Mason has induced each of 15 eminent scientists of England and America to write an essay opposing this view and has collected them in a notable volume, "The Great Design-Order and Intelligence in Nature." These writers, all of high authority, strongly express their belief that nature has a great "purpose" and is under the guidance of a Supreme Intelligence. It has seemed to me the mechanical explanation of life has been considerably weakened in recent years. This volume deepens that impression.

Splendid for the Hair

If you experience difficulty in ridding your hair entirely of soap after a shampoo, try squeezing the juice of a lemons into the final rinse water. It will free the hair of soap suds and leave it soft and glossy.

YOU wouldn't expect an Esquimo to summer in St. Louis—so why expect it of your fur coat? Especially when LEPPERT-ROOS FUR CO., 809 Washington will store your furs safely and economically—they've a reputation for knowing how to store furs. They know just what temperature it takes to keep your pet fur coat contented during the Summer months! And incidentally, this cold storage preserves the life of the skins. And don't forget those demon moths who are just waiting to make a cafeteria out of your coat! And not only that—when you're getting your coat out for a sudden cold-spell—it's just a matter of minutes and LEPPERT-ROOS will deliver it immediately. Just call CEntral 1177 for the best in Storage Service.

THERE'S no getting around it. Those light, airy Summer colors are what we've really been waiting for since January 1st. And here are two of them as gay as Summer itself. You'll find them at GREENFIELD'S, of course. One, a two-piece dress of lacy knit design in a lovely chartreuse green. The plain high neck is fastened with beautiful prystal clips. Smart ¾-length bell sleeves and plain belt with prystal buckle complete this perfect knit frock. Priced $39.75. Then there's the one-piece boucle dress of delicate peach. A shoulder cape forms the short sleeves. It's to be had for just $29.75. And remember this—they'll see you clear through the Summer. So if you want knits that are different, go to GREENFIELD'S, Locust at Sixth.

THIS bit of news may come as a shock to you—because some of you think that I. MILLER sells only expensive shoes! But, believe it or not, that very smart "Ingenue" can be had for just $7.75 or $8.75. They're styled to please women of discriminating tastes and designed to meet the requirements of tailored or dressy shoes. Exciting Spring and Summer colors and combinations. The "Ingenue" is the star of fashion at I. MILLER'S, 823 Locust.

MAKE a "net gain" on your Spring wardrobe by investing in one of those smart net dresses we found at GARLAND'S, 410 N. Sixth St. Quite the newest thing—this blocked pattern on net—an afternoon dress in street length. This dress, with simplicity its key-note and greatest charm, is plain in back and boasts of a row of small pleats in front at the hem line. Grosgrain trims the new loose sleeves and pockets, while the grosgrain bow at the neck is held by a large pearl clip. The belt, too, is of grosgrain. May be had in navy blue or brown. Priced at $17.95 at GARLAND'S, second floor.

MRS. CORONADO has finished her Spring cleaning and redecorating and many of her rooms have been refurnished. That makes living at the HOTEL CORONADO more attractive than ever, if possible. But rent hasn't gone up any in spite of everything and you can get such very attractive rooms there for as little as $10 a month. If you've always had a mind to "live high," then the best advice we can give you is to move right now to the CORONADO HOTEL—for it's located at the highest point in St. Louis. And that is just one reason why it's an ideal Spring and Summer residence. You'll enjoy Hotel Service at it's best—and don't forget the Jug, the spot that has become St. Louis' smartest wining and dining rendezvous. Lindell at Spring.

OH, lookey, lookey what's happening! Our little pet, the GUTHRIE YARN SHOP, Chase Hotel, is about to stretch! They're opening a branch at the Saum Hotel, 1919 S. Grand—the KARN KNITTING SHOP, directed by Helen Brueggman Karn. You're invited to the tea there tomorrow from 3 'til 5, Saum Hotel. Wednesday Eve. classes—both shops, 7 to 9. Special sale on all yarns!

HERE'S something that will make the most confirmed bachelor girl think about moonlight and roses and a little cottage for two. It's timely also, what with June being just around the corner and that a wedding month. At FAMOUS-BARR CO., Lingerie Shop, you'll find these chiffon gowns. Beautifully fitted night gowns of double chiffon, in dainty shell color over cerise. Flattering low V-neck in front and back. The cerise grosgrain belt starts at the sides and ties in back. Here's something just a bit different to make you look your loveliest when you go to sleep. Priced $9.98. Then there are the gowns of satin and crepe that have tailored shirt-waist top with bias cut skirt. Lovely in ice blue, dusty rose or tearose. Priced $2.98 to $5.98. FAMOUS-BARR CO., fifth floor.

PLEASE do us a favor and don't saunter down Lindell Boulevard Easter Sunday in a perfectly charming Spring costume and a pair of glasses that look as if they were inherited from great-grandma! Because, my dear, you'll be just as obvious as a June bride with ear-muffs. Let ALOE'S help you select your glasses. They're stylists and can give you expert advice on what to wear. Be sure to see the new Z-fold oxfords. 707 Olive or 537 N. Grand.

Business Matter

By Gertrude C. Coler

ALICE KNIGHT had worked hard and well during the three years she had been in the store; and Howard Price knew that the proposed promotion would mean a great deal to her. But he framed his question with deliberate impersonality as he turned to Miss McBride, the prim and competent buyer in the glove department, leaving to take over a branch in another city.

"Do you think Miss Knight capable of managing the department?"

Miss McBride looked at him in astonishment.

"Capable? Of course she's capable."

Price temporized: "Of course as an assistant she has been pretty competent. But I doubt if she has the organizing ability; the initiative to——"

"She has both in abundance," Miss McBride broke in, her astonishment giving way to impatience. "I did not know you had so poor an opinion of Miss Knight. My reports cannot have done her justice. I have always admired her work."

"Perhaps all you say is true, Miss McBride. But of late the girl has been dreamy and absent-minded—continually abstracted. That is no mood for the head of an active department in a store as live and efficient as ours."

There was truth in that, Miss McBride knew. Miss Knight had been dreamy of late. Her mind continually wandered. But it was only a mood; and moods pass. She said as much to Price, hoping to weaken his resolve.

"Sorry, Miss McBride," he said. "My decision must be final."

It wasn't an agreeable thing to have to tell that gentle, pleasant Miss Knight that the thing she had worked so hard to achieve would be denied her.

The dreamy eyes which had been so severely criticised looked angry and not a little hurt. Miss Knight was lovely to look at; she was small and fair and graceful and the clothes she wore became her slim elegance. To look at her you'd think, perhaps, that Price was right. In manner and appearance she did not in the least suggest the head of a department.

But she had proved long ago that beauty and efficiency are not incompatible. Howard Price should know that. Often he had stood and watched her at her work for minutes at a time — she had always thought—approval in his eyes. She had never minded his watching her; had, on the contrary, liked it. His whole manner had always carried such encouragement. And now——

"Good evening, Miss Knight," he said, agreeably enough.

"Good evening, Mr. Price." There was resentment wrapped in the surface respect of employe for employer.

"You're not offended with me?" he asked after a little.

"And if I were?" The answer came very coldly. Another silence.

"You needn't be tactful, you know," he said. They were at the foot of the "L" stairs now.

"Needn't be tactful, eh?" Well, she wouldn't be.

* * *

"I happen to know of your decision on my promotion, Mr. Price," she said. "And frankly I don't understand. Don't understand your motive, I mean." she added.

"No?" He seemed not in the least perturbed.

"I earned that promotion, Mr. Price. I worked hard for it.

"Miss McBride has told you I can handle the job. Her recommendation should be enough, even without your own personal knowledge of my work. What private reason you can have—"

He smiled. "I don't see how you can handle the work."

She answered furiously: "But that's so unjust. It's precisely the sort of work I've been handling."

"You've lost your pep, Miss Knight," he said. "You've become absent-minded, dreamy; not at all your old alert self. Even Miss McBride couldn't deny that."

Alice herself couldn't deny it. She had been dreamy. She she answered him indignantly.

"There was a personal reason for that. I've got over it, and—"

He interrupted her: "Besides you won't have the time."

"Not have time?" She looked at him in astonishment. "Why, I have more time than I—"

He didn't let her finish. "You won't have from now on. You'll have to get a trousseau together, and make plans for the wedding. Then there'll be the honeymoon. Household duties, when that's over. Then—who knows—?"

"What on earth are you talking about?"

His smile was still cool as he replied: "You see—that dreaminess—I've noticed it for some time now. And I guessed the reason: You're in love, my dear."

"In—love—" she faltered.

"With me. I noticed that too. And it fits in nicely with my plans. I mean—" he grinned delightfully, "I'm in love with you, too."

"Mr. Price!"

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE TUNNEL OF THE GIANTS—The island of Torgen on the western coast of Northern Norway, is chiefly remarkable for Mount Torghatten, with its curious Tunnel of the Giants. At a height of about 400 feet, there is a natural tunnel through the mountain, which is due to the erosion of the sea waves. The tunnel is 535 feet long, 250 feet high and 56 feet wide. Its presence indicates that the sea level was formerly about 400 feet higher than it is today. The sight of this natural tunnel is one of the most imposing in nature.

Chocolate Whipped Cream Sauce

A delicious chocolate sauce that may be used for puddings or ice cream. Melt one square of bitter chocolate over boiling water, add one tablespoon melted butter and very slowly add one-third cup boiling water and one cup sugar. Bring to boiling point and then let cook over hot water for 10 minutes. Remove from fire and flavor with one teaspoon vanilla extract. Fold in one-half cup stiffly whipped cream just previous to serving.

The Palmy Days Are Back

BY ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

MOST of the nation's Mayors are trying to boon-doggle some of that eight hundred million highway money out of Secretary Wallace.

• • •

• • •

The wheedling and the wrangling is terrific. Let no one say that the name of our fair city has been tarnished by the lack of mooching.

• • •

When it comes to borrowing, every town and village is a city. It ranks first-class even if the Mayor lives in a hollow tree.
